CHARITY COAL QUIZ FIRST TASK FOR COURTNEY

Inquiry May Save State $200,000.

State's Attorney Courtney took office yesterday and today will begin an investigation into the quality of the coal being supplied to families of the idle in Chicago by seven companies that hold contracts from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

Evidence was given to Mr. Courtney yesterday that one of the contractors, F. Bieschke & Sons, 3117 North Western avenue, is delivering a cheaper grade of coal than their contract specifies. This was discovered through an investigation conducted by THE TRIBUNE and the Better Business bureau.

Cheaper Coal Satisfactory.

The investigation also disclosed that the relief commission could effect a saving of more than $200,000 in the amount spent for coal during the remainder of the winter if the present contracts were voided and the cheaper grade substituted for the Franklin and Williamson county, Ill., coal that now is specified.

Six families to whom the cheap grade of coal had been delivered were unanimous in praising it, saying it gives plenty of heat and burns readily. They were not aware of the substitution.

Instead of the Williamson or Franklin county coal, that is specified by the relief commission, the Bieschke concern has been delivering coal mined near Midland, Ind., to their charity customers, the investigation disclosed. Bieschke & Sons receive $6.23 a ton for the coal under the relief commission's contract, while Indiana coal of the type they have been delivering can be bought for about $3.30 delivered on track anywhere in Chicago, according to reputable coal dealers.

Offer 79 Cents a Ton Saving.

The coal purchased by the relief commission this winter is expected to average 60,000 tons a month, or a total of about 300,000 tons from the present through next April. A reputable coal company yesterday indicated that it would contract to supply Indiana coal of the quality that is actually being supplied by Bieschke & Sons in their territory for $5.44 a ton, or 79 cents a ton less than the price now being paid. The Bieschke contract covers the sector of the city bounded by the river, the lake, North avenue and the city limits.

The investigation of the Bieschke coal deliveries began last Friday. It was learned that three carloads of Indiana coal were on the siding at the Bieschke yards at 2640 Elston avenue, being unloaded and delivered directly to families on the relief rolls.

Shortly after noon Frank H. Lanser, director of the coal division of the better business bureau, Herman Levin, deputy inspector of weights and measures for the city sealer's office, a reporter and a photographer, found observation points in a nearby alley and watched the process of unloading the coal.

Operations Photographed.

The coal was lifted by a steam crane from three open coal cars and dumped into a large hopper. The cars were all marked with the initials C. I. and L., of the Monon route, and bore the numbers 32718, 30267 and 32763. After the crane had loaded the hopper, trucks bearing the name F. Bieschke & Sons backed up and were loaded rapidly with bags filled from two chutes.

This process was observed for two hours. Trucks arrived, were loaded, and left on their deliveries in a steady stream. The steam driven crane kept the hopper full of coal from the three cars. Numerous photographs of the operations were obtained. Before a truck could be traced, the truck crews quit for the day after driving the trucks to a garage at 3117 North Western avenue, where the Bieschke offices are located.

Witnesses Trail Truck.

The next morning the same unloading of the coal cars and loading of the trucks was resumed, and was observed by the four witnesses. After the big steel hopper had been refilled with coal from the same three cars, and a Bieschke truck bearing the Illinois state license plate 1163 E had been in turn loaded with the same coal, it was followed by the four witnesses. First it was driven to a neighboring coal yard, where the truck was weighed. The Bieschke company's scale was not in operation and Levin intended to investigate the weight of the deliveries.

The coal truck made six stops in rapid succession delivering its load. At each stop the address was obtained by the four witnesses without their

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Whatever Prof. Albert Einstein's political beliefs may be, America's consul general at Berlin believes they are not sufficient to bar him from the United States and the noted scientist will receive his visa tomorrow.

Prof. Einstein, who has been invited to the United States to pursue his scientific researches, has arranged to sail Saturday for California by way of the Panama canal.

The state department announced today that George S. Messersmith had "examined Prof. Einstein in the same manner as he would any applicant [for a passport visa] and has reached the conclusion that Prof. Einstein is admissible to the United States."

Women Tried to Bar Him.

The Woman's Patriot corporation, it was revealed here, had filed a complaint with the state department charging Einstein was inadmissible to this country "because of his affiliations with certain organizations claimed to be connected with the Communist International."

The state department, in announcing the consul's report, also made public a letter which Secretary of State Stimson had written to Roger N. Baldwin of the American Civil Liberties Union, which had protested against the move to bar Einstein. The secretary said "the department is fully aware of the distinguished reputation" of Prof. Einstein, but pointed out that it was necessary to forward the complaint to the consul general because the responsibility for issuing a visa rests with him under law.

Einstein Flops Examination.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—Prof. Albert Einstein today had the singular experience of gaining the conviction that he had flopped an examination. It was his first one since his student years but, as he terms it, the toughest one. He was examined by American consular authorities who wish to find out whether the professor was mentally, morally and politically fit to enter the United States as a visitor.

After 45 minutes of searching examination, the professor, with a disconcerted look on his face, rose to his feet and said to his inquisitors:

"Gentlemen, are you trying to kid me? Are you doing this to please yourself or are you acting upon orders from above?"

Serves "An Ultimatum."

As soon as he returned home he telephoned the American consulate and submitted what Frau Einstein termed "an ultimatum," namely that if tomorrow at noon he had not been granted a visa to enter the United States as a visitor, he would cancel the trip.

Although convinced he flopped the examination, the scientist admitted tonight that he had added several useful things to his store of knowledge. Foremost is the realization that you need a visa to enter the United States. Heretofore, the professor had been accustomed to having his trips, including all formalities, arranged by others. He therefore had requested the Hamburg-American line, on whose steamship Oakland he is to sail on Saturday, to arrange everything.

But much to his surprise he was called up this morning by the American consulate general shortly after he had come to town to start packing his bags. He was requested to come to the consulate to answer a number of questions before receiving his visa.

Einstein Says He's Busy.

The professor said he was busy and would rather have the visa sent to him but the consular authorities were insistent. He finally decided to go. His wife went along.

As Frau Einstein described it following the interview, he was courteously received and ushered into the presence of the authorities who submitted a questionnaire, asking questions which all visitors to the United States must answer. It soon became evident that Einstein had not prepared his lesson well.

"What is your political creed?" was the first question.

The professor gave a blank stare and then burst out laughing.

"Well," he said after a while of hard thinking, "I don't know. I can't answer that question."

"Are you a member of any organization?" the inquisitors proceeded. Einstein ran his hand through his ample hair, turning to his wife for assistance.

"Oh, yes," he exclaimed with ob-

A special police squad raided a basement hangout at 2034 West Chicago avenue last night, arresting eight men and confiscating liquor, beer, guns, and some equipment said to be designed for the manufacture of bombs. The place raided had been operated in the guise of a ward Democratic club, but in reality, police asserted, was the headquarters for the Capone syndicate's northwest side division.

The raid revealed the existence of a new police detail known as the "hoodlum squad," which was formed about two weeks ago by Commissioner James Allman at the direction of Mayor Cermak.

War on All Hoodlums.

The mission of this special detail, it is said, is to harrass and drive out of Chicago all known hoodlums. The detail will coöperate with the new state's attorney, Thomas J. Courtney, who was inducted into office yesterday. Mayor Cermak and Commissioner Allman refused to discuss the intended operations of the squad last night, but it was indicated elsewhere that the detail is to act without bombastic heraldings and to make arrests and raids as the occasions arise.

Last night's action was the "hoodlum squad's" first major move. Without warning, Sergt. James Walsh and Detectives John Ahearn, Edward Hayes, and Henry Kriestan smashed into the basement rendezvous.

Raiders Block Escape.

The men inside broke for cover, but had no chance to escape. The detectives scattered throughout the place. They found two guns, six pints of bourbon, six barrels of beer on tap, seven five gallon cans of alcohol, and some apparatus which Sergt. Walsh said looked like devices for making of hand grenades or "scare bombs." Some material which might be an explosive also was found, but police could not say for certain.

The prisoners were taken to the North Racine avenue station. They identified themselves as J. Kolar, J. Perkins, John Divini, Charles Bucketti, John Schmidt, Irving Stern, John Ness, and John Pargo, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pargo, live up stairs above the hangout.

Pony Refuses to Wait for Rescue; Kicks Self Free

Peter Peterson, 3802 Cottage Grove avenue, motorman on a Stony Island avenue street car, slapped on his brakes too late last night as a pony galloped out of a prairie near 92d street onto the car tracks. The pony was knocked down and pinned beneath the front of the street car. Motorman Peterson telephoned for a fire department rescue squad. Then, as he and several passengers attempted to comfort the imprisoned animal the pony kicked his way free, scrambled to his feet, and galloped back into the prairie, apparently unhurt by his experience.

BARKING OF DOG PROVES UNDOING OF MRS. FORBES

A barking dog conspired with police this morning to effect the capture of Mrs. Jeanette Forbes, 40 years old, an escaped prisoner from the women's reformatory at Dwight, Ill.

Sergt. Ray Crane and his squad went to that address. No, Mrs. Forbes wasn't at home, the husband informed them. James Blankholm, the landlord, gave the same answer. Sergt. Crane and his men were about to depart when suddenly they heard the excited yelp of an alert dog in the back yard. The detectives raced to the back. The dog still barked. The missing prisoner wasn't to be seen until, by accident, Sergt. Crane looked upward.

"You've spoiled my plans," lamented Mrs. Forbes tearfully. "I just came back to Chicago to do my Christmas shopping."

Sergt. Crane believed her story, for Mrs. Forbes is now serving time for shoplifting.

Woman Robbed of Money and Gems in Her Garage

Mrs. Anna Silvers, 40 years old, wife of an egg merchant, was held up by two men as she was putting her car in the garage in the back of her home at 811 South Albany avenue this morning. They took $12 and three rings which she valued at $1,600.

Jap Destroyer Capsizes; 105 of Crew Perish

TOKIO, Dec. 6 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The navy office announced today that the destroyer Sawarabi, struck by a storm 100 miles off northwest Formosa late Monday, was found drifting upside down today and that 105 members of the crew apparently lost their lives.

Sixteen survivors had been taken from the waters by rescue ships, one of them dying later, and the navy office said there were no signs of any other survivors. The ship, it said, apparently had capsized.

Pick Up Survivors.

Survivors were picked up by three sister ships of the Sawarabi in the destroyer flotilla. The navy officer ordered the cruiser Tatusta, four other destroyers, and the airplane carrier Notoro from Sasebo naval base to join in the search. The commander of the Mako naval base sent the cruisers Isuzu and Kitakami to the scene.

The Sawarabi, accompanied by her sister ships, Sanaya, Kuretake and Wakatake, left the Kure naval base Dec. 3 en route to the Mako base. The destroyers encountered heavy seas Monday afternoon. The Sawarabi was in distress shortly thereafter, and was rolling heavily in the high seas when the other ships lost sight of her in the darkness.

Ship Captain Perishes.

Three officers were among the survivors, but the captain of the ship, Lieutenant Commander Kengo Kadota, was lost. Naval men said that the scene of the disaster was known as "the sailor's death trap" because of frequency of storms and that a northeast monsoon was blowing there practically all autumn and winter.

The Sawarabi was listed at 820 tons, her speed at 31½ knots, and she was completed in 1923.

COLD WAVE AND SNOW FORECAST BY WEATHER MAN

A cold wave from the frozen plains of Canada, which has already advanced into the Missouri river valley, is scheduled to reach Chicago late tonight or tomorrow, according to the official weather forecaster.

Rain is promised for the early part of today and snow by night. Snow flurries are looked for tomorrow, with temperatures much lower. Yesterday was mild for the season. The mercury climbed above the 40 mark and remained there throughout the day. The highest temperature recorded was 48. 9 p. m. A normal average for the day is 32 degrees.

Pay U. S. Debt, Grand Council of Italy Votes

ROME, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The grand council of Fascism, presided over by Premier Mussolini, tonight recommended that Italy pay the entire $1,245,437 due the United States Dec. 15 on the war debt. The recommendation is tantamount to a government pronouncement.

The council, which is Mussolini's highest consulting body, at the same time recommended that upon payment of this sum the Italian government initiate negotiations for a new accord before June 15, when Italy's next principal payment was due.

The Italian payment due this month represents no principal but merely the interest due on its debt.

Refers to Italy's "Rights."

The council said a new accord should be based "on the recent declarations" of President Hoover and President Elect Roosevelt and should take into account Italy's present situation and "rights."

The council's decision came after the duce, Finance Minister Jung, and former Finance Minister De Stefani addressed the body. This was the third successive night session of the council at which the debt question was discussed.

The government preferred to remain silent after the other meetings, leaving Italy's attitude unrevealed, while England, France, and other countries moved for postponement.

The council's decision was expressed in a communique which said payment should be made "as long as nothing interferes." While this appeared as a form of reservation, the wording indicated it was meant only as a safeguard and did not alter the fact that the decision was for payment.

Text of Debt Communique.

Part of the communique referring to the debts said:

"The council, while other elements do not interfere and so that succeeding discussions of the Italian war debts may take place in an atmosphere of reciprocal understanding, insites the government to pay the amount falling due Dec. 15, totalling $1,245,437, equivalent to nearly 24,000,000 lire, and to initiate without delay necessary negotiations so that before the next payment falls due, June 15, 1933, a new accord may be reached based on recent declarations of Hoover and Roosevelt, which will take into account Italy's situation, its situation of right and fact, which for universal reasons well known to the government of the United States, no longer are the same as in the years in which the first accord was concluded, which accord has been until now punctually respected by the Italian government."

The council also reaffirmed the Italian policy of favoring cancellation of both war debts and reparations which it insists are interdependent. Such action, it is contended, is necessary for world economic recovery.

Hoover Asks British Advice.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Although Ambassador Mellon declined to reveal the exact nature of his mission to acting Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin Saturday, it is understood from English sources that President Hoover had asked if the British government had any suggestions on making the Dec. 15 debt payment to which he might make useful or helpful reference in his message to congress. The British reply in substance was that the whole case for this country for the moment had been set forth in its second note to America asking for postponement and subsequent reconsideration.

A possible solution now being seriously considered is for the issue of British bonds covering the $95,550,000 installment due this month in such form and on such terms as would be satisfactory to the American congress.

LINER STOPS IN MIDOCEAN AS LEAK IS PLUGGED

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

ABOARD SS. CONTE DI SAVOIA, Midocean, Dec. 5.—The Conte di Savoia tonight stopped in midocean for minor repairs, the discharge pipe of the turbo-generator of Italy's newest liner having broken, starting a leak.

There was complete absence of panic or even fear aboard, all of the passengers taking the affair calmly and in the best spirit.

Men clambering down the sides of the vessel on rope ladders repaired the damage externally in a few hours, but the captain, who personally supervised the operations, thought it wiser not to proceed until the valve hole was further strengthened internally. The ship is expected to proceed during the night. The Conte di Savoia is equipped with giant stabilizers to prevent rolling.

SPEED ACTION FOR CHANGE IN VOLSTEAD ACT

Wets Miss Victory by Six Votes.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Defeated today by the votes of dry lame ducks in their attempt to pass prohibition repeal in the house, the Democratic leaders addressed themselves at once to the redemption of another campaign pledge—the legalization of beer.

"Beer by Christmas," was the cry raised anew with increased vigor by the Democratic lieutenants who trooped from the office of Speaker and Vice President Elect John N. Garner a half hour after the Garner resolution for prohibition repeal had been thrown into the discard 6 votes short of the requisite two-thirds majority. There were 272 votes for repeal and 144 against it.

Of the 144 against the resolution 100 were Republicans and 44 Democrats.

Confident of House Action.

Questioned on his beer program, Speaker Garner said he felt certain that beer of a satisfying alcoholic content—though nonintoxicating in fact—would be legalized before Christmas by the house, if not by the senate. It might take a little longer than that, he suspected, to get the beer bill through the senate.

At any rate the ways and means committee of the house, Mr. Garner said, will begin hearings on Wednesday on a bill legalizing and taxing beer. The remainder of the week will be consumed in such hearings of the arguments of wets and drys for and against the restoration of malt beverages ranging from 2.75 per cent to 5 per cent alcoholic content.

To Get Judicial Opinion.

The judiciary committee will be called upon to advise regarding the alcoholic content that may reasonably be regarded as nonintoxicating in fact while the ways and means committee will determine the amount of tax and devise the method of distribution.

Mr. Garner thought the ways and means committee ought to be able to report a beer tax measure the first part of next week. As a revenue bill it would be privileged and could be called up in the house as soon as reported. The speaker opined it would be passed and sent to the senate by Dec. 15.

Repeal Dead This Session.

The prevailing opinion among Democratic leaders is that as a result of the adverse vote today prohibition repeal is dead in this last session of the 72d congress but will be voted at an extraordinary session of the 73rd congress next spring. Failure of repeal in this congress makes it almost certain, they feel, that Mr. Roosevelt will call the new congress into session soon after his inauguration on March 4.

Unless convened in extraordinary session the 73rd congress probably will not meet till Jan. 3, 1934, for in the meantime 36 states it seems likely will have ratified the constitutional amendment abolishing lame duck sessions. It thus falls out that prohibition repeal was defeated today by lame ducks in what is probably the last lame duck session in history.

Speaker Garner, with an eye to political aggrandizement of the Roosevelt administration, is bent upon sidetracking the Republican plan of modified repeal of the eighteenth amendment and handing the country the Democratic party's proposal of unqualified repeal.

In default of such action by this congress, in which the Democrats have but a slight majority in one house only, Mr. Garner and his associates look to the new congress, with its overwhelming majority in both houses, to redeem the Democratic pledge and confer the credit for the extirpation of prohibition upon the Roosevelt administration.

"No prohibition resolution," said Speaker Garner, after the vote today, "will pass this house at this session which does not take prohibition out of the constitution root, trunk, branch and leaves."

Will Block G. O. P. Resolution.

If the senate should adopt an outright repeal resolution, which is exceedingly unlikely, Mr. Garner would take steps to bring it promptly before the house for another vote. But a resolution embodying the Republican plan, empowering the federal government to prevent the return of the saloon and to protect dry states from liquor importations, would be denied consideration by the house at this session.

Asked whether, in his opinion, the resolution pending in the senate, which was offered by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], and which is based on the Republican platform plank, complies with the Democratic platform, Mr. Garner snapped:

"It does not."

The failure of the Garner resolution and the speaker's declaration that no other proposal will receive consideration at this session put a crimp in the anti-prohibition movement in the senate. Action in that body is now bound to be greatly delayed if any action at all materializes. The various repeal and modification measures will be considered by the judiciary committee with considerable deliberation.

What Senate Leaders Say.

Here is what some of the senate leaders had to say tonight:

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], repeal advocate—It seems as if prohibition repeal was dead for this session. The opposition represented in the house vote, in my opinion, would not vote for repeal even if it were sugar coated with reservations like those in the Glass resolution. The next thing to do is to get modification as soon as we can, and I believe that will be possible.

Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], assistant majority leader—I assume that the senate is going to await further action on the part of the house. It is understood that the house is to act first on prohibition matters.

Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.], repeal advocate—The judiciary committee is to take up consideration of the repeal measures pending and proposed, and I look for a vote on repeal before Jan. 15. A beer bill certainly will pass.

Senator Robert G. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], repeal advocate—All repeal resolutions will be referred to the judiciary committee. I am satisfied there will be a vote in the senate with in a reasonable time—probably on a compromise resolution.

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], advocate of Republican plan—My resolution is going to the judiciary committee, where it will be perfected. By that I do not mean that its intent will be changed, but it will be put into more effective form.

Many Change Stands.

More than 80 members who voted last March against the Beck-Linthicum resolution to return liquor control to the states voted wet today. There were 187 votes for and 227 against the Beck-Linthicum measure. Since that time the Republican and Democratic national conventions, declaring against the continuation of prohibition, and the national election have intervened.

The house assembled at noon and gave its speaker, the Democratic Vice President elect, an enthusiastic welcome while galleries jammed to the doors looked on. There ensued about 45 minutes of routine organization business, including the dispatch of a committee to notify the President of the convening of congress, before the matter of prohibition repeal came up.

Rainey Opens Battle.

Then Speaker Garner recognized Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], the majority leader, who with a toss of his hoary mane arose and moved the suspension of the rules for consideration of the Garner resolution without its passage through the routine of committee action.

A second to the motion being demanded, the members filed between tellers, who counted 245 for it and 121 against. Thereupon began the prescribed 40 minutes of debate, twenty minutes for and twenty minutes against, but not till after Representative Hatton Sumners [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the judiciary committee, had pleaded in vain for unanimous consent to extend the time to three hours and Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.], supported by Mr. Rainey, had suggested two hours.

Mr. Rainey opened the debate by reading the Democratic platform calling for outright repeal, which he briefly indorsed.

Snell Finds Fault.

Florid faced, meticulously garbed Bertrand H. Snell of New York, the Republican leader, followed, in which he found all manner of fault with the Garner resolution and then elicited a wave of laughter when he said he would vote for it. The Democrats, he said, were proceeding in a highhanded manner and were disrespectful to the President in undertaking legislation before receiving his message.

"I stated publicly many time during the campaign," he said, "that I was in favor of returning the control of the liquor traffic back to the states under certain restrictions—to guard against the saloon, and protection for dry states. I have not changed my position.

"I believe if the Democratic majority would give us an opportunity to present such amendment there are votes on each side of the aisle to adopt it.

"But the speaker has flatly denied us that right and openly said we will take it or leave it as presented, and there will be no further opportunity for consideration as an original proposition.

Step in Right Direction.

"This is Democratic liberality in consideration of important legislation. Compare this treatment with their many liberal promises when they were in the minority.

"This resolution is not as I would like it, yet it will be amended many times before it becomes a law and it does start legislation for the return of liquor control to the individual states which I favor, and personally I have decided to vote for it."

Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.], a veteran member of the house and recognized wet leader, was cheered as he was recognized.

"Within the last 13 years," he said, "our country has unsuccessfully and uselessly expended approximately 300 millions of dollars in an endeavor to enforce the prohibition law, but not only has it spent this tremendous sum of money needlessly but this 'noble experiment' has cost the nation billions of dollars in revenue and has deprived hundreds of thousands of men of employment during all these years.

In addition it has been responsible for the greatest orgy of crime and disrespect for all law and corruption in the history of the nation, so that today every fair minded citizen having the interest of the nation at heart, including many of those who for years advocated prohibition, feels that the eighteenth amendment should be repealed."

Dry Lame Ducks Protest.

Representative C. Ellis Moore [Rep., O.], an ardent dry and a lame duck, cried out against such "drastic legislation." He was followed by another lame duck, a former dry, Earl C. Michener [Rep., Mich.], who voiced various objections to the resolution and then amid laughter said he would vote for it in the confidence that the senate would change it to comport with the Republican plan.

"The integrity of the national political platform is at stake today and its future dependability will be measured by the way Democrats and Republicans alike answer the call of the people for a repeal of the 18th amendment," said Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.].

"The millions who expressed themselves on election day in favor of immediate repeal are not interested so much in words or verbiage as they are in votes and it will make little difference to them whether the congressman is a holdover or a 'lame duck.' His vote today will never be forgotten and his campaign promises to resubmit to the people the repeal of the 18th amendment are still fresh in the memories of every constituent at home.

Not Political Question.

"Prohibition is dead. Murdered by a handful of selfish bigots like Bishop James Cannon, Clarence True Wilson, and F. Scott McBride; man who have made a good living out of preaching a false doctrine.

"The question before us today is not one of politics. It is the simple recognition of a reality. It is the recognition of an appeal of millions of voters in every state of the Union for the right to determine for themselves whether they in their respective states may have an alcoholic beverage or may not.

"We are today taking the first real step toward the permanent balancing of the federal budget and only those who wish to be taxed will pay. The sincere dry may rest serene in the fact that a large burden of taxation has been lifted from his shoulders, to be paid for by his wet neighbor who does it cheerfully.

"Every Democrat in the house is morally obligated to vote for immediate repeal and every Republican in the house is conscientiously obligated to vote for resubmission because of the public expression in his district on election day."

Blanton Makes Protest.

Representative Thomas L. Blanton, fire-eating Democrat from Texas, lamented the effort to "undo in 20 minutes 100 years' of work for prohibition."

"They call Nov. 8 a wet election," he rasped. "But I cannot forget that there will not be in the next senate a Blaine, a Bingham, and a Moses. Our friend La Guardia will not be back in the next house. I see before me a former distiller [referring to William E. Hull of Illinois] who won't be back, either. Among others who won't be back I see the two gentlemen from Milwaukee [Stafford and Schafer]. How can you talk of the recent election being wet?"

The roll call followed in a great stillness with the galleries keeping tab on their score cards. When Speaker Garner announced the vote and stated that the resolution had failed to adopt, the Republican side of the chamber broke into cheers, while the Democrats sat silent.

THIRTEEN MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE FAIL TO VOTE ON DRY REPEAL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Thirteen members of the house did not cast votes on the repeal resolution in addition to Speaker Garner, whose name was not called in accordance with the usual procedure.

Six Democrats were absent and unpaired. These were Charles L. Abernethy [N. C.], Charles Brand [Ga.], Daniel E. Garrett [Tex.], Lynn S. Hornor [W. Va.], Charles H. Martin [Ore.], and William F. Stevenson [S. C.].

Representative John McDuffie of Alabama, the Democratic whip, announced that Representatives Brand, Garrett, Hornor, and Martin would have voted for the resolution had they been present. Representative Abernathy is considered a dry, and Representative Stevenson's position is carried as "noncommittal" on the records of anti-prohibition organizations.

Four Republicans were absent and unpaired. These were Samuel S. Arentz [Nev.], Robert R. Butler [Ore.], Ernest W. Gibson [Vt.], and William R. Johnson [Ill.]. Representative Arentz voted for the Beck-Linthicum resolution at the last session. The other three voted against it.

There are five vacancies.

82 LAME DUCKS VOTE AGAINST THE REPEAL OF 18TH AMENDMENT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Eighty-two members of the house who will not serve in the next congress—"lame ducks"—voted today against the repeal resolution. Eleven were Democrats and 71 Republicans.

Seven Illinois lame duck Republicans voted dry. They were Richard Yates, Charles Adkins, B. M. Chiperfield, W. P. Holiday, John C. Allen, Morton D. Hull, and Homer Hall.

Frank R. Reid [reelected] also voted dry.

The other lame ducks who opposed repeal were:

ABSENT WOMEN CAUSE NOTICE AS CONGRESS OPENS

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—It was the woman who stayed away, not the woman who came to the party, who today attracted attention at the opening of congress. And these three examples should prove my point.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth, long a fascinating figure in the front row of the senate special gallery, did not sit there today and level her lorgnette on senators who, flattered by the publicity, would strut and preen.

Dolly Gann, rarely out of the ranking seat in Brother Charley's vice presidential box on occasions of ceremony, was not there today.

Etta Garner, consistently the secretary of Speaker Garner, as well as the wife of Jack Garner, chose to be secretary. She remained downstairs in the office and thereby was the topic of conversation upstairs.

As a matter of fact, not lovely ladies, but legal liquor, engaged the interest of everybody over in the house. So true was this that she had been sitting in their midst for half an hour before somebody nudged his neighbor and whispered, "That woman looks like Lady Astor, only younger."

It was Lady Astor and she did look very young. She came into the house with Senator Reed [Rep., Pa.] and sat and talked with him and with Representative Ruth Baker Pratt [Rep., N. Y.] all during the prohibition debate. But she is a dry, and the talk was wet.

Besides Lady Astor, who had guest privileges to the floor, seven women who had work to do were in their places.

Three of them [the Republican Mrs. Pratt and the Democratic Mrs. Owen of Florida and Mrs. Wingo of Arkansas] are lame ducks; Mrs. Wingo by choice, the other two quite involuntarily.

And one, Mrs. Willa Eslick, is filling out the term of her husband, Representative Edward E. Eslick [Dem., Tenn.], who dropped dead during the closing days of the last session.

They all wore black; many wore orchids.

Mrs. Eslick's first vote was a stanch southern soprano "No" on the repeal resolution. Arkansas' Effiegene Wingo also voted "No."

But the other five women, including William Jennings Bryan's daughter, Ruth, voted "Yes."

On the floor of the senate, Hattie Caraway [Dem., Ark.] took her seat. She had a brand new marcel. Otherwise she didn't look much different than she did before her whirlwind campaign with Huey [Call Me Kingfish] Long.

PEGLER TAKES A LOOK AT HOUSE VOTING WET-DRY

Sees Statesmen Unmoved Over Question.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—For an hour or so in the house of representatives this afternoon as the boys argued and voted on prohibition you could almost see the swinging doors of Jake's place again and hear the chimes of the cash register and Louie the waiter yelling "Draw six!" when Representative Rainey's resolution to repeal prohibition lost by six votes.

Representative Rainey, who comes from Illinois, has a big, woolly bird's nest of white hair and wears a flowing black tie of the old fashioned statesman's pattern which muffles his words. However, he is not as quaint as Representative Howard of Nebraska, who sat a few rows behind him. Representative Howard is an act. His hair comes down over his ears almost to his shoulders like a theatrical wig, and he wears a corn doctor's coat extending to his knees.

Representative Howard is the Old Professor to the life, and it would not be at all surprising to hear him begin: "My friends, if you will gather a little closer about the tailboard so that those in the back may see, I will now give you a demonstration of the marvelous snake oil salve which cures the ills of man or beast in 24 hours."

Merely Passing the Buck.

The boys did not really intend that the resolution which was voted down today should end prohibition abruptly even if it had passed. Some of the congressmen who voted for it admitted that they were merely passing the buck to the senate to think of some way of abolishing prohibition without reviving the saloon. So, even if they had passed it, they would have expected to get the bill back with modifications.

The session was very noisy and informal with congressmen getting up to walk out on the debate and leaning against things and telling stories around the back of the room. The proceedings were interrupted several times for this reason. One congressman protested against the introduction of the repeal resolution at this time on the ground they first ought to send word to President Hoover notifying him that they were in session. It was decided to dispense with this notification, however, as the opening had been advertised in the papers for some days.

Garner Given a Hand.

They gave a hand to Jack Garner, the speaker, when he appeared and called them to comparative order, and this was followed by the opening prayer delivered by the house chaplain in the familiar quavering, bumbling voice of chaplains who pray over political conventions.

There were three batteries of baby spots in the gallery facing the chaplain and they drew a bead on him with a flood of light. The clickety click of the shutters of the newspaper cameras sounded through the mumble of the invocation. This and the whispering whir of the movies.

The galleries around the room were crowded with spectators, mostly women, very few of whom were of the familiar pattern of the good prohibition ladies. They were of mixed ages and many of them wore bright colors, although there were a few whose dark rust getup and determined woman aspect identified them with the prohibition movement. Representatives of the brewing and distilling interests were supposed to be scattered among the crowd, hopeful but doubtful, but this was just hearsay.

Brings His Twin Boys.

One man on the Democratic side had brought twin little boys about 8 years old with him and they sat drowsily in two green leather seats alongside their pa, on the floor, apparently finding the proceedings to be a great bore. During the debate the senate adjourned and some of the boys from the upper house came over to hang around the back of the room and kid the congressmen about their show.

Senator Copeland of New York, who developed into a statesman by running reducing contests for fat ladies when he was the commissioner of health; Huey Long, Bingham of Connecticut, wearing the same gray suit that he wore at the Chicago convention, and Connally of Texas, moved around gossiping. Nobody present seemed to be much impressed by the solemnity of the problems of the country and Congressmen Britten of Chicago and Loring Black of Brooklyn tossed off wisecracks.

Once when Congressman Blanton, a dry, said it was a terrible way to do, rushing such a resolution to a vote with only 20 minutes of debate on each side of the question, Black paused in a stroll around the room and said, "He has had twelve years to argue about it, Mr. Speaker, and that's long enough for anybody."

Resorts to Patrick Henry.

Blanton was pretty noisy, hopping out from his place to let out a yell about something or other every so often, but the best squawk of the day was emitted by a wiry little congressman of the county seat lawyer type, named Huddleston of Alabama. Congressman Huddleston yelled, "Outrage!" and after beginning, "We who are about to die salute you," closed out with a Patrick Henry. He said he chose "death by crucifixion on a legislative atrocity," which was pretty frantic under the casual and even jovial circumstances of the session.

They made the debate very confusing because there were parties getting up to speak for the resolution who praised it by hollering murder for the entire duration and then deciding to vote for it nevertheless. The election had shown that they had better do this if they knew what was good for them. This was a good dodge, placing them on both sides of the proposition at once. There is probably no other form of life which is able to oppose and favor something in one and the same breath.

Even Fred Britten, who has been around congress for a long time, was puzzled by one of the speeches and got up to say he couldn't make out whether the brother intended to knock the proposition or boost it.

Rainey Is Timekeeper.

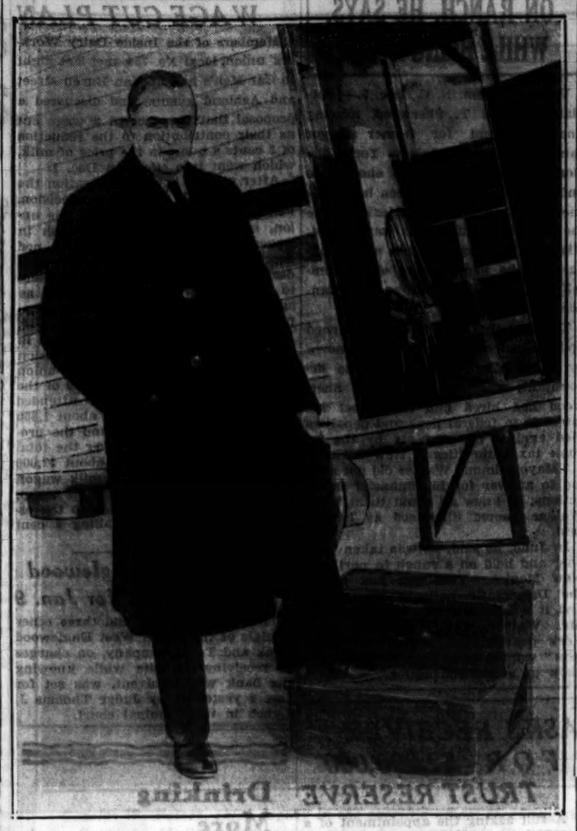
All during the debate for the resolution Mr. Rainey sat at a table with a pad in front of him checking off the little minutes which he was allotting to various of the boys who wished to speak pieces. When his time began to wane he would ask the clerk to tell him how much he had left so he could spread it around.

In football the captain is not allowed to ask how much time he has left after every play, but in congress there is no penalty for this, and Mr. Rainey made his last four minutes suffice for half a dozen members who desired to say that they personally would repel the old viper from the proud escutcheon of the American hearthside with their dying breath, but bowing to the will of the people.

Mr. Rainey ignored what they said. What they said did not seem to matter anyway and he was acting as the team quarter back, rushing things through in an effort to score in the closing minutes.

They decided to take care of the boys who did not get an opportunity to swing out into space and repel the old viper from the proud escutcheon at full length by permitting them to publish in the Congressional Record the remarks that they would have made if time had permitted.

Gives Democrats Edge by Error



Senator Designate Walter Walker of Colorado as he left Denver by plane. He reached Washington in time for the session yesterday and gave the Democrats an edge in the senate, despite the fact he was there through error. He was defeated for the short term at November election by Karl Schuyler, Republican, but through an error the latter has not yet received his certificate of election. [Acme Photo.]

SENATE SESSION BRIEF; ADJOURN TO WATCH HOUSE

Lame Ducks Initiate 3 New Members.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—The senate lame duck session of the 72d congress limped into formation at noon today. Heard a long prayer; passed a few brief resolutions; initiated three freshmen, and adjourned in time for its members to hurry over to the house to hear the prohibition debate.

Technically, it was a Democratic senate, for the temporary seating of the Democratic Walter Walker of Colorado, jolly and jolted after flying 2,100 miles in 36 hours, gave the Democrats 48 members, as against the 47 Republicans and one Farmer-Labor man. Actually, it was the same G. O. P. organization. Only most of the old bosses were singing swan songs.

Seventy-nine of the 96 senators answered the roll call. Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.] was absent. Colleagues shrugged their shoulders; recalled he is awaiting trial for alleged violation of the lottery laws.

Lewis Ill.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] was reported as "detained at home on account of illness."

Senator James Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader, got so mixed up in offering a motion to adjourn that the galleries laughed, and some of the boys murmured, "Poor Jim, he's a lame duck, and he can't even read the orders right."

The orders were simple ones: Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.] had been scheduled to offer the motion to adjourn, coupling with it the phrase, "in memory of the late Senators Waterman and Jones."

For the rest, everything was orderly and uninteresting.

At the end of it sat Utah's Senator Smoot, the Nestor in point of service, looking even more serious than he did last year in his days of supremacy. Three seats away from him, Lame Duck Shortridge, defeated in California's primary, wore his customary cutaway and tried to appear festive.

Condolences to Watson.

Two seats from him Jim Watson held a solemn court as friends brought to him their condolences on the way Indiana had treated him. Next to him, New Hampshire's Moses slumped in his seat. Lamed in the November landslide, his wisecracks were likewise crippled today. Near by Senator Brookhart, lame since the Iowa primary, looked and listened.

In the row behind Lame Ducks Glenn of Illinois and Bingham of Connecticut had their chairs; others were here and there in the arena.

It was a great day for Colorado. She had three senators. They were the senior Senator Costigan [Dem.], Senator Walker, the Democrat who, through a technically, was sworn in today pending the sitting tomorrow of the Republican senator elect, Karl C. Schuyler.

Initiates "Freshmen."

Presently Vice President Curtis [and he didn't wear a cutaway for this opening session] started the initiation ceremony. Senator Bailey of North Carolina escorted his new colleague, Robert R. Reynolds [Dem.], to the rostrum. Senator Costigan did the same service for Senator Walker. And Senator Dill walked with his new junior senator, E. S. Grammer [Rep.], appointed to fill the vacancy made by the death of Senator Wesley Jones.

Really, the only bit of color in the whole performance was furnished by half a dozen Hopi Indians, who swirled into the visitors' gallery in a dazzle of scarlet feathers, green fringes and yellow suede dresses. Even their names were vivid: Rope-Out-of-a-Bear Hide, Evergreen Shoes, and things like that. They are here to protest a bill now on the senate docket.

Which reminds the senators that, though today's session was short and snappy, tomorrow's and the next day's are likely to be long and laborious.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LEIPZIG, Germany, Dec. 5.—The German Supreme court has reversed its verdict of seven years ago in the case of Walther Bullerjahn and acquitted him of the charge of high treason. The same court in December, 1925, rejected Bullerjahn's final appeal and sentenced him to fifteen years in the penitentiary, of which he has served more than six years.

Bullerjahn had been accused of betraying a store of arms to the interallied military commission in December, 1924, when it searched an industrial plant where he was a supervisor.

In the new verdict it is stated that Bullerjahn was acquitted only for lack of sufficient evidence to convict. For six years the case has been in the news in Germany. Bullerjahn's mother several years ago threw herself in the path of Baron Paul von Gontard, chief witness for the prosecution, as he left the church where his daughter had been married and begged him upon her knees to revoke his testimony. The baron was one of Bullerjahn's superiors.

PROBE THEORY AUTO DEALER SLAIN BY DEBTOR

Investigators last night were looking into the possibility that Joseph Grauer, 37 years old, used car dealer who was found shot to death in his office at 2317 South Michigan avenue Sunday afternoon, may have been the victim of a customer whose automobile had been reclaimed for debts owed. The earlier theory had been that Grauer was slain by a robber.

Lieut. Walter Healy, of the Pekin Inn station, also disclosed that he would like to ask Joseph [Yellow Kid] Weil, well known confidence man, and his principal aid, Fred Buckminster, if they knew anything about Grauer's affairs. They were reported to have had business dealings with the man who was slain and his brother, Philip Grauer. Neither is suspected of any complicity in the killing.

Nation's Press Comments on Big Vote For Dry Repeal

Editorial comment by newspapers throughout the United States accepted the house vote on the repeal of the prohibition amendment as merely delaying action that is generally considered inevitable.

BALTIMORE SUN [Dem.]—In little more than a year a preponderant majority for standpattism has been transformed into an overwhelming majority for wiping out the whole prohibition experiment.

BOSTON HERALD—We may reasonably conclude that the drys are not only in a minority, but will be on the defensive hereafter; that they will be defeated in the new congress.

CHARLESTON, S. C., NEWS AND COURIER [Dem.]—While the defeat of the repeal resolution in the house is regrettable, it is gratifying that the Democrats voted nearly four to one for it.

DALLAS NEWS [Ind. Dem.]—Southern congressmen who think they are now wet are going to be increasingly in trouble as the drys consolidate the organization campaign that is now moving mightily in church channels. Women who complain that church and social ostracism have handicapped recruiting of their wet societies will shortly begin to feel the real force of real ostracism.

CHATTANOOGA TIMES—It was surprising that the repeal measure failed of adoption by only six votes.

CINCINNATI ENQUIRER—It is not a flattering commentary on our system of "representative" government that a congress should thus flout the unequivocal decision of the people.

DES MOINES, IA., REGISTER [Ind.]—Theoretically President Elect Roosevelt would be under obligation to call a special session of the new congress next March to push this repeal movement through, if for no other reason.

HARTFORD, CONN., COURANT [Rep.]—Speaker Garner has largely himself to blame for the defeat of his resolution repealing the eighteenth amendment. He took it upon himself to write the resolution, to supersede the ordinary prerogatives of the judiciary committee, and to ignore all precedents attending an opening session of congress.

INDIANAPOLIS STAR [Ind.]—The one thing accomplished by the vote in the house is to bring about a realization of the fact that modification is in prospect and serious thought should be given to it by both wets and drys.

LINCOLN, NEB., STATE JOURNAL [Rep.]—Without a special session repeal must await action for a year. In that time the struggle for bread may supersede as an issue the demand for booze. Nebraska will remain dry. It is constitutionally dry, but it would be affected seriously by wet states across its border lines.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., GAZETTE [Ind. Dem.]—The Garner resolution called for unconditional repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Certainly a proposal to abandon federal control should afford dry states every possible assistance in making their local prohibition laws effective.

LOS ANGELES TIMES—Dry forces must recognize, of course, that consideration of resubmission is merely delayed by this vote. . . . The delay is advantageous.

LOUISVILLE, KY., COURIER JOURNAL [Ind. Dem.]—The vote was a most impressive response to popular will.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE [Rep.]—A sullen lot of lame duck Republicans were principally to blame for the defeat of the Garner repeal resolution. There were 71 of them among the hundred of their party who voted "no." What do they care for the will of the people as expressed so clearly in the election that defeated them? They no longer represent either party or country.

NEW YORK TIMES [Ind. Dem.]—Even if the resolution had carried it would not have meant repeal attained at this session of congress. The senate would have been sure to delay the measure and finally to load it down with amendments which the house would have found it difficult to accept.

PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER [Rep.]—It is not singular that the resolution has been so considerable a shift to the wet side.

PHOENIX, ARIZONA, REPUBLICAN [Ind. Prog.]—Why the speaker should attempt to force it through at this session when it was certain of adoption by the next house is not clear.

PORTLAND OREGONIAN—Defeat of repeal reveals again the unresponsive and irresponsible character of the lame duck session.

RICHMOND, VA., TIMES-DISPATCH [Ind. Dem.]—The narrow margin which blocked passage of the Garner repeal resolution shows the strength of the current that is running against the drys. In all probability it means the Volstead act will be amended during this short session to legalize the manufacture of beer.

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE—It was a game. Speaker Garner and the Democratic leaders were playing politics with repeal. Do you think it was a defeat for the speaker? The object was to throw repeal into the next congress, which will be overwhelmingly Democratic.

WILMINGTON, DEL., NEWS [Rep.]—A two-thirds vote is required and the remarkable point is that the vote fell only six short of the required number.

SEIZE EVANSTON WOMAN WANTED IN SEATTLE CASE

Mrs. Ella Knuepfer, 29 years old, 1406 Chicago avenue, Evanston, was taken into custody by the Evanston police yesterday on a fugitive warrant issued in Seattle, Wash., charging her with grand larceny.

Mrs. Knuepfer admitted she was the person sought in connection with the warrant, but asserted she was innocent of any wrongdoing.

"I was married in 1927 to George Knuepfer, an officer in the United States navy," she said. "We had a joint account in an Annapolis, Md., bank. We have since been divorced. I wrote checks for about $1,100 and gave them to merchants on the Pacific coast, under the impression they were good."

'HUNGER ARMY' GETS PERMIT TO TREK IN CAPITAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Washington police officials decided late tonight to allow the 3,000 communistic "hunger marchers" to emerge from their enforced encampment on New York avenue tomorrow long enough to stage a parade through the streets of the capital.

But the parade route, carefully mapped out by police, will not take the marchers within many blocks of their two main objectives—the capitol and the White House. The entire route will be heavily patrolled by police and the parade will be escorted by a strong police guard, it was said.

The decision to permit a parade was announced by Superintendent of Police Ernest W. Brown, as the 3,000 men and women who have been bottled up in the three block area just inside the district began to show increasing signs of nervousness.

Petition Court to Let Them In.

Maj. Brown's action came after the "hunger march" leaders had filed a petition in the District of Columbia Supreme court seeking an injunction against police interference with their entry to the city, and demanding that the cordon which now hems them in the camp on the concrete of New York avenue be removed.

Justice Oscar R. Luhring postponed the hearing on the petition until Thursday, whereupon leaders of the marchers declared they would wait until then to stage their demonstration instead of leaving on Wednesday as had been planned.

Permission to demonstrate in the capitol grounds was denied the marchers today by both Vice President Charles Curtis and Speaker John Garner. A delegation headed by Herbert Benjamin, communist leader of the "hunger army," was informed by both officials that the matter was up to local authorities, although municipal police have said their permission to parade would be granted only if permission was secured by the marchers for a demonstration in the capitol plaza.

According to the brief announcement made tonight by Maj. Brown, the parade will begin at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

Escorted by Police.

For several hours prior to the announcement groups of marchers varying in size from five to twenty, were allowed to pass through the police cordon around the makeshift camp and go to lodgings obtained for them in the city. Each group was escorted by a motorcycle policeman who had orders to see that they were housed and not turned loose in the city.

Just before darkness fell, a clash between the marchers and police seemed imminent, when the marchers formed a long column of four with their "red front" band at its head blaring forth the communist anthem "Internationale."

Between the marchers and 300 police was only a thin rope lying across the street. The communists stood 50 feet on one side, the police 50 feet on the other. On the city embankment overlooking the scene stood the specially trained police tear gas squad, ready for instant action.

BOOTLEGGER IS FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN GARY

Alex Sante, 40 years old, well known to the Gary police as a bootlegger, was shot to death last night at 10th avenue and Tyler stretes, Gary. His body was found in his automobile with five bullet wounds in the head.

Joseph Regavsky, 1148 Tyler street, in whose home Sante was a boarder, said there had been a telephone call in the early evening and that Sante had talked with the caller in Italian, which Regavsky does not understand. It is believed the killers summoned him to his death.

Several persons living near the scene heard the shots but investigators failed to find any one who witnessed the killing. Sante had been arrested several times as a violator of the prohibition laws and once served a term in a federal penitentiary.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Official figures issued tonight by the ministry of labor show an increase of 52,800 idle persons between Oct. 24 and Nov. 21. The total now is 2,799,806, which was 184,691 more than at the same time last year. The statement said the increase was due to a seasonal decline in building, public works, tailoring and the distributive trades, shipping and road transport services. A slight improvement in iron, steel, motor vehicle and cotton industries was indicated.

SEEK TO COMPEL CHICAGO TO BUILD SEWAGE PLANT

Four States Ask High Court to Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—The historic chamber of the Supreme court was the scene of another legal battle over the Chicago water diversion today. For an hour and a half counsel for the sanitary district of Chicago and the opposing lake states of Wisconsin, Ohio, Minnesota, and Michigan clashed over the question of whether Chicago had violated the decree entered by the Supreme court in 1930 directing the slashing of the diversion to 1,500 cubic second feet by Dec. 31, 1938.

The diversion matter came up before the court for argument as the result of the filing of an application by the four lake states asking the district to show cause why the court should not appoint a master or an officer to carry out the terms of the decree. This officer, according to the argument advanced today, would be clothed with full power to go into the state of Illinois, raise the money, and build the sewage treatment works.

Back Up Application.

Attorney General Henry N. Benson of Minnesota and Raymond T. Jackson, special assistant to the attorneys general of the four states, backed up the application with a charge that Illinois and Illinoisians were defying the court and not carrying out the terms of the decree. They asserted that unless the court acted to force construction of the needed sewage treatment plants the district would be before the court again in 1938 suing for additional time.

Appearing for the sanitary district as a special assistant attorney, Joseph Fleming flatly denied that the terms of the decree had been violated. He asserted that Chicago had complied with the terms of the decree in every way. In this connection he pointed out that the court order requiring semi-annual progress reports and a reduction of the diversion to 6,500 cubic second feet on July 1, 1930, as required, had been carried out. He added that the taxpayers' strike at Chicago had been broken and that it was anticipated money would be available to carry on the sewage construction program.

At the same time Mr. Fleming made the point that inasmuch as the decree had not set any date for the completion of the treatment works, but had only stipulated when the water diversion should be reduced, the plaintiffs actually had no case. That at least some of the justices were inclined to hold similar views was indicated when Justice McReynolds and other justices asked Attorney General Benson just what it was that they wanted the court to do. In each case they were persistent in their questions as to wherein Chicago had violated the decree.

Justice Asks Some Questions.

"There seems to have been no violation except an implied one," commented Justice Vandeventer. "Why do you come to us now? What do you want? What should be done?"

Both Attorneys Benson and Jackson admitted that the exact language of the decree had not been violated. They argued, however, that the decree was being violated because the treatment works were going ahead so slowly that in 1935 when the diversion is to be cut to 5,000 feet, they would not be advanced far enough to make possible the reductions.

New York City Board Asks State O.K. on 20 Million Cut

New York, Dec. 5.—[Special.]—New legislation permitting the city to slash $20,000,000 from salaries in its next budget and allowing the establishment of a capital outlay budget will be asked of the state legislature in special session on Friday. That was decided today by the board of estimate in executive session.

The board of aldermen labored through a night session toward the same goal after an agreement to cut their $5,000 a year salaries, it was said, 5 per cent.

"No commitments," was the word of a bankers' committee after a talk with Duncan MacInnes, chief accountant of the city's financial department. They indicated, however, that future loans to avert municipal bankruptcy would depend on something more substantial than plans.

While both branches of the municipal assembly were going ahead toward salary reductions, the teachers, policemen, and other powerful civil service groups were organizing to protect their present salary ratings.

Under the new board of estimate plan salary cuts will not affect pension rights in any way. No salaries below $2,000 a year will be cut. Legislation permitting pay slashes will protect pension rights on their present basis. Yesterday 500 members of the police department obtained applications for retirement. By retiring before reductions become effective, their pensions will be based on their present salaries. About 2,500 members of the department are now eligible for retirement.

When the board of estimate convenes in committee of the whole tomorrow it will take formal action on the pay reduction and the plan for a capital outlay budget covering the cost of all public improvements. The budget director has been asked to submit schedules showing how $20,000,000 can be slashed from next year's appropriations for salaries. Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee said no fixed percentage of reduction had yet been agreed upon.

The acting mayor said other forms of economy would receive further consideration at future meetings.

DOOLITTLE HAS FORCED LANDING; MISSING HOURS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 5.—(AP)—After being missing for several hours tonight on his flight from Houston, Tex., to New Orleans, Major James Doolittle was reported to have made a forced landing twenty miles below Franklin, La. He carried two passengers in his low winged monoplane.

Doolittle is touring American cities as ambassador for the 1933 Chicago World's Fair.

He left Houston at 2:45 p. m., en route to Wedell-Williams air field here. He was due at 5 p. m. and was not reported until near midnight.

The speed flyer left Chicago at 6:45 a. m., today for Kansas City, where he delivered Chicago's invitation to the fair. He visited Tulsa and Dallas and then stopped off ten minutes at Houston.

SPECIAL SESSION TO VOTE REPEAL, ROOSEVELT PLAN

Disappointed by Action of Lame Duck House.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—When news was flashed to President Elect Roosevelt here today that the house of representatives at Washington had failed to pass the repealer of the 18th amendment, a reaction was immediately noted in the Roosevelt official household. It was indicated that Mr. Roosevelt will be more than ever likely to call a special session of congress almost immediately after his inauguration March 4.

The Democrats have pledged themselves in their party platform and Gov. Roosevelt repeatedly has indorsed the pledge calling for repeal of the 18th amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act.

Many Legislatures Meet in '33.

The general attitude in the President elect's case today was one of disappointment that the repealer was not passed, since if it were, many legislatures in the various states meeting early in 1933 would be able to call conventions to ratify the repealer.

However, the Roosevelt advisers hope that the short session will at least pass legislation modifying the Volstead act to permit the legalization and taxation of real beer. The repealer of the prohibition amendment, it now appears, must await the action of the new and wet congress taking office on March 4, and Mr. Roosevelt is considered likely to call a special session of that congress in the early months of his administration.

The President elect spent a couple hours today looking over his Georgia farm, which doesn't pay, and then he turned back to the Little White House to direct the packing of masses of data and effects prepratory to his departure from Warm Springs tomorrow.

Prepares for Return to Albany.

Mr. Roosevelt is going back to Albany to present his message to a special session of the New York legislature, which has been called in his absence by Acting Governor Herbert H. Lehman, to pass legislation reducing the mandatory salaries fixed by law for various officials and employés in the New York City government.

The governor said today that he had talked with Mr. Lehman over the telephone, and had been informed that many requests had been received for the submission of other subjects to the special session.

Upon his arrival at New York City Wednesday evening Mr. Roosevelt will be met there by Lieut. Gov. Lehman, who will give the governor the data at hand, and the governor will then decide what matters besides the salary one will go before the legislature. He is empowered to limit the scope of the special session to any type of legislation he desires. The session is to meet on next Friday.

Gov. Harry Woodring of Kansas, recently defeated in a three cornered fight which resulted in the election of a Republican, was the governor's principal visitor.

SHERWOOD PRISONER ON RANCH, HE SAYS, WHILE BEING HUNTED

Winston-Salem, N. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Russell T. Sherwood, missing financial agent for former Mayor James J. Walker of New York, disclosed himself here long enough to unfold a tale of having been held prisoner on a ranch in New Mexico while the Seabury inquiry was waxing hot. His tale, however, was not made public until he had time to efface himself and start for Europe, via Canada.

The fact that Sherwood had turned up in Winston Salem was made known by A. Cardis Walker, a public accountant, who announced that Sherwood had hired him to protect his interests in federal liens and penalties filed against his property by the income tax authorities in New York.

"Mayor Jimmie Walker did not need me to answer for his financial transactions; he knew all about them," Mr. Walker quoted Sherwood as having said.

In June, he said, he was taken prisoner and held on a ranch in northern New Mexico. This was just before the Democratic national convention, and it was Sherwood's belief, he told Mr. Walker, that "powerful New York political and commercial interests" wanted to be sure he would not show up at the convention.

ASKS RECEIVER FOR $2,000,000 TRUST RESERVE

A suit asking the appointment of a receiver for a $2,000,000 reserve trust fund set aside by the Chicago Title & Trust company to repay any losses to investments purchased with trust funds deposited with the company, has been filed in the Circuit court. Judge Harry M. Fisher recently refused to appoint the receiver but he took jurisdiction of the fund and ordered the money held until further order of the court. The plaintiff in the suit is Dr. Ben G. Landau, 1311 East 53d street, who executed a $25,000 trust agreement with the company in 1930.

The bill asserts that investments in the physician's trust were under the protection of the fund. When payments of interest from two mortgages were defaulted, the bill recites, the company failed to use the reserve fund to repay the loss. The doctor then sought to terminate his trust, while retaining his legal rights for reimbursement from the fund, the bill alleges, but the company refused to surrender the principal under those conditions. The bill asks that the principal of the doctor's trust be turned over to a successor trustee, and that the reserve fund be apportioned among other beneficiaries of trusts held by the company who have suffered losses. The bill alleges that more than $100,000,000 in mortgage investments of trust funds held by the concern have defaulted. The reserve fund is not sufficient to protect the trust beneficiaries, the bill alleges.

Holman D. Pettibone, president of the title and trust company, issued a statement last night in which he asserted that books of the company show only $2,824,371 in principal of investments past due more than 30 days and $337,066 in interest past due more than 30 days. "The suit will test legal questions in connection with provisions of the trust," he said.

DAIRY WORKERS FAIL TO ACT ON WAGE CUT PLAN

Members of the Inside Dairy Workers' union, local No. 754, met last night in Car Men's hall at Van Buren street and Ashland avenue and discussed a proposal that they accept a wage cut as their contribution to the reduction of 2 cents a quart in the price of milk, which went into effect on Dec. 1.

After several hours' deliberation the meeting ended without a decision. Frank Pangborn, secretary of the union, said that the proposed slash in wages had neither been rejected nor accepted. It was said that the milk dealers had asked the inside workers to accept a weekly scale of $34 as against the $39 now paid in the large plants.

Unless a special session is called in the meantime the wage discussion will be renewed at the regular union meeting on Dec. 14. About 800 of the total membership of 2,000 attended last night. The union has about 1,350 members employed now, and the proposed reduction would lower the total cost of milk distribution about $7,000 a week in the city. The milk wagon drivers, a much more numerous group, took a $5 cut as a prelude to the establishment of the prevailing 9 cent milk price.

COL. McCORMICK REVEALS TAXES STRANGLING U. S.

Addresses Conference at New York University.

New York, Dec. 5.—[Special.]—The National Conference of Law and Business, dealing with specific emphasis on taxation, readjustment of governmental expenditures and problems of public credit, in session in the auditorium of New York university today, listened to an address on local and national government costs, tax eaters, and the bureaucrats delivered by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"It was in 1920 that I learned of grave frauds committed against the city of Chicago," Col. McCormick said. "For one year I gathered proof and then started suit in the Circuit court to recover the loot. The trial lasted two years, at the end of which the court found seven defendants, including the mayor of the city, guilty as charged and ordered the restitution of two million two hundred and forty-five thousand dollars.

Appeal Even to the President.

"Prior to the trial it transpired that the plunderers had not paid income tax on their pelf, and influence was brought as high as the head of the nation to protect them from detection and prosecution.

"About two and one-half years later the Supreme court of Illinois, upholding the decision of the lower court as to the fraud, denied recovery from the responsible official on the ground that the money had not been traced into his pocketbook.

"At about the same time, namely in the year 1922, a newly elected state treasurer found that his predecessor, the then governor, had been systematically defrauding the state treasury. Criminal and civil suits were brought against the governor. In the former he was acquitted by a bribed jury. In the latter he was held accountable for defrauding the state in the sum of one million two hundred thousand dollars.

Points to Seabury Quiz.

"Of late the public prints have been filled with news of Samuel Seabury's single-handed investigation of corruption in the city of New York, conducted in the face of such powerful and united opposition as to amount to a conspiracy. The investigation led to charges against the mayor and a hearing by the governor of the state, during which, as more and more information damaging to those who control the government of New York City became public, the mayor of New York, like a game guy, in the language of his kind, 'took the rap' and resigned.

"That Tammany Hall thereupon nominated a candidate guaranteed not to improve conditions and the Republican organization put up a straw man for the purpose of having him beaten is such recent history that I only mention it to complete the record.

"But lest my case be criticized as incomplete, I recall the days of the brass checks celebrated by Jerome, of the murder of Rosenthal by Becker, and that of Rothstein by what privileged character I cannot say.

Cites Misgovernment.

"It is often claimed by small town egoists that misgovernment is a metropolitan idiosyncrasy, but even casual investigation shows that corruption in the larger cities is merely better known, not more common.

"Minneapolis has had one great cleanup, and the public authorities in Minnesota are sitting on the lid of exposure with the full support of their own Supreme court to the extreme of suppressing newspapers, but in violation of the constitution of the United States, as demonstrated in the case of Near vs. Minnesota, which we carried up to the Supreme court of the United States.

"We do not forget that Ruef and Schmitz sacked San Francisco so thoroughly that it has never recovered its relative position among the cities of this nation, or that in Texas Ma Ferguson sits in the governor's chair as the rubber stamp of Pa Ferguson, ineligible for office because he was impeached and convicted by the legislature of his state.

"And only a year ago eleven officials of Atlanta were convicted of graft.

"As to the virtue of the federal government, protected from investigation by custom, statute, and power far more than are state and local governments, the recent conviction of the secretary of the interior bears tragic witness, as the case of Collector of Internal Revenue Myrtle Blackridge lends comic touch.

"Mention of these unpleasant histories is a necessary background for any discussion of taxation, especially when public services are alleged as the cause.

Not Universal, but Omnipresent.

"I do not say that political corruption is universal. I do not wish my words twisted to insinuate that I have said that all men in public office, or even a large percentage of them, are rascals; but this much is thoroughly established:

"That corruption is omnipresent. That public office obviously controls public accounting, public prosecuting, the legislative, executive, and judicial departments, so that the detection of public dishonesty is nearly impossible. That the prevailing standard of public morality is personal honesty. That a vigorous and uncompromising attitude is neither required of nor is practically possible for a politician. And, finally, that nowhere do we find any advocates of increased taxation, however clean their fingers, however conceited in their virture, who ever do bestir themselves to compel the honest expenditure of taxes.

"That exposure and prosecution of corrupt politicians invite reprisals of every kind which criminals invested with authority can think of, a good many of us will testify.

Lists Unwanted Securities.

"These histories also should be borne in mind when we consider the fact that federal appropriations exceed revenues by two billion dollars and an investment house states that, among others, the securities of the following cities do not measure up to its investment standards:

Astoria, Asheville, Beaumont, Birmingham, Butte, Camden, Chicago, Detroit, Durham, N. C., Fort Worth, Galveston, Greensboro, N. C., High Point, N. C., Hoboken, Knoxville, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Miami, Mobile, Montgomery, Mount Vernon, N. Y., Newark, New Rochelle, New York City, Norfolk, North Bergen, N. J., Paterson, Pawtucket, Philadelphia, San Antonio, Scranton, Utica, Winston Salem, Yonkers, and Youngstown, O.

"Historians have excited themselves over the doctrine taught to Louis XIV, that 'kings are absolute masters, and as such have a natural right to dispose of everything belonging to their subjects, whether they are members of the church or not.'

"But why pick on Louis XIV.? He only wore the clothes and slept in the bed of the king.

Similarity of Tax Eaters.

"The vast bulk of taxes which ground France into the dust was collected by and spent for very much such a horde of tax eaters as exist everywhere today.

"Is it not their doctrine in America today? And are not a number of strutting extravagances invested with majesty that the subjects dare not criticize? Are not the subjects of today the taxpayers, and are not they the prey of taxgatherers as much as at any time in history? I will show you that they are. And I recall to you what finally happened in France. It is an even better analogy than the Anticosti wolves of tragic memory.

"Let me call attention to my native city, which all other cities unite in razzing and in imitating, not that it deserves either the razzing or the imitating but because we have learned more about its affairs than has been found out about the affairs of its sisters, wayward and otherwise—if any of them are otherwise.

Uses Chicago as Example.

"Chicago was founded by hard headed Yankees, that race which became extinct some years before the birth of Ivar Kreuger, and which put in the constitution of the state stringent provisions limiting the powers of cities to incur public debt and levy taxes.

"Their successors, however, proved sufficiently ingenious to get all the money they wanted by erecting on the site of a single city municipality after municipality, endowed with debt incurring and tax raising powers, until now, like the angles on the needlepoint, we have one, two, three, four, five, six, seven separate and distinct bonding and taxing authorities on the same taxpayers, an arrangement which provides the further great advantage over the plan of simple overtaxation in that it provides excuse for seven sets of tax spending officials.

"But that is not all. Under these various hegemonies assessments are so juggled that, although under our theory of government the land should be correctly valued, the tax rate applied to it and the resultant income appropriated, in practice as much money is appropriated as the various organizations of tax eaters demand, and that sum, capitalized at the tax rate, is imposed upon the property at its valuation!

Taxes Equal Rents.

"This 'progressive' method of raising revenue has been the easier of enforcement because a large number of prominent corner lots has always belonged to nonresidents, and has been further facilitated of late because many of the descendants of our rich pioneers have become expatriates, whom the home folks are willing to have 'soaked,' as congressmen phrase it.

"This method of assessment has gone on until real estate taxes in Chicago equal, and in certain instances exceed, the fair rental value of land and improvements—not only commercial and manufacturing property but also private houses, so that our thrifty home owners own their homes and pay rent for them as well.

"Unfortunately, a shortcoming in this system is becoming manifest; 45 per cent of the taxes levied for the year 1930 have not been paid, and there is very little prospect of collecting any substantial part of the remainder because many of the owners have not the money to pay and nobody wants to buy land so heavily taxed.

New York in Same Fix.

"And, gentlemen, I venture to say that when the people of New York find time from worrying about the condition of Europe to look into their own affairs they will learn they are rapidly approaching an identical position.

"On their part our federal 'mangeurs des taxes,' as the French say, or 'steuerfresser,' as the Germans have it, have shown an equal enterprise in their quest of gain.

"There are over three million people on all public pay rolls, of whom almost a million draw their existence from the federal government, but there are only two million people who pay income taxes, a ratio of a wolf and a half, or half a wolf, according to the way you figure, for each caribou. What chance is there for the hunted?

"In the heyday of the income tax the squeeze yielded two billion five hundred million dollars, but this had run down by 1931 to one billion dollars, and for the current fiscal year will hardly exceed half the latter sum. The tax has already destroyed four-fifths of the taxable incomes of the nation.

"Similar results have been found in England, Australia, and in New Zealand—everywhere that excessive taxes have been applied.

Resounding Phrases Fail.

"Now, does it not seem too bad that extortions which can be urged with such resounding phrases as 'Taxation according to capacity to pay' and 'The rich can afford to give up much in order to save what is left' should not work, and that brilliant masters of mass psychology should find their incomes depleted as their victims are driven to the wall? Alas, but so it is.

"To understand why it will be necessary to analyze the psychology surrounding productive enterprise, tedious to tax eaters as this may be.

"We learned in the study of economics that return on capital must be inversely as security. It was explained to us that government, state, and municipal bonds, being absolutely secure, as sound as the Bank of England [Hear! Hear!], pay the minimum rate; railroads, based upon a monopoly of the transportation of the country, pay but little more, and that other investments, as their absolute certainty of return becomes less, command still higher rates, until such enormous sums as seven per cent are reached, beyond which the medieval prejudice against profit still persists.

"I do not remember having been told in my college days that for bonds to be absolutely secure the overlying stock must itself be strong and that for stock to be strong it must be based upon substantial earnings, for progressive thought was already lighting up the classrooms, but I observe that as stock values have been successfully destroyed by congress, bond values have fallen to such a point that insurance commissioners are reduced to Gargantuan sophistries in order to keep life insurance companies in business.

The Hazards of Business.

"Certainly earnings were presented as the net result of one or more years' activities and were not broken up into the multitude of individual transactions which constitute the activities of the human race.

"I have yet to see the text book which refers to the individual merchant who puts in a stock of goods. He may be fortified by experience and guided by calculation, but he is inevitably inspired by hope. His calculations may err, his experience prove at fault, the articles he chooses for resale may not find willing buyers, or conditions may lessen the capacity of the buyers. On every purchase he runs the risk of losing part, if not all, of his investment. Experience shows that the best of merchants make many unfortunate ventures.

"A still greater chance is taken by the manufacturer who accepts a design, lays in raw material, and turns an article into production. Let us take a model of an automobile for illustration. No automobile manufacturer at the moment that he determines upon a design can have any certainty that his guess will meet the popular taste. He must speculate or quit manufacturing.

Uncertainty of Investments.

"Our lot has been improved almost exclusively by the constant improvements in machinery, and yet no new machine is certain to be better than the old. The buyer of improved machinery cannot be certain that his investment will be profitable, and if his judgment is correct he also runs the further danger that by the time the machinery is delivered the article which he manufactures may not be in demand.

"These are the transactions which created all our activities, which buy, or rather bought, the farmer's produce, took the coal from the mines, furnished freight to the railroads and cargoes to the ships, met all the pay rolls, furnished all the endowments and charitable funds, and paid all the taxes, supporting all activities of government, including the deficits of the postoffice, waterworks, farm boards, and other self-liquidating ventures into socialism. By them were supported the cooks and clerks, the policemen and the porters, the preachers and the priests, the editors and the educators. From them the soldiers received their pay and the idle their dole. In so far as we have reduced these activities by just so much have we reduced the common income.

Why Men Quit Business.

"It is just because high taxation on profits from successful ventures leaves a margin insufficient to cover the unsuccessful ones that men are retiring from and failing in business. Their withdrawals and failures turn their workers into idlers on the dole, and their withdrawal from the market leaves without orders producers accustomed to sell to them, and factories must close down. The effect is cumulative and the consequence is the depression we find ourselves in.

"Everywhere we find economies and hardship except on the part of those people who have their hands, under color of law, in the pockets of others, and even these are beginning to suffer as the pockets become empty.

"Our congressmen who thought they were smart to confiscate the wealth of the nation to pay for their political dissipations were less wise than the vandals who sacked Rome and set civilization back a thousand years. Rome was not the home of the vandals.

Taxation's Blight on Invention.

"With what may be termed normal business choked by taxation, consider what the effect must be in the nebulous world of invention, that mysterious land which produced all the phenomena which have dispelled drudgery, created high wages, provided amusements for our leisure and employment for a whole population during the years that industry was free.

"Are we to accept all the progress on mankind as the birthright of superiors, their due from a slave race of inventors and promoters? And, if so, will future inventors look at it the same way?

"I am sure that I have accepted the sleeping car as I accepted the house in which I was born, but Mark Twain, accustomed to stage coach travel, rhapsodized over it as a modern miracle.

"I talked over the telephone in my childhood, but my nights were dim in the gloom of candlelight pierced here and there by the rays of oil lamps. I sometimes wonder still what I have ever done to deserve electric light.

"When I ride in Ford's car and recall the mud and manure dust of horse-drawn days, I do not resent his fortune. I could wish all car builders had done as well, and I would be glad to see those who gave us aviation have as much.

Coercion in Business?

"Is there a way to coerce people to go into business with an American G. P. U.? [My command of bolshevy is limited. Perhaps these letters should be pronounced 'Gay Pay Ou.'] I dare say it will be tried. If so, there is no way to compel them to succeed, and no government enterprise has ever succeeded without financial support extorted from private taxpayers.

"To be sure, it is possible to encourage business activities by fair treatment. Racketeers have learned that it does not pay to muscle in on too large a share of one's profits. The government may profit by their example.

"All the progress of mankind has come with the breaking down of the medieval prejudices against work, trade, industry, and profit. The prejudices were religious, they were social, and they were political. Such few advances as came in the dark ages were possible only because the kings overlooked their own laws to secure benefits largely confined to themselves.

"Step by step the general lot of man improved as these prejudices were cast aside or overcome, and the lot of every one in this country has been better than elsewhere because over here, through escape by immigration and emancipation by revolution, relief from these disabilities has been most nearly complete.

Hope of Profit Destroyed.

"The decline in general welfare which we have been perceiving for several years has resulted from the reimposition of these restrictions and the consequent destruction of the hope of profit. It came sooner in England, where the medieval stratifications have never been abandoned and where one phase of her recessional has taken the form of an alliance between the medieval baronage and the medieval serfdom against modernism.

"In England all progress was stopped by overtaxation nearly twenty years ago, so while in Chicago we are now building an industrial museum, every factory in England is an industrial museum filled with antique machinery fit for the junk shop. And I suggest you look in American machine rooms and see how much modernization there has been in the last three years.

"The most extraordinary manifestation of this age of ruin is the setting up of England's downfall as an example for us to follow by certain scholastic, literary, and political circles, which of late look upon English decadence as superior to American stability.

U. S. Must Become Tax Conscious.

"Can we stop the despoiling process before it is complete? I am not sure.

"To be sure, citizens are becoming tax conscious all over the nation. The sober tones of reason can now be heard among the raucous cries of the despoilers. On the other hand, larceny under the mantle of a moralistic public is too attractive an occupation to yield readily to reason or common honesty.

"We know from the history of Pizarro and Cortes, from the Spanish pillage of Flemish cities, from the piracy of the Drakes and the La Marcks, and from the devastation of Europe wrought by all factions in the hundred years' war under the guise of religion, no less than those of Napoleonic armies in the name of liberty, how overwhelming is the urge for rapine and piracy when any kind of an alibi of righteousness is available.

"I am very much afraid that our taxation system will only be changed as its failure to produce tribute can be made apparent to a politically preponderant percentage of the nation.

"Therefore, a sacred duty rests upon those who have learned the cause of our present misfortunes to teach it throughout the land.

"For there are only two alternatives known or conceived to the form of civilization which we are surely strangling—the slavery, squalor, misery, and pestilence of the dark ages from which it rose, and the pestilence misery, squalor, and slavery of Russia toward which it is headed."

Income Drops; Costs Do Not.

Virgil Jordan, editor of Business Week, was another speaker at today's session of the conference.

Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown of the university opened the conference, which will last through Friday. Thomas J. Watson, president of the Merchants' Association of New York, presided. In his introductory remarks he pointed out that while the national income has dropped to about $37,500,000,000 as compared with the peak of $85,000,000,000 in 1929, no comparable drop in the cost of government has taken place.

Honored After 46 Years of Service

Is 74 Years Old

Charles W. Peters, chief deputy sheriff of Cook county, yesterday celebrated the completion of his 46th year in the sheriff's office. Mr. Peters, who is 74 years old, was sheriff from 1918 to 1922, and during the remaining 42 years has occupied the post of chief deputy. He took that office on Dec. 5, 1886, under Sheriff Canute R. Matson. Less than a year later, on Nov. 11, 1887, he assisted at the execution of the four anarchists condemned to death upon charges of inciting the Haymarket riot.

BRITISH WORRIED BY WHAT LADY ASTOR MAY SAY ABOUT WAR DEBT

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Some members of parliament have expressed worry that views on the war debt question which Lady Nancy Astor and her husband may give the foreign affairs committee of the house of representatives at Washington may be regarded as the general opinion of the house of commons.

[Viscount and Lady Astor, the American born and first woman member in parliament, were invited to appear before the house committee, probably Wednesday.]

Peter MacDonald, Conservative member of parliament, plans to raise the question tomorrow of trying to induce the government to inform the United States government that anything the Astors may say would be unofficial and undesirable for the committee to hear.

EXPERTS MUST WAIT FOR FEES, ASSERTS MAYOR

Mayor Cermak announced yesterday that hereafter experts employed by the city would have to wait for their fees until the pay rolls of regular employés had been met. He made the statement after inspecting the list of payments for September, recently made public by City Controller Szymczak, which disclosed that some of the payments were for services in 1931 and prior years, before Mayor Cermak took office.

FARM LEADER FOR REDUCTION OF U. S. BUREAUS

Favors Roosevelt Domestic Allotment Plan.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Centralization of governmental agencies working on farm matters, thereby eliminating costly duplications, and a national policy of land conservation instead of expansion, were two of the many causes championed for farmers by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, yesterday.

He spoke at the opening of the 14th annual convention of the federation in the Hotel Sherman. Delegates from 39 states were in attendance. The convention will continue through tomorrow.

Backs Roosevelt Plan.

O'Neal indicated plainly that the farm bureau, which has for 10 years championed the equalization fee plan of controlling crop surpluses, would find the domestic allotment plan now being favored by Gov. Roosevelt the desirable means of boosting farm prices that are now close to the lowest in history. He also stated clearly the federation's position that until some relief is afforded agriculture no permanent form of prosperity can be expected for the nation.

"It is the purpose of the Farm Bureau federation to ask the congress to undertake a reorganization of the United States department of agriculture and of all other agencies set up to serve us, to the end that all of these agencies will devote themselves to the rapid advancement of a national agricultural program," O'Neal stated.

Seeks "American Price" for Products.

Among other views expressed by the head of the largest of the organized farm minorities in the nation yesterday were:

"To restore the buying power of agriculture it is necessary that legislation be enacted which will assure the producer of our staple commodities an American price for the portion of these commodities that is consumed at home.

"It is essential that provisions be made to help control constantly recurring crop surpluses.

"I call upon banks, insurance companies, private investors—who hold the bulk of farm mortgages—to defer any action looking to foreclosure until such time as plans now being developed can be put into action to save threatened farms of the nation."

Asks New Credit Agency.

The creation of a new governmental agency to supply this credit relief for farms was advocated by O'Neal. He recommended formation of a federal land mortgage corporation "with debenturable assets extending to a possible five billions of dollars, with the guarantee of the government of the United States supporting it, and to provide a lower interest rate."

This he said was not too great an undertaking to meet the present farm mortgage situation and ward off "what otherwise will be a calamity to farmers and the entire nation."

O'Neal pointed to the costly duplications of governmental agencies now working at cross purposes in the various bureaus and departments in Washington.

"Not only must there be real economy in government, but also we must have a fair and equitable taxing system based on ability to pay," he declared. "The functions of the United States department of agriculture, of our land grant colleges, the farm board and of our agricultural fiscal agencies must be so correlated that there will be no needless duplication of effort, and so that each one will recognize the part of the other in striving to serve agriculture."

Too Much Land in Cultivation.

In discussing the billions of dollars spent by the government in the past for land exploitation, O'Neal said farmers now demand a reversal in the national land policy.

"It is now necessary that we set about in a consistent way to retire submarginal lands from cultivation, developing a program of forest rehabilitation, setting aside ample areas for parks and public playgrounds, and doing all things necessary to preserve for future generations as much of the value of the land as can be preserved."

Among the planks in organized agriculture's program enunciated by O'Neal were the restoration of farm price levels, preservation of the cooperative marketing features of the federal marketing act, control of speculation in basic farm crops, tariff revisions to bring farm tariffs into equality with those for industry, independence for the Philippines, relief for the farm mortgage debtor, reorganization of the national credit system to give producers an "honest" dolar, reduction of public expenditures "upon a consistent basis," regulation of public service corporations, a national land policy and reorganization of all agencies designed to serve agriculture.

"A few years ago, when we declared that agriculture has not been enjoying equality of opportunity with other industries and had not received a fair share of national income, it fell on deaf ears," O'Neal declared. "Unfortunately our predictions of national calamity if justice were not meted out to agriculture have been too fully realized."

In 1919, he pointed out, about one-half of all industrial workers depended upon farm materials for employment and agriculture's purchasing power was 16 billion dollars. Today farm income has dropped to less than 5 billions, 450,000 farmers have lost their farms, tenancy has increased and farm property values dropped 20 billion dollars.

"The brightest spot in the present picture," he added, "is the fact that the President elect of the United States has pledged that agricultural relief will be given immediate attention by his administration."

In referring to the opposition of farmers to any cancellation or modification of the war debts, O'Neal expressed the view that "if this country could make a condition incident to scaling down of European debts as a result of which the nation so benefited would agree to buy certain quantities of goods from this country, it seems to me there might be some justification in the demands."

Today's sessions of the federation will be consumed largely with an exposition of its expected stand on farm legislation. Addresses will be made by H. I. Harriman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Henry A. Wallace, Iowa farm editor; and Prof. M. L. Wilson of Montana state college, all three of whom have been working on the domestic allotment plan of crop control this summer.

Women in Convention Forget Farm Cares for a Day of Song

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The price of corn and wheat and all other depressing subjects were ignored at the afternoon session of the American Farm Bureau federation yesterday when the women took over the program and in song and speech told the virtues of the federation.

Community singing was led by a smiling woman from Tennessee. With nods and gestures she urged every one to join in; the men-folks, too, as songs from the printed selections were sung.

Join in Convention Songs.

Every one was given a printed booklet of convention songs and a typewritten leaflet of songs. Among them are the following:

Keep the farm fires burning,
While our hearts are turning
To the farming country-side
Of old U. S.
Keep the farm fires burning,
While our minds are learning
That the American Farm Bureau
Stands for all that's best.

Part of "Comin' Thru the Rye" is:

Then a body greets a body with a bold "Hello."

The Bureau Federation helps the farmer in his need;
Its scientific methods never fail to grow to seed;
It solves the farmer's problems so he knows how to proceed,
As he goes marching on.

After the community singing the first National Farm Bureau Women's Public Speaking contest was held, with seven contestants from seven states. The subject was: "The Farm Woman and Her Civic Responsibility."

The women told how the Farm bureau is fulfilling a need for "parental education." They are studying the "preschool child," "behavior problems," and so on, which, one of the speakers said, is necessary in order that parents may not be "ignorant and unworthy objects of respect."

The winner in the contest, Mrs. John W. Jackson of Oskaloosa, Ia., will make an address tonight at the fourteenth annual banquet of the federation, at which Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd will talk on "Cutting the Cost of Government." There will be music and dancing until midnight.

The National County Farm Bureau Quartet contest followed the public speaking contest. There were six quartets, both mixed and male, and one woman said they were hopeful that next year the progress of women world be demonstrated by quartets of women only.

A tea for the women and a "charm school" followed. At the "charm school" Mrs. Blanche E. Chenoweth of Oak Park advised the women to dress "according to your type."

Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, director of the federation's home and community department, was the chairman of the meeting.

One of the farm women delegates, Mrs. Elsworth Richardson of Albia, Ia., state home and community chairman, was asked by a reporter how farm women had time to take part in public speaking contests.

"By budgeting our time and learning improved methods from the farm bureau," she explained. "We have one-fourth more leisure than our grandmothers had. When I plan my garden I know just how many beets I need and I grow just that many.

"When I can things they do not spoil. I use a pressure cooker, preserver, etc. I raise more chickens and get more eggs. In a good cooperative community I can take my cream in and buy my butter. I save time. I have fewer children and fewer of them die. I don't spend so much time in bearing children or burying them. We give our children antitoxin, we look after their diet and their teeth.

"Also I have time to enjoy a sunset occasionally, which my grandmother never did. The American Farm Bureau federation helps us in the development of the fuller life, and we make time for it."

Sam H. Thompson, former banker of Quincy, Ill., and now a member of the federal farm board, last night was awarded the annual farm bureau medal for "distinguished service to agriculture." Thompson was for many years president of the Illinois Agricultural association and preceded O'Neal as president of the farm bureau federation.

Cholmondeley, who served with distinction in the Afghan war in 1878 also has a daughter by his first wife, a sister of Mrs. Bernard Shaw, who died in 1929.

THREE PLANS FOR FARM RELIEF UP TO CONGRESS

Artificial Surplus Control Is Big Problem.

In the twelve years that congress and the two major political parties have been trying to help American farmers solve the problems arising from excessive production of such crops as wheat and cotton four types of artificial crop surplus control have occupied attention.

Each of these four different plans of control was designed to raise the level of farm commodity prices in the United States, an exporting nation, above those of foreign countries, and to give American farmers the means to maintain prices that would insure "an American standard of living." Their proponents all dwell upon the premise that American farmers, when they have the money to spend, are the best customers of American industry and labor.

Stabilization Costly to U. S.

The four plans are the "equalization fee," the "export debenture," the "domestic allotment plan," and the price stabilization plan. This latter program was enacted into law in 1929 and involved the federal government, through the farm board, in its half billion dollar fiasco in the wheat and cotton markets.

The three plans now under discussion in the United States may be explained as follows:

1. The equalization fee. Provides that every farmer producing a certain crop, such as wheat, shall stand a pro rata portion of the cost of marketing the exportable surplus, which would be "dumped" or sold for whatever it would bring, thus bolstering prices on that part of the crop consumed in the United States. While the government would administer this plan, farmers would be assessed operation costs. The fee principle, in the form of the McNary-Haugen bills, was twice passed by congress and both times was vetoed by ex-President Coolidge.

2. The debenture plan. Advocated by the National Grange and a few other organizations, this plan provides that farmers be paid by the federal government with a negotiable debenture for the amount of the tariff above the domestic price of his crop for that portion consumed in the United States, less the cost of dumping the surplus abroad. The federal treasury would be reimbursed from the proceeds of foreign sales.

The Allotment Plan.

3. The domestic allotment plan. Would reverse the actions of the two other plans, both of which now would face retaliatory provisions in foreign tariff acts. This plan would penalize each farmer attempting to increase production, since he would be paid the amount of the tariff above domestic prices for that which is consumed within the United States on the basis of what he produced on the average in the preceding five years.

The plan, in effect, is a sales tax which would be paid by the millers, packers or cotton gins and added to the wholesale and retail prices to the American consumer. The surplus would be exported and the cost be borne proportionately by farmers. For example, a farmer producing 1,000 bushels of wheat might find but 800 bushels of it as his share of domestic consumption, on which he would be paid the market price, say 50 cents, plus the tariff of 42 cents (minus handling costs of 3 to 5 cents), while he would be penalized for the 200 bushels of surplus he had created.

GERMAN FARMERS PAY TAXES WITH FOOD FOR IDLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—In order to save on doles and tax collector's fees, the district officer of the commune of Lagebruch, near Velten, has evolved a novel scheme. He has printed certificates valued at 5 marks each. These are given to the idle in place of a like amount in doles. The idle will use the certificates to collect food the peasants will be permitted to use the certificates to pay taxes.

Thus the jobless are entitled to demand from any peasant who has been unable to pay his taxes bread, potatoes, butter, grain, milk, and cheese to the value of 5 marks. In return the peasants will be permitted to hand in the certificates in payment for taxes.

The district officer has another plan to conserve the scanty funds of the commune. In paying out doles he established a flat sum of $3 for rent. Idle who pay less than this sum or who have found free lodging with friends will receive less.

JUDGE IS NOT ONE TO DISTURB A MAN'S SLEEP

"You'd better come up here and get a man lying in the street," a woman's voice told Sergt. John Quinn. "They're wearing out his pockets. Everybody that passes stops to search him."

The man, somewhat the worse for drink, was identified as John Nelson, 28 years old, 1426 Newberry avenue. He awakened to appear before Municipal Judge Leon Edelman. He raised his hand to be sworn and then went back to sleep on the shoulder of Policeman Albert Larson.

"I haven't the heart to disturb him," Judge Edelman remarked. "Start him home when you think he can make it."

Henrici "Regulars"

MANY people patronize a number of different restaurants because they like a change in food. Have you ever noticed, however, that one sees the same faces quite regularly at Henrici's? It isn't that these people are less selective in their choice of food. On the contrary, it is the vast variety of tasty dishes, always prepared to perfection, which induces them to lunch or dine at Henrici's with a regularity that bespeaks their unqualified regard for Henrici's as Chicago's foremost restaurant.

COURTNEY TAKES OATH OF OFFICE AS PROSECUTOR

Other Posts Are Assumed by Democrats.

Chicago and Cook county officialdom became overwhelmingly Democratic yesterday as the new state's attorney, Thomas J. Courtney; twelve judges of the Municipal court, the clerks of the Circuit and Appellate courts, the county surveyor, and reelected incumbents of other important offices were inducted into their duties.

At the end of the ceremonies not one Republican elected official remained in county posts and 24 of the 36 judges of the city courts were Democrats. One vacancy exists on that bench, caused by the election of Judge Francis Allegretti to the Superior court. It probably will be filled at the judicial election next year.

The inductions gave the Democrats virtually complete control of the city, the county, and the sanitary district. Next month they will take over the state government and the important park boards with the inauguration of Governor Elect Horner. In the spring vacancies on the school board caused by the expiration of members' terms will leave the way clear for a Democratic majority.

Courtney Takes Oath.

The major ceremony yesterday took place in the library of the Criminal Courts building, where Senator Courtney succeeded John A. Swanson as prosecutor. Mayor Cermak, Governor Elect Horner, Corporation Counsel Sexton, Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, and others spoke in praise of the new state's attorney before a crowd of more than 2,000 who pressed into the small room.

So tightly packed was the throng that several women fainted and were revived after being taken from the flower filled hall. County Clerk Sweitzer acted as master of ceremonies and administered the oath of office.

Replying to the encomiums of the mayor and the governor elect, Prosecutor Courtney spoke briefly, declaring that the responsibility of his office did not "worry or frighten" him.

"'It is an opportunity," he said, "to prove to the 950,000 people who voted for me that their confidence in me was and is justified."

Announces New Assistants.

When almost every one present had offered congratulations in person, the state's attorney retired to his office and announced the appointments of several of his staff. Grover C. Niemeyer would be his first assistant, he said, and Edwin J. Raber his special assistant in bank cases. Both, he wished it made plain, were appointed for 60 days only. While each felt that he could not afford to leave his private business for more than that length of time, Mr. Courtney added that he hoped to keep them longer.

Other assistants named were Hayden Bell, in charge of tax matters; Charles S. Dougherty, Quin O'Brien, and Earl Hurley. Mr. Dougherty would be one of his principal assistants, Courtney said. Capt. Daniel A. Gilbert will succeed Pat Roche as chief investigator, and Frank Ford will be the prosecutor's secretary. The present secretary, Christian Kiessling, will remain in the office until Saturday to aid Ford.

When he had made these appointments Mr. Courtney announced that he had found $56,000 worth of unpaid bills over and above the state's attorney's appropriation. Most of the bills were expense accounts of investigators and policemen, but did not include work done on major bank cases, such as the Bain case and the Insull crash, he said.

Refuses to Pay Old Bills.

"These bills will not be approved by me or paid by me," said the state's attorney. "I'm not going to approve any bills contracted by my predecessor."

Asked about the Insull prosecutions, Courtney said that he would investigate the matter thoroughly when time allowed. He repeated his promise that the names of his assistants would be submitted to the Chicago Bar association for approval. He does not expect to complete his staff for another month.

"I want the business men of the city to cooperate with me in driving out the hoodlums and gangsters," said Courtney, "and I will give them complete protection if they will help me." The state's attorney then left "to go down and clean out that county building office."

Dismisses Twenty Employés.

In his office in the county building, Courtney placed Mr. Bell in charge and dismissed 20 employés, leaving 12—a working nucleus—for the present.

In the county building, John Conroy was installed as clerk of the Circuit court by Judge Philip Finnegan, while his predecessor, Thomas O. Wallace, and most of the judges of the court looked on. Ald. Sheldon Govier succeeded William W. Scott, Republican,

CAPT. GILBERT AND SIX OTHER POLICEMEN GO TO COURTNEY STAFF

Supervising Capt. Daniel Gilbert and Lieut. Thomas Mangan with a detail of five patrolmen were transferred yesterday by Commissioner of Police Allman to the office of State's Attorney Courtney after the new prosecutor had announced that Capt. Gilbert would be his chief investigator. They are the nucleus of the police detail that will replace the 50 policemen who were shifted yesterday from the prosecutor's office to various police stations.

The five patrolmen transferred, who will report to Mr. Courtney today, are William H. Smith, Thomas Donnelly, John I. Howe and William J. Drury of the detective bureau and Walter A. LaRoy of the traffic division. Among the outgoing policemen are Lieuts. William V. Blaul and John N. Leonard, five sergeants and 43 patrolmen. Blaul goes to the Shakespeare avenue station and Leonard to the East Side station.

Commissioner Allman said that he has not decided who will be appointed to replace Capt. Gilbert as supervising captain of the Fifth division of the uniformed force which has headquarters at the Shakespeare avenue station. There was a report in the city hall that Supervising Captain John Horan, who is in charge of the traffic division, would be shifted to command of the fifth division.

as clerk of the Appellate court in the presence of the nine judges of the court and Chief Justice Prystalski of the Criminal court. A short address of welcome was delivered by Judge William McSurely.

Coroner Frank J. Walsh, Recorder Clayton F. Smith, and Superior Clerk Frank V. Zintak, who were reelected, also were sworn in at ceremonies in their offices, as was Surveyor Henry Reidl.

New Judges Sworn In.

Ex-service men elected to office Nov. 8 were present at a ceremony in the council chambers of the city hall early in the day where Mayor Cermak, Commissioner of Public Works Sprague, State Auditor Elect Barrett, and others spoke to them. Following this the new Municipal judges retired to courtrooms on the upper floors of the hall where, behind flower banked benches, they took the oaths of office.

Judges installed were: Eugene Holland, Rebort Jerome Dunne, Michael G. Kasper, Joseph H. McGarry, John Gutknecht, Lambert K. Hayes, Nuncio J. Bonelli, Erwin J. Hasten, Cecil Corbett Smith, and John J. Rooney, all ten of whom are Democrats; and Samuel H. Trude and Edward B. Casey, Republicans. The first nine Democrats are new judges, elected for the first time in the landslide last month.

NEW PROSECUTOR IN LAKE COUNTY TAKES HIS OFFICE

Charles E. Mason, 43 years old, was installed yesterday as state's attorney of Lake county. He succeeded State's Attorney A. V. Smith, who had held the office for 12 years. Smith was defeated by Mason in the Republican primary.

Mason has been a justice of the peace in Waukegan since 1921, and has served as deputy clerk of the Circuit court and secretary of the civil service commission in Waukegan. The retiring state's attorney won the conviction, during his term of office, of the first three men to die in the electric chair in Illinois. They were Claude Clark and John Brown, colored, and Dominick Bresetti, who were convicted for the murder of William Beck, a Lake county farmer.

Robert Pearsall, 46 years old, was the other newly elected Lake county official who took office yesterday. A Republican, Pearsall was elected to the newly created office of county auditor. The other officers, all Republicans, who were returned to office, are: Lewis O. Brockway, 78 years old, who has held the office of county recorder since 1900; John L. Taylor, 67 years old, for 32 years coroner of Lake county; Lyman J. Wilmot, county clerk since 1924, and Charles E. Russell, county surveyor since 1912.

State's Attorney Mason announced that he would retain Wilfred Hall as an assistant. John R. Bills has been appointed to replace the other assistant, George McGaughey, who retired to resume private practice.

NOVEMBER 'FLU' CASES TWICE AS HIGH AS YEAR AGO

The number of influenza cases reported in November of this year was greater than in the same month of last year, according to statistics made public yesterday by Dr. Hugh O. Jones, director of medical service for the Chicago board of health. There were 55 influenza cases last month, as compared with 26 a year ago. The total number of cases reported for the first eleven months of this year was 607, while the number reported in the similar period last year was 1,315.

YOUNG ARNOLD GOES TO PONTIAC CELL THIS WEEK

Bert Arnold was adjudged guilty of manslaughter by Chief Justice John Prystalski in Criminal court yesterday and sentenced to serve one to fourteen years in Pontiac reformatory.

The 16 year old Riverside High school boy, who beat to death his stepmother's mother, Mrs. Ellen Saxe, and tossed her body in the back yard cistern of his home, will be sent from the county jail to the reformatory with the regular weekly contingent of Chicago's juvenile delinquents on Thursday or Friday.

Under the Pontiac system of allowing time off for good behavior Bert will be eligible for parole in eleven months, according to Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne, who prosecuted the boy. In view of the special circumstances, however, Mr. Ditchburne predicted that he would serve a much longer term.

Bert, as Mr. Ditchburne pointed out, was indicted on a charge of murder, and pleaded guilty to that charge, although the indictment contained a manslaughter count. The parole board's policy, he said, has been to exact the full penalty in such cases.

Expects Eight Year Term.

Unless the boy receives special consideration his term will run at least eight years and three months, Mr. Ditchburne believes. Although he had supported Defense Attorney Weymouth Kirkland in urging a manslaughter verdict to the court, the prosecutor said he would make no recommendation, either towards clemency or severity, should Mr. Kirkland petition for parole at the expiration of eleven months.

Mr. Kirkland was noncommittal on the question of application for parole.

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it," he said. "Bert's parents have only asked for justice, justice to the people of Illinois and to the boy. Three state alienists have declared he was emotionally sick and partly irresponsible when he struck Mrs. Saxe. We'll see how he responds to the discipline and medical care at Pontiac before we start thinking of parole."

Courtroom Is Crowded.

Judge Prystalski had set the case for 2 o'clock. Five hundred spectators were squeezed into the courtroom an hour earlier, many of them smartly dressed women, neighbors of the Arnolds in suburban Riverside. A hundred or more disappointed ones filled the corridor outside.

The judge took the bench at 1:59 p. m. and brusquely said: "Bring in the defendant."

A deputy sheriff, Edward Wing, guarding Bert in an anteroom, tugged at his sleeve and the boy came in. His eyes were red, the effect of a heavy cold.

He uttered a listless "hello" to Attorney Kirkland. Then his glance fell on the face of his stepmother, Mrs. Frances Arnold, daughter of the woman he killed. The frown on his face disappeared. His lips twitched as he tried to respond to her encouraging smile.

Bert's father, C. B. Arnold, a woodenware manufacturer, strode forward to put an arm around his son. Bert accepted the embrace for a moment, then, feeling the stares of the crowd, frowned once more and sat down.

"Has either side anything to say before sentence is pronounced?" the judge inquired. Kirkland and Ditchburne chorused "No."

Silence fell on the crowd as the judge cleared his throat and began to read. The father and stepmother leaned forward.

Manslaughter, Judge's Verdict.

"This indictment charges murder," the judge began, "but the indictment includes a manslaughter count. The court has given the case careful consideration. From the evidence present the court is of the opinion that the crime is manslaughter."

The anxious looks on the faces of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold disappeared. Bert, slumped in his chair with his thin hands folded and his eyes on the floor, looked up for the first time.

"Therefore, Charles Bertrand Arnold," went on the judge, meeting the boy's gaze, "you are sentenced to the reformatory at Pontiac for an indeterminate term of one to fourteen years. Mr. Clerk, call the next case."

Decorum was forgotten. Reporters, photographers, spectators, and even bailiffs crowded pell mell towards the anteroom as the deputy sheriff led Bert to the door. The parents strove to reach his side, but could not penetrate the crowd.

Meanwhile Attorney Kirkland had stepped before the bar. To protect the boy against a possible resurrection of the murder charge hereafter, the lawyer said, he wished to withdraw the original plea and have the record show a plea of guilty to manslaughter alone.

"You have nothing to fear on that score, I think," the judge said crisply. "Motion overruled. Let the record stand."

Mr. Kirkland asked and was granted leave to withdraw the motion.

Bert was with his parents now. The Arnolds had thanked Mr. Ditchburne for what they deemed his fairness and had shaken hands with Dr. Harry Hoffman, director of the Criminal court behavior clinic, who had found Bert emotionally sick and irresponsible for his crime.

A few minutes later Bert went back to the jail. The jail physician, Dr. Francis McNamara, said he had a touch of grip, but was otherwise healthy except for lack of appetite and sleeplessness.

Delays Action on Teacher.

Grover C. Niemeyer, first assistant to the new state's attorney, Thomas J. Courtney, announced that grand jury action against Rhue Green, the former dean of boys at Riverside High school, who was accused at Bert's trial on Saturday of debauching Bert and other boys, would be withheld for a few days. Mr. Niemeyer has requested Riverside police to investigate Green's habits more fully, he said.

Green, who has been teaching mathematics, civics and bookkeeping at Barrington High school this term, drove out to Barrington yesterday from Riverside and handed his written resignation to the superintendent, Erwin Smith. He did not go into the school, but sent his protégé, George Simcox, with whom he lives, into the superintendent's office to summon the latter to the curb.

In his resignation Green said he was resigning to prevent embarrassment to his superiors, his pupils and himself. Mr. Smith said that Peter Anderson, president of the Barrington school board, had summoned a board meeting for Saturday to consider discharging Green before he sent in his resignation.

ALL-BRAN STOPPED HIS SLEEPLESSNESS AND TIRED FEELING

Cereal Relieved His Constipation

Read this enthusiastic letter from Mr. Haraden:

"My system had been run down for quite some time. About three weeks ago I started taking ALL-BRAN for breakfast. I had been unable to sleep nights, but now all I have to do is turn in, and before I know it, I am fast asleep.

"I used to have a tired feeling all day, but now that ALL-BRAN is in my home to stay, there will be no more tired feelings with me."—Mr. Carl Haraden, Main Street, Hamilton, Massachusetts.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking pills and drugs—often harmful! Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily for most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

HOWARD CASTLE, LAWYER, HANGS SELF IN HOME

Suicide While Insane Is Inquest Verdict.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned yesterday afternoon by a coroner's jury investigating the death earlier in the day of Howard P. Castle, Chicago attorney. Mr. Castle's body was found hanging by a bathrobe belt from a clothes hook in the closet of a second floor bedroom in his home at 525 Grove avenue, Barrington.

Mrs. Sarah Castle, the widow, told the jury and Deputy Coroner Matthew Tychsen that her husband had been ill and had worried about his financial affairs. He had a nervous breakdown three years ago, she said, and never had entirely recovered. She said she believed her husband had planned to hang himself Sunday but had been interrupted by her arrival home from church.

Father of Six Children.

Mr. Castle was 54 years old. He was born in Barrington on the farm which his great-grandfather had purchased from the government more than 100 years ago. He was the father of six children, Grace, 23 years old; Caroline, 20 years old; Howard Jr., 15 years old; Alfred, 14 years old; Arthur, 12 years old, and Constance, 6 years old.

Mr. Castle was head of the law firm of Castle, Osborn & Weiss, with offices at 29 South La Salle street. He served five terms in the lower house of the state legislature, retiring in 1928 because of ill health. As a legislator he was chairman of the house judiciary committee and noted as one of the Republican members who constantly fought the efforts of Gov. Small to increase taxes.

The Legislative Voters' league, at the end of his fourth term, said of him: "He has given the public excellent service; showed his usual courage and independence in fighting against excessive appropriations and the loading of pay rolls with unnecessary jobs; his record always has been thoroughly high grade."

Considered for U. S. Judge.

Mr. Castle was one of five candidates considered last summer for the federal district judgeship which went to District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson. He formerly was vice president of the State Bank of Barrington and the Arlington Heights State bank, both now closed. He was a member of the board of governors of the Illinois Bar association and active in the Chicago Bar association.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Dec. 5.—Germany tonight sat at a table with France, Great Britain, Italy, and the United States and listened to the plan of those powers to end the disarmament conference by Christmas. It was the first time Germany has discussed disarmament with the powers since last July, when she quit the conference over her demand for arms equality.

Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, was told that the achievements of the conference to date might be incorporated in a treaty immediately and the conference ended. Then, a permanent commission would be appointed to work out a plan to take care of Germany's equality demand and France's demand for security. Baron von Neurath said he would think it over and give Germany's reply tomorrow.

Experts Put Plan on Paper.

For hours after the meeting, which was at a dinner given by Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, American, French, British, and Italian experts worked putting their ideas on paper to show Baron von Neurath in the morning. The four power plan envisages a ban on certain arms and stabilization of others. The treaty would run to 1936, when the question of carrying out the real disarmament pledges of the Versailles treaty would be taken up.

After tonight's party the American and British delegates, while not forecasting the outcome, said they thought that things had begun well for a showdown tomorrow. From German sources however, came the report that Baron von Neurath had heard nothing that could tempt Germany to come back into the conference in time for it to end by Christmas.

Tomorrow's conversations will be under high pressure. Premier Herriot has to catch the night express for Paris, where the cabinet Wednesday is to map out its strategy for the coming debate on war debts in the chamber of deputies.

League Meets Today.

Also scheduled for tomorrow is a meeting of the special league of nations assembly, which is to decide whether Japan has violated the league covenant and other treaties by her actions in Manchuria. Norman H. Davis, American disarmament delegate, will attend the meeting in the visitor's coop. The French tonight said their delegation has instructions to stand for the sanctity of all treaties.

In this connection, one of today's disarmament activities was an effort by Davis and MacDonald to induce the French and Italians to heal their differences and join the London naval treaty. Tonight the Japanese launched a torpedo at both the London and Washington naval pacts.

Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese delegate, handed Davis and the other disarmament delegates the first part of a new Japanese naval plan aimed to give Japan an increase on the 5-5-3 ratio. A second part of the Japanese plan is yet to be released. In it a change of ratio is understood to be requested explicitly.

Would Cut Battleships.

In the first part Japan opens its arms to the Hoover distinction between offensive and defensive weapons and considers aircraft carriers and big battleships highly offensive. She asks abolition of the first and reduction of the tonnage of the latter to 25,000, with 12 inch instead of 16 inch guns.

Light cruisers would be 8,000 instead of 10,000 tons maximum, but with 8 inch guns instead of 6 inchers, as proposed by Britain. Submarines, according to Japan, are defensive and should be preserved, despite American claims to the contrary. Because the seas around the island empire are apt to be rough, a 2,000 ton maximum is required.

All hope of applying President Hoover's proposal for a 33 1-3 per cent total tonnage reduction is shattered by the Japanese proposal that it be applied only to capital ships, and in lesser proportion to lesser fleets, like that of the Japanese. The Japanese also prefer to destroy no tonnage in their plan, calling for replacement changes instead. Light craft, under 10,000 tons, would be limited only by regional agreements, in the Pacific, Atlantic, etc.

The Japanese plan runs directly counter to both the American and British plans, while borrowing ideas from both.

VON SCHLEICHER RULE AT STAKE IN REICHSTAG TODAY

Reds Will Attempt to Oust His Regime.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—The communists will attempt to overthrow the government of Chancellor Kurt von Schleicher tomorrow when the new reichstag convenes. They will introduce a motion of nonconfidence, but the chancellor tonight expressed confidence in his ability to cope with the situation.

Von Schleicher had a last minute conversation with Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nationalist Socialist speaker of the last reichstag, today. A Nazi announcement said Goering had assured the new chancellor that there would be no hitch in the proceedings of the opening session. The government refused to comment on the conference.

Nazis Pledge Allegiance.

Nazi members of the reichstag met with Adolf Hitler, their leader, this afternoon. Hitler received an individual pledge of allegiance from each member. Just what the Nazis will do tomorrow with reference to the Von Schleicher cabinet is a mystery.

Hitler has said that his party will not tolerate a Von Schleicher government. If the Nazis and the communists join together they will have sufficient strength to overthrow the government, provided, of course, that the chancellor does not interrupt their course of action by presenting a decree dissolving parliament.

Von Schleicher will not appear in the reichstag unarmed. He will carry a decree of dissolution in his pocket which he will be able to promulgate in the event a vote of nonconfidence seems imminent. It is the chancellor's aim to carry Germany through the winter months without further political strife and he has been attempting to obtain promises of toleration from the Hitler leaders to that end.

Plan System of Succession.

Political circles tonight said that the council of elders are planning to call a special session of the reichstag before the end of the month to formulate a system of succession in case anything happens to the president of the reich. There is no vice president in the present German scheme.

By a special legislative act Walter Simons, former president of the Supreme court, served as president after the death of Germany's first president, Friedrich Ebert. Simons held office until President Paul von Hindenburg was elected. Von Hindenburg is now 85 years old and was elected to a six year term early this year.

DUKE IS SUED FOR BILL; WED TO U. S. WOMAN 4 DAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Just as soon as "certain moneys from America" arrive, the duke of Leinster, premier duke of Irish peerage, who married Mrs. Raffaele Van Neck of New York last Thursday, hopes to settle his various debts. Among them is a $10,000 loan mentioned in a judgment summons before the chancery court today.

DUKE OF LEINSTER
[Fotograms.]

Attorney W. B. Franklin, acting for a creditor named Grigsby, said the sum represented two-thirds of a loan made two years ago, one-third having been repaid. Franklin said four letters had been received from the duke's solicitors, the last stating that he is away on a honeymoon. The letter added: "Our client for some time past has been expecting certain moneys from America."

Sir George Jones, the duke's lawyer, produced a physician's certificate which said the duke of Leinster was not present "because of illness."

"It is somewhat unusual, though perhaps not unusual for this gentleman, that on the day he is supposed to go into the box to be examined as to his means, a doctor's certificate in rather peculiar terms is put in," Franklin declared. "He is on his honeymoon and the certificate says he is suffering from debility."

On advice of the bench the case was delayed until Jan. 23.

The duke and Mrs. Van Neck were married quietly at the Savoy chapel last Thursday, a week after her divorce from Capt. Van Neck of London. She is the only daughter of Mrs. J. J. Patterson of New York. The duke previously was married to the former May Etheridge, musical comedy actress. They were divorced in 1930. The duke has been involved in legal financial difficulties before.

GUY LOMBARDO TAKES ADVANCE PEEP AT NEW DODGE SIX

New York, N. Y.—Guy Lombardo, personable leader of one of America's most famous dance orchestras, and musical idol of the younger set, deserted his baton today for an advance showing of the new Dodge Six.

"It's a hit!" was his enthusiastic comment of the rhythm king afterwards. And since Mr. Lombardo has been responsible for some of the biggest hits in the song world, his statement may be considered prophetic.

"The new Dodge Six will click with everybody who wants a smart, youthful car that is sporty and smooth. And it's so peppy! It has the zip and go of a snappy fox-trot, combined with the gliding ease of a dreamy waltz. It has everything the public wants—good looks, impressive power, flashing speed and brilliant performance. And when you add to that the amazing value represented by this great car you've got a combination that will take the country by storm."

GUY LOMBARDO

Although details of the new car have not yet been officially released by the Dodge organization, it is known that Dodge is ready to spring a real surprise when the new car is formally presented to the public. According to reports, the new Dodge Six is going to be offered with an astounding array of features, at a radical low price which will completely upset all established standards of automobile value.

HELD IN BONDS OF $15,000 AS A COUNTERFEITER

CRIMINAL COURT.
Tony Rizzo, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Francis B. Allegretti.

John Molnar, Austrian piano tuner, was held in bonds of $15,000 when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker on charges of counterfeiting yesterday. His formal hearing was set for Dec. 8.

Molnar was arrested on Saturday by United States secret service agents under Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan. His arrest followed the confession of his brother, Edward, who is held on similar charges in Omaha.

Agents found $44,000 in counterfeit money, $4,000 in good money, and more than two dozen engraving plates in three safety deposit boxes in a loop bank. According to Edward Molnar's confession, the two brothers printed $50,000 in bogus bills and had placed $6,000 of them in circulation.

AUTO THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 90; recovered, 75; stripped, 19 [from police records for the twenty-four hour period ending at midnight Sunday].

Automobile case defendants sentenced: Stanley Penklaka, 30 days in the House of Correction for violation of probation in stealing auto parts; James Dixon, 60 days, Charles Jackson, 10 days, and William Howard, 60 days in the House of Correction for attempted larceny of an automobile; Kendall Collins and Lacy Bush, held to the grand jury for automobile larceny. All cases before Judge Harold P. O'Connell.

"MOIST THROAT" AIDS COUGH RELIEF

Your throat and bronchial tubes are lined with millions of pores like tiny bottles continually supplying moisture to the delicate tissues . . . until you "catch cold."

Then these "bottles" get plugged up, phlegm accumulates, affording dangerous germs a breeding place. Your throat feels hot and dry. Tickling, irritation and coughing set in.

Your cough will be cured only when the flow of the natural fluid is increased, loosening the phlegm so that it can be expelled. Many cough "remedies" contain numbing drugs which merely deaden the nerves . . . but don't get at the root of the trouble.

PERTUSSIN, a scientific remedy, which doctors have prescribed for many years, is the extract of a famous herb which opens the tiny glands, stimulates the flow of the throat's natural moisture and brings quick relief. It helps nature heal that awful cough from the inside out.

When you feel that warning dryness take a few spoons of PERTUSSIN. It's absolutely safe. Sold at all drug stores, 60¢.

Make $1 go as far as $3 when fighting those stubborn colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

YOU may be trying to save money. But instead of saving it, you're losing it if you don't know the difference between the two kinds of mouth antiseptics on the market. One kind must be used full strength to be effective—that means "if you add water, it won't kill germs."

Pepsodent CAN be diluted

But the other kind—Pepsodent Antiseptic—is powerful enough to be diluted with 2 parts of water and still kill germs in less than 10 seconds—yet Pepsodent is absolutely safe when used full strength. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn sore throat colds, unpleasant breath, and all kinds of germ infections.

Be safe—and save money!

When choosing your mouth antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that, even when it is diluted with water, still kills germs! The other kind costs more . . . either in money or in health. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe!

IMPURE BREATH
(Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, even when diluted with water it still kills germs.

6 TRUSTEES FOR TEACHER PAY CUT IN EMERGENCY

J. P. Savage in Favor of Budget Trim.

A stand for "retrenchment to the last dime" will be the policy of School Trustee Joseph P. Savage in regard to the 1933 budget. Mr. Savage said late yesterday that the board of education should begin to trim the tentative $50,000,000 budget for next year as soon as possible.

Trimming may mean a general reduction of salaries for all classes of employés in the school system, in the opinion of Mr. Savage.

"It is my contention that the schools are run for the benefit of the children," he declared. "If it comes to a question of depriving the children of the type of education they now are receiving or of cutting salaries, I am absolutely in favor of reducing salaries of teachers, janitors, engineers and other school employés.

Favors Cutting Expenses.

"Moreover, I'm for complying with the request of the citizens' committee on public expenditures," asserted Mr. Savage. "I'm for reducing to what they say. If we're not going to receive the money we certainly cannot spend it."

The citizens' committee recommended last week that the school board stay within $48,000,000 on its tax levies, exclusive of bond and interest obligations. The tax levies proposed for 1933, which were announced by Howard P. Savage, school business manager, when he completed his tentative budget last Friday, total $80,590,180, or more than $24,000,000 above the committee recommendation, taking bond payments into account.

Besides Trustee Savage, five other trustees have indicated that it might be necessary to make a downward revision in salary and wages in order to stay within anticipated revenue. The others include: Lewis E. Myers, president of the board; Robert F. Carr, William D. McJunkin, Ernst Buehler and Mrs. W. S. Hefferan.

English Opposes Pay Cuts.

Trustee John A. English said yesterday that he was "absolutely opposed" to any salary cuts and that reductions must be made in some other way. A similar position has been taken by Trustee Carter Blatchford.

The tentative budget asks for $5,494,613.55 more in appropriations than the final budget of 1932 after the board trimmed $15,000,000 on July 27. A table comparing the 1932 budget and the 1933 tentative budget follows:

	—Appropriations for—
Fund.	1932.	1933.
Educational	$53,290,710	$58,232,500
Free text book	697,488	1,252,678
Playgrounds	801,666	777,981
Buildings	12,380,217	11,384,489
Teachers' pensions	1,311,359	822,800
Bond redemption	6,488,888	7,934,444
Lunch rooms	188,985	189,985
Special funds	21,000	20,000
Totals	$75,180,263	$80,674,877

Representatives of the citizens' committee and school officials started yesterday on a survey of the elementary schools to find out the number of vacant rooms, seat shortage, and pupil load per teacher.

Seventeen Teams Working.

Seventeen teams are working in as many sections of the city. Don C. Rogers, director of research and building for the school system, is conducting the inquiry.

Thomas J. Higgins, Mr. Rogers' assistant, reported that in seven schools visited by his team on the first day an average of two unused classrooms to a school was found.

"Death Girl" Appears in Court

Case Is Continued

Margaret Mary Collins, the erstwhile sweetheart of seven gangsters who met untimely deaths, and of an eighth hoodlum, Sol Feldman, 2125 Pierce street, an alleged thief, who is lying seriously wounded in Mother Cabrini hospital, appeared in Felony court yesterday. Under the alias of Fay Sullivan, the blonde young woman appeared to answer the charge that she had stolen a $600 caracul coat from the shop of Miss Ethel Glttler, 7027 Euclid avenue. She was granted a continuance to Dec. 9. A charge of burglary against Feldman was called before Judge Frank M. Padden in the same court a short time later and continued to Jan. 11, pending his possible recovery. Feldman was shot by South Park Policeman Ted O'Barr last Wednesday as he fled with a fur coat stolen from a store at 318 South Michigan avenue.

BOOST ESTIMATE OF LOSS, COST OF TAX COLLECTING

Seven Million Additional Reserve Set Up.

Inspection of the revenue estimates which the city council is using in drafting the 1933 city budgrest disclosed yesterday that city fiscal officials have abandoned, for the time at least, hope of collecting their back tax levies with a maximum loss and cost of collection of 10 per cent.

In his estimate of surplus in the corporate fund, City Controller Szymczak has set up reserves totaling $7,198,706 for additional losses in collection of the levies for the years 1928 to 1932 inclusive over and above the original loss and cost allowances of 10 per cent.

In regard to the 1933 levy he added a warning to the council that the increased percentage of personal property assessments in the 1931 reassessment may make it necessary to reduce estimates of revenue available for expenditure next year. He asserted that the loss and cost of collecting personal property taxes may run as high as 35 per cent.

Defend 10 Per Cent Allowance.

Although the county has been unable to collect any tax levy since that for the year 1926 with a loss and cost as low as 10 per cent, practically every governmental body in the county has persisted in use of the 10 per cent figure in estimating the net amount of revenue which it will get from taxes.

This practice has been defended in the face of the fact that the last tax levy, that for 1930, is still 44 per cent uncollected. Budget-making officials have contended that the 10 per cent figure was intended to apply over a period of four or five years, and that at the end of that time the governments may reasonably expect to collect the remaining 90 per cent of their levies.

The city corporate fund still has uncollected, after the original 10 per cent loss and cost allowance, $38,905,729 in 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes. In his estimate of surplus revenue from those years still available for 1933 expenditures Mr. Szymczak subtracted, among other items, a further reserve of $3,198,706. That raises his estimate of loss and cost on the taxes for those years which are still uncollected to 17.9 per cent.

In similar fashion, after making the orthodox 10 per cent reductions from the 1931 and 1932 corporate levies, he subtracted a further reserve of $4,000,000 for loss and cost in making an estimate of the available revenue from those two levies still uncollected. This raised his loss and cost figure for the 1931 and 1932 levies together to 14.5 per cent.

Mr. Szymczak's conclusions regarding the loss in collecting personal property taxes are borne out to some extent by collections on the 1928, 1929 and 1930 levies. At present 1928 personality taxes are 31 per cent unpaid, while real estate taxes for that year are only 13 per cent unpaid and railroads have paid all but 1 per cent of their 1928 taxes. For 1929 the unpaid personality taxes now amount to 33 per cent, but real estate taxes for that year still show a 29 per cent delinquency, and railroads 2 per cent.

For the 1930 levy personal property taxpayers have done almost as well as real estate owners. They have paid 52 per cent of their taxes, as against 55 per cent for real estate and 85 per cent for railroads.

Jacobs Is Optimistic.

Assessor Jacobs believes, however, that the reforms which he instituted in making personal property assessments for 1931 make it possible to collect fully as high a percentage of personal property as of real estate taxes in the future.

After Commissioner Dan Ryan had introduced a resolution at yesterday's meeting of the county board pointing out that thousands of public employés face a drab Christmas because failure to collect taxes has made it impossible to pay them, he was appointed chairman of a committee to encourage civic groups, social and fraternal organizations and commercial and professional interests to join in a "Christmas drive" for immediate tax payments that employés may be paid.

LEGISLATURE TO MEET TODAY, BUT FEW WILL ATTEND

The special relief session of the legislature will reconvene at Springfield this morning, but it was predicted yesterday that only a handful of members would be present and that a recess would be taken until Dec. 20. It was decided two weeks ago, when the idle relief bills were passed, to keep the session alive until the next legislature comes into being in January to care for any emergency matter which might arise.

Chicago members were speculating yesterday upon reports from Springfield that Gov. Emmerson will veto the Michel race track bill, which would allow the tracks to raise their percentage from the betting machines, while a portion of the license fees would be diverted to emergency relief work.

Although no work requiring a quorum is before the assembly, a few members are expected to be on hand in both house and senate this morning. Speaker David E. Shanahan will not attend, being in his home at 2722 Throop street with an injured leg. Representative Homer J. Tice of Greenview will act in his place.

County Board Raps Relief Commission Food Contract

For the first time in its two years of existence the present county board was unanimous yesterday in its vote on a controversial question. The members joined in voting for a rejection of bids on food rations for the destitute in protest against what they termed "an irregularity" of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

However, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the relief commission, informed the board that he would let the contract despite the censure because the commission had virtually pledged itself to grant the contract to the National Tea company. The relief commission is independent of the county board and is not bound by the action of the county commissioners.

Cause of the Dispute.

The dispute arose over the procedure of letting a contract for $2,000,000 worth of food rations for the idle. The board had lent its facilities to the commission to cut the costs of relief work.

Three weeks ago the board advertised for bids and made specifications, which designated the size of the rations and provided for delivery by wholesale grocery companies obtaining the contract. The relief commission a week later amended the specifications to provide that delivery might be made over the counter of a grocery if the company bidding had such facilities.

Under this provision, the National Tea company was the low bidder by from 4 to 12 cents on rations ranging from $1.50 to $7. Wholesale grocery companies protested that they had no facilitales to make counter delivery and that the specifications were unjust. Protests also were made to the board by independent grocers, who declared letting of such a contract would give people the chain store habit when conditions change.

Signs Sales Tax Bill.

Gov. Emmerson yesterday signed the Tice sales tax bill, the last measure in the unemployment program of the fourth special session of the legislature. The bill becomes a law at once. Under its provisions the county boards of the state, by a two-thirds vote, may extend a sales tax of 1 per cent, the revenue to be used for relief.

Mrs. T. Philip Swift Arrested as a Speeder

Mrs. T. Philip Swift, of 1001 East Spring lane, Lake Forest, wife of a vice president of the Continental-Illinois National Bank and Trust company, was arrested yesterday in Evanston on a charge of speeding. The police charged that she drove her automobile 40 miles an hour in Ridge avenue. The case will be heard today by Magistrate H. H. Porter. Mrs. Swift said that she had been told that the speed limit in Evanston was 40 miles an hour.

BANDITS KIDNAP TWO MEN; LEAVE THEM IN 'UNDIES'

Three bandits kidnaped Anton Gush, 26 years old, of 4642 South Richmond street, and Charles Gurke, 24, in Gush's car while in front of Gurke's home at 4543 South Francisco avenue last night. They drove the two to 44th street and Sacramento avenue.

It wouldn't have been so bad, the victims complained later, if the robbers had taken only the car and a small amount of money. It was downright embarrassing and cold because the gunmen also took Gush's and Gurke's clothes, leaving them standing in the street barefooted and clad only in their underwear.

Mystery Bullet Victim Succumbs to His Wounds

John Laberto, 24 years old, of 1941 Erie street, died this morning in the Belmont hospital, the second victim of a shooting mystery which occurred in Melrose Park last Thursday. He was found shot in front of 7331 Fullerton avenue ten minutes after Joseph Provenzano, 40 years old, had been shot and killed a half mile away. Police are seeking John Provenzano, brother of Joseph, for the shooting of Laberto. A cheese loaf which had been in Joseph Provenzano's possession when he was killed, was found later in Laberto's car. This satisfied police that the shootings were connected.

BLAST HOME OF MAPLETON MAN.

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Sheriff Frank Lichtweiss and deputies are today investigating a dynamite explosion which partly wrecked the home of Charles Heitzman at Mapleton last night. Mrs. Heitzman and her 6 month old baby narrowly escaped with their lives.

COUNTRY TOWNS FOR PLAN TO CUT ELECTION COSTS

The proposal to hold the Chicago aldermanic and county judicial elections on the same day, to save election expenses, was extended yesterday to a number of country town districts which have local elections next spring. Representatives of the suburbs under the Chicago election board — Cicero, Berwyn, Stickney, Evergreen Park, Summit, and Chicago Heights—and of Bloom township and Morton Grove conferred with County Judge Jarecki and the election commissioners and agreed to the proposal. Consolidation of the election dates at the time of the June judicial election would save the country towns $200,000, it was said.

President Whealan of the county board yesterday appointed County Clerk Sweitzer, Daniel A. Carey, chief clerk in the election division of Mr. Sweitzer's office, and Thor E. Madsen, county efficiency engineer, to a committee to work with city officials and the election commission on the election merger proposal.

CITY'S LEADERS SUPPORT GOOD FELLOW DRIVE

Indorse Plan to Spread Christmas Cheer.

Indorsements of the Good Fellow movement have been received from Perry A. Lint, executive of the Chicago council, Boy Scouts of America; from W. J. Parker, general secretary, Young Men's Christian association of Chicago; from William J. Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools; and from Dr. Louis L. Mann, rabbi, Sinai congregation.

"The idea underlying the Good Fellow movement," wrote Dr. Mann, "is in keeping with the finest Jewish traditions. Two thousand years ago the Talmud contained the idea that only he who gives of himself with his alms truly may be called a giver.

"Needless to say, I am thrilled to indorse a movement so genuinely human, so truly inspired and so greatly and urgently needed."

Parker Promises Cooperation.

Mr. Parker of the Y. M. C. A. wrote: "Our various departments have been in the habit of coöperating in the Good Fellow program, and I am sure they will do so again this year."

From the Boy Scout executive came the following letter:

"The Chicago council, Boy Scouts of America, is delighted to coöperate with the Good Fellow campaign this Christmas. Because the "good turn" is basic to scouting, many of our units for years have been distributing food, clothing, and fuel to needy families in their own communities. However, there are undoubtedly some troops who do not know the names and addresses of worthy families. These troops will be urged, through the medium of our bi-monthly bulletin, to coöperate with THE TRIBUNE in securing this information."

Bogan Indorses Campaign.

School Superintendent Bogan wrote: "Tales from our teachers regarding poverty among school children grow more serious. Poverty is bad enough, but when hope and joy are missing from the lives of children at Christmas time the general breakdown of morale is hastened.

"Therefore, I ask you to make unusual efforts this year to spread among adults the principle of good will to men which is the basis of our Christmas celebration, a principle which you have been applying for years by your appeals to Good Fellows."

You can enlist in the Good Fellows by tearing out the accompanying coupon and mailing it to Good Fellows, TRIBUNE, Chicago, or by calling at THE TRIBUNE public service office at Dearborn and Madison streets. You will receive the name of a family recommended for your basket by the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau, the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, the Juvenile court, or some other affiliate of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

After receiving the name, address and brief description of a worthy family, it's the Good Fellow's job to deliver an inexpensive basket of toys, fruit, candy, and foodstuffs on Christmas eve.

MEMORIAL GIFTS SWELL FUND FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN

High School Class Sends In $10.

Two contributions received yesterday for the Hungry School Children's fund were memorials. The sophomore class of the University High school sent $10 in memory of Sigmund Silberman, and a $5 gift came in memory of Tilden Straus's birthday on Dec. 8. Among other contributors were the Ladies of the Bou Villa Bridge club who sent $2, and the Cecilian chorus, which sent $5.

Fifty-two public schools of Chicago depend on the fund to supply lunches for needy pupils. Five cents a day will feed an elementary school pupil with hot soup, bread and butter, milk and jam. Fifteen cents will give a junior or senior high school pupils an adequate lunch.

The following donations are acknowledged:

$5—W. C. M.—In memory of Tilden Straus birthday on Dec. 8. E. D. Andrews, Morris Henry Hirsh, H. J. Furber, the Cecilian chorus.

$2.50—Dirty Heart club.

$2—The Ladies of the Bou Villa Bridge club.

$1—A. M. F., Mrs. Mary Cook, Mary H. Crawford, B. E., L. G., Lucille M. Cohan, From a Friend, V. V. V., Polly B., Mr. Hadley, H. H.

Total ..... $ 65.50

Personalty Tax Is Cut 90% for P. E. Simmons

The board of tax appeals yesterday granted a 90 per cent reduction in his 1931 personal property assessment to Parke E. Simmons, 73 year old retired laywer who was recently a principal in a sensational divorce case. Simmons, who lives at 1746 Hinman avenue, Evanston, had been assessed at $37,000. A reappraisal of his personal property by the assessor's office after he had filed a complaint resulted in a reduction of the assessment to $3,880.

POSTPONE TRIAL OF 3 AS LOTTERY TICKET SELLERS

New York, Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Trial of the Western Union Telegraph company, M. J. Revise, an official of the company, and Bernard C. McGuire, and Raymond Walsh, on an indictment in connection with the sale of charity ball lottery tickets for the Mystic Shrine and the Knights of Columbus on the west coast, was adjourned in federal court today until Dec. 14.

Counsel for the telegraph company protested that the date set for trial would conflict with that set for the trial of United States Senator James J. Davis and others on a lottery indictment involving sale of tickets by the Loyal Order of Moose.

CERMAK MAKES CHRISTMAS PLEA FOR CITY'S POOR

Clothes and Toys May Be Left with Police.

Every police station will be a Santa Claus headquarters this Christmas if Chicagoans take to heart an appeal by Mayor Cermak on behalf of the poor. His message asking help for them and pledging the coöperation of city employés was issued last night.

He requested that all clothing, shoes and toys that are in any way serviceable be taken to the nearest police station and left there. All the articles taken in by the police will be sent to the house of correction, where prisoners will repair the garments and footwear and renovate the toys before the holidays.

Says Thousands Need Help.

The mayor's message, in part, was: "Christmas is just three weeks away and there are thousands of families who will have a gloomy Yuletide unless the more fortunate lend their help. With so many appeals for funds and so many people providing for distressed relatives, I can readily understand the inability of some to help with cash.

"But in many homes in Chicago there are old clothing and shoes which are still serviceable or can easily be made so. Also there remain from last Christmas many toys which are still good and need only a little repairing.

"I therefore appeal to you in the name of charity and love for your fellow humans to gather together all the old clothes, shoes and toys that you can spare and turn them over to the poor of your city.

Appeals for Clothing.

"It is my plan to have the citizens take these articles to their nearest police station, from which they will be delivered to the house of correction. They will then be distributed by the proper agencies direct to the needy families. May I urge that you do not confine your gifts to those articles which are almost worn out, but that you include overcoats, shoes, dresses and underwear that you do not use regularly and can spare for the happiness or comfort of some less fortunate individual."

If there is any doubt about the location of the police station nearest the prospective donor, the mayor suggested that the Central station, telephone Wabash 4747, be called. Information will be furnished there.

Cardinal Bourne, Ill in Rome, Is Out of Danger

ROME, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Cardinal Francis Bourne of Westminster, the diocese of London, who has been ill for several days, was said to be out of danger today.

POSTAL AUCTION IS WARNING TO WRITE CLEARLY

Undelivered Packages Go on Sale Today.

The United States post office last night issued a warning to all Christmas shoppers to wrap their parcel post packages securely and to address them legibly. Today and tomorrow an object lesson will be furnished of what happens if these instructions are not followed.

Approximately 1,500 lots, many containing more than a hundred individual packages the postal authorities have been unable to deliver, will be placed on sale at public auction. All packages sold are in the auction rooms because they could not be delivered.

Furs and Gems in Lot.

The sale will be held at 1304 Indiana avenue, with each item going to the highest bidder. Not less than 50 per cent cash must accompany each bid. The list of objects includes practically everything that, under the law, can be sent through the mails. The first item in the 60 page list is a lot of used and undressed furs. The last item is a diamond ring in an 18 carat mounting.

Practically every desire for Christmas gifts is represented in the auction. One lot of 400 poker chips and 16 pairs of dice is listed next to a lot of 25 golf balls and 2 score registers. Three calf weaners and five milk pails comprise another assortment. Another lot of 48 strings of rosary beads will be sold right after the auctioning of 50 clutch and vest pocket pencils.

Send Loose Coffee by Mail.

"Every item on sale," Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder said, "is there because some one did not heed the warning to write the address clearly and wrap the package securely. Indicative of the confidence in the post-office some people feel is this package of coffee. Five pounds of coffee were wrapped in a daily newspaper, tied with a cotton string, and placed in the mail. It didn't go very far."

Immediately before Christmas mailing instruction classes are held in most of the public school and in the Van Buren street postoffice. There the right and wrong ways of sending parcel post are shown. In the seven years the policy of public education has been followed the former annual toll of 15,000,000 packages of undelivered mail has been cut by 65 per cent.

RAW WINDS SLOPPY WEATHER DRAFTS STUFFY ROOMS

...Unlikely to get the best of you...if your resistance is high

Instead of falling an easy victim to common winter ills help protect yourself in advance against them!

Even if you do have to go out in sloppy weather, live in overheated rooms, and ride in stuffy trains, make a special effort to stay well. Build up good general resistance!

It's the best defense you can offer against common winter ills.

Two factors, in particular, will help you to attain it! They are now available in a new concentrate of cod-liver oil vitamins—Squibb Adex Tablets-10D.

Vitamin A, provided in abundance by Squibb Adex Tablets, is the important resistance-building factor.

Vitamin D also present in Adex tablets, is the sunshine vitamin which helps to tone the system.

Each tablet supplies as much Vitamins A and D as one-half teaspoonful of Squibb Cod-Liver Oil with Viosterol-10D.

And you will find them pleasant to take! Chocolate coated, easy to swallow. Start now and take them regularly every day! Ask at any reliable drug store.

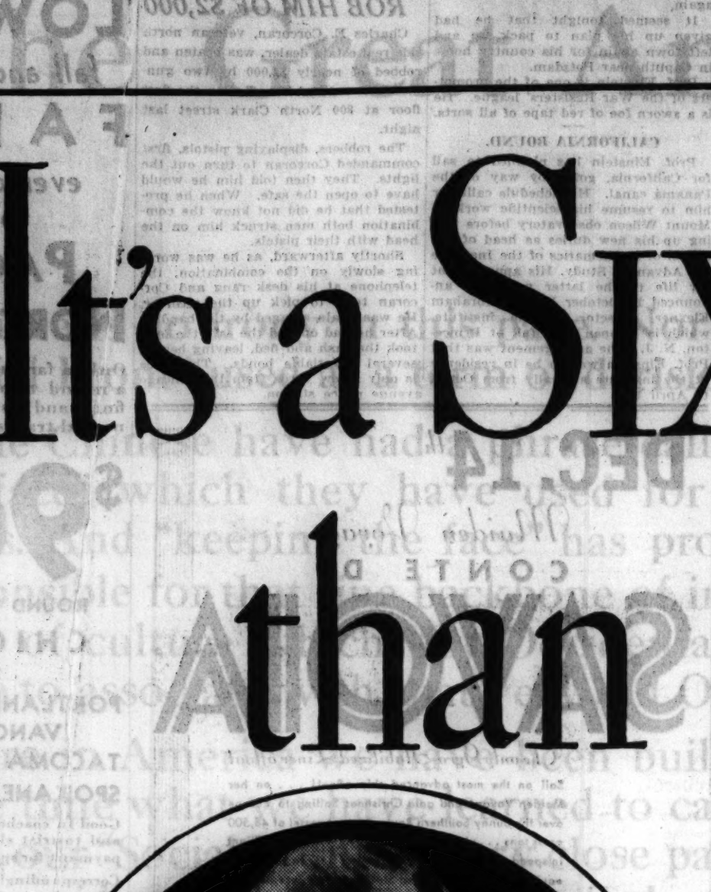
"It's a SIX at $60 Less than Last Year"



"Let's All Go Ahead—the Time for Waiting is Past"

"We are all anxious for the return of better times. But I for one do not believe that better times will be brought back just by talking . . . or by merely waiting. Someone must start something . . . and with that idea we introduced the Plymouth Six.

"We made it a completely new car. We spent $9,000,000 on tools, equipment and research. We have committed ourselves already to $42,000,000 worth of raw materials.

"We did all this because we were convinced that there are many people who can buy new cars now . . . and would if offered an outstanding value. And every new car sold . . . whether a Plymouth or some other make . . . puts more men to work.

"We built with the idea of 'value first' because we want people to buy now. We spent years in making a car so full of style, performance, safety and comfort that people would acknowledge without question its leadership.

"Look at the new Plymouth. Look at all three low-priced cars. And I sincerely believe your next car will be a Floating Power Plymouth Six."

W. P. Chrysler

WILL THIS BE AMERICA'S NEXT NUMBER ONE CAR?

WHY are people talking so much about the new Plymouth Six? Why do we hear them say, "It's the coming best-seller"? The answer lies in this simple fact: Walter P. Chrysler and his engineers knew what you wanted.

They knew that you wanted a smooth surge of power when you put your foot on the accelerator . . . so they built a 70-horsepower Six with Floating Power!

They knew that Americans hate to be squeezed in . . . and so they designed a full-sized family car!

They realized it's "only human nature after all" to want a car that's fast . . . that's thrilling to drive!

They made it safer than other low-priced cars . . . by giving you hydraulic four-wheel brakes, a safety-steel body, a safety-glass windshield, a solid X-girder frame!

They knew you have to watch every penny . . . so they achieved new economy of gas, oil, tires and upkeep.

Last but not least, they designed a low-priced car without that "low-priced look."

No wonder Walter P. Chrysler wants your answer to the intriguing question: "Will the new Plymouth Six be America's next Number One Car?"

FINDS JAPANESE EYE U. S. WITH GREAT SUSPICION

Thoughts Are Dictated by Military Leaders.

This is the third of a series of articles by Mr. Kinsley on Japan.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 17.—[By mail.]—The average Japanese citizen is distinctly muddled in his thoughts about the United States. His respect and admiration for the American people, which is manifest in his talk and in the innumerable ways that American civilization has been imitated and adapted to his own life, is tempered by a fear of the peaceful intentions of that country toward the security of Japan as conceived by its military leaders and by himself.

We will talk with a little leather merchant of Tokio rather than with the prime minister. He is a short, rather chubby fellow, with a friendly smile, anxious to improve his use of English and his knowledge about America. He has served with the Japanese army and does not want any more of it. In fact, he does not want to fight with any one.

Plays Ball, Visits Movies.

He has a wife and two children, plays baseball, goes to the movies, says his prayers before the ancestral tablets in his home every morning before breakfast, thinks the mikado is a descendant of the gods, and reads three Japanese newspapers for his political opinions, which incline to the deflationist policy of the Inseito party. He believes his taxes are too high and he is worried about the nation's financial future. His pride in the material development and beauty of his city is great.

"Do you have big department stores in Chicago?" he asked as we strolled down the Ginza, the principal shopping street, where people with bundles and babies clattered and squeaked through the corridors of big stores, bright with decorations and lights—rich stores with marble fountains and seats for the weary, with acres of goods displayed on the American pattern.

"Do you have big cars in America?" he queried as the tram cars rolled by bound for the suburbs.

"Do you have tall buildings? I hear there is a building 100 stories high."

"Is zass so!" was his amazed and delighted reaction to the replies to these questions. "You don't say! Do you have railways and telegraphs and radio? Is zass so!"

"Did you ever think about going to war with the United States?" he was asked.

Calls Stimson an Admiral.

This seemed to trouble him. He was anxious to save his money and go to that country to see these wonders for himself. War could not be—and yet.

"The newspapers," he said, "told of your Admiral Stimson sailing out to help China. They said America was going to stop Japanese army in Manchuria. Why is that? Japan is very sick financially, too many babies, too many men out of work. Japan must grow or we have no job. That is bad and bolsheviks come. Why does America put her nose in there? Why is your fleet in the Pacific?"

Assured that America never had any intention of going to war and the American people were not thinking about it, he was greatly relieved.

"Many people think America want to fight Japan a few months ago," he said. "Many people want fight America. But I think it could not be."

Many Grades of Thought.

From this middle figure there are many grades of thought, some moving in realms of intellectual priesthood, internationally conscious, some in the devious ways of political advantage, the majority in an even greater darkness, sheep to be led by the scholars, the journalists and the military responding as an organ responds to a skilled player.

There is a deep interest in things American and the complaint is common that Americans do not understand the Japanese necessities or the situation in the far east. A few months ago people talked as though war was just around the corner and they were prepared to go through with it. Their position in Manchuria and Shanghai has been rationalized into actions of necessity and right. They believe they have been doing the right thing, that peace and order, the maintenance of their rights, and their very national existence depends upon their military action. At the same time this is conceived of only as a defense action and it is in this light that the movements of the Pacific fleet are watched with keen suspicion and its presence in the Pacific continues to form an irritant.

Pacific Fleet Irritant.

"Would America permit the peace pact to stop them if Nicaragua repudiated the canal treaty?" is one pertinent question asked in higher circles.

For twenty years Japan has regarded Manchuria as a necessity to its security, concerning which it has about the same complex as France. From no quarter comes the suggestion of an aggressive action against the United States. The interest in the Philippines is tepid. The thought is toward Manchuria and what the United States intended and intends now to do about it.

The suspicions of the people were intensified during the height of the recent excitement by the publication of excerpts from "More Merry-Go-Round," a book written anonymously by Washington newspaper men. The war department red marked certain passages and sent them to the Japanese newspapers as confirmatory of their suspicions and as justification of their demands for more money for military purposes. One of these passages follows:

"During the Shanghai crisis in the winter of 1932, when Japanese troops overran the International Settlement, even encroaching upon areas policed by American marines, Admiral Pratt gave evidence of a much steadier head than the man at the helm of American foreign policy. Secretary of State Stimson was convinced that war with Japan was inevitable, and his military aide, Capt. Eugene Regnier, passed the word to newspaper men that nothing could avert hostilities between the two countries.

"The state department at that time was discussing with Great Britain the possibility of an economic boycott against Japan, which admittedly would not have stopped with a mere boycott. Realizing the dangerous drift, Pratt and Secretary of Navy Adams called at the White House and did some straight talking to the President. Pratt did most of it. The idea of being dragged into a war with Japan was absurd, he told Mr. Hoover. The American fleet was in no shape to fight. The Japanese navy could take the Philippines over night, and it would require two years for the United States to take them back again. Certainly if the state department declared an economic boycott against Japan, Pratt concluded, war was inevitable. Secretary of War Hurley took the same stand and Hoover called the state department off."

It was also stated in this book that Admiral Pratt advised against keeping the Atlantic fleet in the Pacific and also that the navy made a survey of the Aleutian islands as a possible air base, which was camouflaged as a commerce department scientific survey.

Soft Pedal Situation.

These things, whether true or not, served to justify the Japanese military leaders and at the same time calmed the situation, particularly the statement attributed to Pratt about the unpreparedness of the navy and the President's statement. The military propaganda bureaus, so powerful here, began to soft pedal the American situation. They had won their way at least to the biggest military budget in Japanese history.

In the meantime the Japanese people extend their thoughts of national defense to the new frontier in Asia and any threat against this will be met with renewed national unity. It is a fact accomplished and the United States, they say, must trust Japan to keep the open door of commerce there. Manchuria is constantly referred to as Japan's "life line." A threat against it would be like a threat against the Panama canal.

"Take note of the attitude of the United States toward Japan since last spring," writes Soho Tokutomi, member of the house of peers and a journalist of great influence with the Japanese public, in Nichi Nichi a few days ago.

Hoover Is Quoted.

"Mr. Hoover has stated that the United States has no intention of applying military or economic pressure to Japan, but it is not difficult to understand the relations between the two countries when one considers the circumstances constraining him to make the statement.

"What was the condition of public opinion in the United States, and to what extent did it become excited when a false report was circulated regarding the bombing of Chinchow and when the Japanese navy was active in Shanghai? Recall our serious concern over the indignation among the American people, some of them demanding an armed solution, others proposing an economic boycott and still others demanding pressure upon Japan in coöperation with the rest of the world.

"Under the circumstances Japan must be determined to stand firmly against the world with its own strength. It includes military strength, economic strength, and a spirit among the entire Japanese people to protect their empire."

EINSTEIN TO GET U. S. VISA; UPSET BY CONSUL'S QUIZ

"Trying to Kid Me?" He Asks, and Walks Out.

vious relief, "I am a war resister."

"Who are they?" he was asked.

"Well, they are my friends," he replied.

Frau Einstein Angry.

Frau Einstein was even more angry about the set-to than her husband. She declared emphatically that the professor was neither a communist nor anarchist. He has no political affiliations whatever, she said.

"Are you going over to visit relatives or friends, or what?" the examining official next asked.

"I am not going because I desire to visit somebody, but because I have been invited," Einstein replied. "Germany is good enough for me if America does not want me. If you must know I have been invited to do some scientific work."

The examination, according to Frau Einstein, went on for a while until the professor became impatient.

Calls It "Inquisition."

"What's this, an inquisition?" he demanded. "Is this an attempt at chicanery? I don't propose to answer such silly questions.

"I didn't ask to go to America. Your countrymen invited me, yes, begged me. If I am to enter your country as a suspect, I don't want to go at all. If you don't want to give me a visa please say so, then I'll know where I stand. But don't ask me humiliating questions."

Unaware, apparently, of the fact that every visitor to the United States is forced to comply with these formalities and that he was only spared the trouble on former occasions, he had the impression that he was being kidded. Having said so, he went home again.

It seemed tonight that he had given up his plan to pack up and left town again for his country home in Caputh near Potsdam.

CALIFORNIA BOUND.

Prof. Einstein has planned to sail for California, going by way of the Panama canal. His schedule calls for him to resume his scientific work at Mount Wilson observatory before taking up his new duties as head of the school of mathematics of the Institute for Advanced Study. His appointment for life to the latter post was announced in October by Dr. Abraham Flexner, director of the institute, which is to open next fall at Princeton, N. J. The arrangement was that Prof. Einstein was to be in residence at the institute annually from Oct. 1 to April 15.

PAIR BEAT REALTY MAN IN OFFICE; ROB HIM OF $2,000

Charles E. Corcoran, veteran north side real estate dealer, was beaten and robbed of nearly $2,000 by two gunmen who entered his office on the first floor at 800 North Clark street last night.

The robbers, displaying pistols, first commanded Corcoran to turn out the lights. They then told him he would have to open the safe. When he protested that he did not know the combination both men struck him on the head with their pistols.

Shortly afterward, as he was working slowly on the combination, the telephone at his desk rang and Corcoran tried to pick up the receiver. He was again slugged by the bandits. After he had opened the safe the men took the cash and fled, leaving behind several negotiable bonds. The office is only a few yards from the Chicago avenue police station.

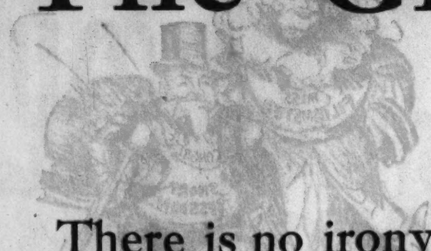
The Great American Tragedy of the "Social Front"



There is no irony in this page. Nor is the term "Social Front" used as a term of derision.

The Chinese have had a phrase called "keeping the face" which they have used for many centuries. And "keeping the face" has probably been responsible for that fine backbone of integrity and body of culture which our Occidental world has come to associate with that very old Oriental race.

Here in America we have been building up for some time what we have learned to call sociologically, our "Social Front", a very close parallel to the Chinese idea of keeping the face, and not to be confused for a moment with our comic strip idea of "putting on the dog".

This Social Front has been responsible for the books that we read, the theatres we attend, the leisure, social hours that we spend in one another's homes.

And it is in this group, so largely responsible for the cultural standards of our "Social Front", that the great American tragedy has occurred, a tragedy that is breaking down all the standards of living that have been in the building for a quarter of a century.

This is the group that has been hardest hit, and it is the second largest group in our American life.

This is the group that fits in between the thin layer of capital at one end of our social scale and the great mass of labor at the other. They are the people of positions who naturally have a "position" to maintain. "White Collars" labor used to call them in the days of social strife. In reality they are the people that we (the great majority of the readers of these pages) know. Many of us are the ones it is happening to.

So the story of this great American tragedy is not hard to tell and certainly not very hard to understand.

* * * * *

Salaries and earnings along the Social Front in many cases have been cut out entirely and in practically all cases have been cut more than in any other group. Because here is where overhead could be reduced the most.

But not a soul in America has taken into consideration that this Social Front has had to carry the burden of our entire social status.

The Social Front has had to pay far more for its housing than wage-earning America, or even than capitalistic America in proportion to income. Its own homes have been better so its taxes have been higher. In fact, it has carried the greater part of the burden of tax. Its life insurance has been greater, its clothing cost has been higher, its interrelation in all of its social exchanges has been far more expensive. And in addition to all of its established run of household overhead, it has tried to maintain its "position" as usual and keep its children in their schools and colleges.

* * * * *

In college Field Days, when it came to the quarter-mile race, we used to say that a runner ran the first 220 yards on his wind, and the last 220 on his nerve. But what we have been going through since 1928 has not been a 440-yard dash, but a grueling three-mile race, in which most of the runners along the Social Front have long since exhausted both wind and nerve.

* * * * *

If evidence of this situation were necessary, there is plenty of it. Practically all of the buying along the Social Front has evened off or dropped below the level of the wage-earning homes. Along that Social Front every pantry now carries its unknown and cheaper brands, every bathroom shelf its substitutes.

Today, wage-earning America with all of its own unemployment, must not only carry the burden of whatever mass production remains, but must also take up the slack along the entire Social Front. Factory production along any mass scale hasn't a chance of continuing without it.

True Story Magazine publishes this page in the interests of that Social Front, for we have all long since learned the lesson that we are all in the same boat. No single group can prosper fully without the others.

True Story Magazine happens to be practically alone in its field, reaching every month some two million of America's wage-earners who are still employed, and well employed. We know this beyond any question of doubt because they buy our magazine on the newsstands from month to month. And when they are out of a job, or when they are on part time and the purse has tightened up, they mighty soon stop buying it.

But even alone in this field as we are, we know that wage-earning America cannot do this job—alone. Now, as this nation comes out of its three-year slump, we must not neglect the vital necessity of increasing the income of the salaried worker who carries the standard of America's Social Front.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

BIGGER AND BETTER DEFICITS.

The United States government in the first five months of this year has spent three-quarters of a billion dollars more than it has received. If this rate is continued, as seems altogether likely, the deficit at the end of the fiscal year next June will be more than a billion and a half dollars.

On the same day that the treasury figures were made public the grain futures administration in its report to Secretary of Agriculture Hyde demanded the right to regulate more stringently the business of the Chicago Board of Trade and other grain exchanges. The bureaucrats are asking the right to limit the amount of wheat any speculator can deal in at a given time and also to limit the amount of grain which is handled on the exchanges on any day.

The demand for more authority and incidentally for more jobs on the part of the grain administration echoes the appeal made on Nov. 27 by the federal power commission, which also seeks more worlds to conquer. This commission wants to run the power business in the same detail that the interstate commerce commission runs the railroads.

Deficits may mount into astronomical figures and those citizens who are still solvent may be tottering on the brink of insolvency, but the bureaucrats pay no heed. They can think only in terms of the aggrandizement of their bureaus and their powers at the expense of the taxpayers. One would think that by this time, with the record of the farm board's colossal speculations fresh in mind, the bureaucrats would know that speculation, big or little, on the wrong side of the market carries its own penalty. The kind of regulation which is now demanded can only drive business away. That may expand the ego of a government clerk engaged in regulating wheat sales, but it will do the farmers nothing but harm.

And of course the taxpayers must foot the bill. That they cannot foot the bill for the amount of government which we now have is overlooked. That the quality of government regulation has not been of a sort to encourage an investment in more of it, particularly at such a time as this, is sidestepped. Every consideration of prudence is set aside in the rush for more power and more money to spend. Not even the imminence of national bankruptcy is calculated to stay the hand of the spenders. They can blame only themselves if the new congress, with its mandate for a billion dollar reduction of expenditures, treats them with the ruthlessness which they have richly earned.

THE GREAT TRADITION.

Miss Fanny Butcher suggests ironically that Americans because of colonial remoteness will not be able to understand the full spiritual tragedy in John Galsworthy's new novel, "Flowering Wilderness." This latest opus of the English novelist appears in book form just as he is awarded the Nobel prize for literature for 1932. To appreciate the dilemma which becomes the tragedy of the "Flowering Wilderness" one must yield completely to certain assumptions, the chief of which is that an Englishman is of such sublimated spirit, so little modified by the common clay, that he may not make the small concessions permitted to lesser breeds in extremity.

In this particular tragedy a young Englishman, a completely irreligious man to whom one creed is no better and no worse than another, saves his life by accepting Mohammedanism at the point of a pistol. The finger of a fanatic Moslem is on the trigger. The scene is the desert and the young man isn't going to have any brains if he doesn't use them very quickly. He does. It might be thought that inasmuch as one creed was as little important as another to him he had bought something he valued at a very small price.

The episode is of no other consequence to him until he returns to England, where, being a poet, he proceeds to write a poem, and being a young man he proceeds to fall in love. Being a poet, he is like an erotic woman who has fallen from grace and who isn't happy until she has told the world. In his poem he reveals that his instinct of self-preservation had made him admit that Allah was Allah. Now the spiritual finesse of a long tradition of superiority is required to understand his predicament. He is ruined in England. He has betrayed the sacrament. He has mocked the arcanum. He has conceded a vital point to the lesser breeds. Therefore, he is insulted. He is fired from his clubs. Friends drop him. His conscience and his courage are both tested to the breaking point. He becomes a delirium and not a man. The girl who would have shared the life of this pariah is repulsed by him and he flees into the stormy night, a lost soul, lost beyond the hope even of that allowed the Flying Dutchman, because in his case even the love of a woman cannot save him.

That is the predicament which we are rightly supposed not to be able fully to understand. Mr. Galsworthy would probably agree with Miss Butcher that it is our colonial remoteness which prevents the understanding. Mr. Kipling built up the scenery for this majesty of the British raj. He was the creator of the lesser breeds without the law. It is true that since he was in flower the English writers who have followed him have been mostly going to funerals which they see through rosy glasses as triumphant ceremonials. Mr. Galsworthy in the decent haberdashery of undertaker is walking slowly behind the great tradition. It is still the English magic. Allah is a hewer of wood and a drawer of water.

REPEAL OR MODIFICATION.

The indications enlarge the prospects of the senate Democrats going Republican on the repeal of the 18th amendment. It appears that the Republican proposal for continued federal supervision of one kind or another is closer to the feelings of the southern Democracy than its own party declaration for unqualified disposal of the amendment. Carter Glass of Virginia, Joe Robinson of Arkansas, and others make it rather plain that now, with the heat of the campaign diminished, the south is backing away from the position which it tolerated or indorsed before the election.

The Republican proposal would retain a constitutional prohibition of what is called the saloon. The senators are beginning to realize that a legal definition of a saloon will not be the easiest thing to make. Senator Ashurst of Arizona says it is a place for perpendicular drinking. A constitutional prohibition against the sale of intoxicating liquors to be drunk standing up would at least add an odd trifle to the American experiment. There might also be a proviso against having one foot on the brass rail or one elbow on a piece of polished wood. When the Republicans formulated their proposal it was thought that its advantage lay in its probable appeal to moderate opinion which was stated in the phrase "we must keep the advantages we have won." It is probable that many wel' disposed citizens prefer that restraints be not completely broken down and fear that they might be if the federal government steps out of the picture. They have not taken the pains to consider what would follow if a federal prohibition of the saloon was retained.

The Raines law in New York endeavored to prevent the Sunday sale of intoxicants in saloons, but a property sandwich made the saloon a restaurant and the law was a virtual nullity from the beginning. No one could reasonably expect that the federal government could long maintain control of one ill defined particular in the trade of intoxicants otherwise controlled by the states. The saloon before prohibition had already become a restaurant. It was crowded at lunch time with men eating as well as drinking. They had to take their sandwiches perpendicularly as well as their beer. The neighborhood saloon which was frequented in the evening provided food and card games for the people who used it as a social center. Hasenpfeffer, pinochle, and six beers were the constituents of many a solid citizen's evening entertainment.

Drinking habits and police rules for their regulation will be determined locally. There is no good reason why this responsibility should not be upon the people of a state or of any other smaller political unit. Stephen Douglas said that slavery could not exist in a community opposed to it, and, although that theory was rejected in the fever of controversy, it no doubt had an eventual truth in it. No community will have reprehensible conduct or unsocial uses of intoxicating beverages unless for one reason or another it supports or condones such uses. The people must tolerate official connivance with law violators or undesirable conditions would not exist. Responsibility cannot be passed on to some distant authority.

Every probability should make it plain to people seeking to rely upon the federal government for substitutes for their own responsibilities that such a scheme will not work. Any functions of control in localities which remain vested in the Washington government after repeal of the 18th amendment will be moribund almost immediately. A fiction of responsibility will be substituted for the responsibility which should prevail. That is the history of such law and it will be repeated in this case. If it deceives the people the consequences will be all the worse. The proper control of practices and habits with respect to intoxicating beverages is local and it cannot be evaded.

Editorial of the Day

RESEARCH INTO THE STOGIE.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

Prof. William Lyon Phelps, the Yale authority of great repute on English, and A. L. H. Darragh of Beaver, Pa., collaborate in a magazine offering on the origin of the word "stogie," spelled by some lexicographers "stogy" and defined, first, as "a stout, coarse boot," and, second, as "a coarse cigar."

Phelps and Darragh say it was derived from the name of the stoutly built Conestoga wagon, so called from the Pennsylvania town of Indian name in which they were first built. These wagons, among early settlers, were as well known as popular motor models are to their grandchildren now. One of the great tests of frontier novelists, in fact, is a habit of referring offhand and naturally to Conestoga wagons and describing the covered wagons of the plains as Conestoga wagons with canopies. If they can do that they have acquired in sufficiency and even overplus the local color of their selected time. Not all the covered wagons of the plains, however, were Conestogas.

Before there were railroads, drivers of Conestoga wagons doing the heavy hauling across the Pennsylvania mountains demanded in a smoke something that was a smoke, and, opportunely, a tobacconist, said to have lived in Washington, had invented a combination of leaf tobacco rolled in a loose, crude way that just suited them. It came to be known as a "Conestoga" and later as just a "stoga" and later as a "stogie." The territory that includes Pittsburgh and Wheeling has long been the natural habitat of the ultimate consumers of stogies, the output at one time reaching 300,000,000 stogies a year, though a few popular brands were made as well as consumed elsewhere.

The war and post-war popularity of cigarets does not seem to have affected the stogie trade as it did the cigar trade. And, indeed, can a man whose taste and others of his five senses have been adjusted and habituated through long use to the rugged, enduring qualities of a stogie be imagined as battening contentedly on a blended cigaret, whether toasted or whether with guaranteed ratio of coughs per carload or trainload? On the other hand, how about the man habituated to cigarets who turns to stogies? That the depression would increase the vogue of stogies might have been expected, but it is said to have affected it more than other branches of the tobacco trade.

The international edition of Webster in 1930 gave the derivation of the word as from Conestoga, as do Phelps and Darragh, whose research into stogie etymology seems to have been made in the loving spirit of those who are themselves hopeless stogie addicts. The 1909 and some subsequent editions simply cite the reader to "stoggy," a dialect word.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WHAT, NO BEER?

No, not this Christmas; that is, not real beer, and we are so tired of needled beer, but it will have to do for awhile longer. Wonder what the Lame Ducks who voted against repeal, and probably will vote against beer, thought the party platforms of the last campaign meant, anyhow, or did they read 'em? And what about the landslide in the election? The Lame Ducks must have heard about that. They must know something happened or they wouldn't be Lame Ducks. But they didn't seem to understand what it was all about. That's why they're Lame Ducks. Oh, well, while it won't be a merry Christmas as far as repeal or maybe real beer is concerned, we can look forward to a right merry Fourth of July. We'll enjoy nice, cold, golden, frothy beer better on the Fourth of July than in icy, bleak December, anyhow. The Fourth of July is the time to bring back beer. Who started this idea of hanging it on the Christmas tree, anyhow? The Fourth of July is the time. Before then the Lame Ducks will all have gone home to roost and the weather will be nice and hot and we'll be yearning for beer as we can't possibly yearn in the winter time, and there won't be anybody around then to throw a monkey wrench in the machinery and muss things all up. We've got so used to home brew at Christmas time that we can worry along this Christmas without a bit of trouble. But when the dear old Fourth of July rolls around—oh, Herman, six Pilsners!

TO LADY OLD AGE.

No, dear Old Woman,
I shall not care
If you paint in silver
My blue-black hair
I shall not grumble
If my lips droop
And I must eat
Porridge and soup
All your sly teasing
Shall be in vain,
I shall not sniffle,
Beg or complain.
What has been mine
You cannot have.
What might be mine
I do not crave.
What youth I have
I'll sell for a nickel;
A plate of green prunes,
Or a pumpernickel.

"LAUNCH CAMPAIGN to Stamp Out Communism in Iceland."—Headline. Ah, tut, tut! Caption writers are so inclined to follow custom. "Stamping out" was all right in the years gone by when communism was spreading into Germany or Austria, where there are hard, firm surfaces on the ground and the stamping is fine. But Iceland, ah, that's different. If we were a caption writer we would not have them stamping out communism in Iceland; no, indeed, we would say that in that southern section of the north pole the authorities would freeze it out.

So short a time we watched tall stars together,
So brief a while we tramped a gypsy street,
I had small need of hearths for winter evenings,
Your arms were warm and Paradise was sweet.

—Helen Welshimer.

THE PINE TREE WON'T BE LONESOME ANY MORE.

Mr. Hoover has given his camp in the Blue Ridge to Virginia. Now when you count up the important things Mr. Hoover did while he was President don't forget his discovery of the Blue Ridge. The country found out about that place during the civil war, but forgot all about it except a few jazz song writers. Mr. Hoover's startling discovery that there were great tracts of beautiful trees and splashing, singing rivers and green hills and wandering woodland trails in the Blue Ridge turned the gaze of the populace in that direction. Now it ought to furnish enjoyment and happiness to a great many until it is full of gas stations and hot dog stands and devil cars honking madly on crowded roads all through the day and night. But that won't be Mr. Hoover's fault. He never disturbed the beauty he found in the Blue Ridge. But the rest of us just can't like a place until we pull up the flowers to take home, and build bonfires and throw cigarets around to start forest fires and scatter tin cans and newspapers and chicken bones all over the landscape. Hain't humans funny!

WELL ARRANGED.

If all the little girls were boys,

A PAIN RELIEVER.

THE use of morphine for the relief of pain in cancer is notoriously unsatisfactory. Aside from the danger of habit, which in these circumstances is a matter of secondary importance, the drug is not efficient. The first few doses seem to work wonderfully, but the amount needed must be increased rapidly and even at that the later doses do not give ease.

So unreliable is morphine that some even prefer to use acetyl salicylic acid for the relief of pain, and that drug is well known to have only limited powers.

What is said of morphine applies to opium, heroin, codein, and all other drugs derived from the parent vegetable extract.

The pain of late cancer and the need of some relief are so great that many procedures have been proposed. In some cases operation is done. This consists in cutting the posterior nerve roots near where they join the spine. These roots carry sensation and if they are severed the pain of a growing and late cancer cannot be felt. The cancer may progress, may destroy tissue, cause fever, and do harm in other ways, but it cannot cause pain to be registered. In some cases certain sensory paths in the spinal cord are cut in the operation. This, too, serves to prevent pain from being registered.

Dr. R. J. Behan proposes another and a simpler method. It is to give the sufferer an abundance of lime. The preparation he prefers is calcium gluconate. This is given by mouth in large doses three times a day, or, if there is an emergency, it can be injected into the veins. The level of lime in the blood tends to remain rather even. If too much is absorbed or injected the excess is rather rapidly eliminated. Therefore considerable must be given and it must be given for some time. It is thought that the use of cod liver oil or other fish oil and viosterol helps to hold some calcium or lime in the body. The theory is that the excess of lime helps to prevent pain from registering.

Even if the method does no good there is no evidence that it does harm. And the person with a growing cancer must have relief from pain and some ease. The lime method is simpler than operation and safer than morphine.

TURPENTINE.

H. B. writes: Turpentine being an ingredient of both paint and varnish, it seems likely that it is the cause for the rash that appears on my body after having worked with them for a few days. Nervousness also prevails when this rash appears. One week after the first appearance of the rash in the scalp the entire body becomes covered with the large blotches. Each night the entire eruption disappears, but returns the following afternoon. A period of two months is required for its total disappearance.

1. Does the turpentine odor bring about nervousness and in turn cause a nervous rash to appear?

2. What treatment is there to enhance the disappearance of the rash?

REPLY:

1. No as to odor and nervousness. Your conclusion is right, but your explanation is wrong—a combination that is far from infrequent. Turpentine is a prolific cause of skin trouble. It dissolves grease from the skin and a greaseless skin is likely to get into trouble. The skin may become very sensitive to turpentine. 2. Discontinue the use of turpentine if possible. If not, keep the skin well greased. Remove the turpentine with workman's soap or sand. Do not overwash it. Grease after washing. Wear gloves.

CASES DIFFER.

G. M. R. writes: Some time ago some one wrote in asking about cracking of bones in arms and ankles. You replied that it was evidence of arthritis but should never disable. I am afraid you are wrong there. My knee joints started "cracking" after my first child was born and I haven't walked for 5½ years. She is 14½ years old. The trouble came creeping on me gradually and, being ignorant of the dread disease, here I am—but still fighting. But prevention is so much better that I am asking you to warn others not to take it lightly.

REPLY:

Which proves that what's true of one is not true of another.

PROBABLY FATIGUE.

Mrs. E. H. writes: What causes my lower lids to twitter or jerk? This happens quite often lately. It seems to be the nerves beneath the eyes that jump.

REPLY.

PROPERTY RIGHTS.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. "B" had his house built fifty years ago, right on his lot line, in which there are several windows. Can "A" build on his lot line and cover "B's" windows? Also, can "A" in remodeling old building which is in the rear of his property put windows in this building which is on his lot line? 2. We were advised at the city hall that we must have three feet to draw light from. Does this apply to remodeling? Can "B" stop "A" from putting windows in this old building? M. M. B.

1. Your letter does not make clear whether the wall is entirely on B's land or the boundary runs through the center of the wall. If the former is the case B is entitled to put windows in the wall as far as the general law as to property rights is concerned.

2. The building commissioner in the city hall is in a better position to advise you as to building ordinances than we are.

MORTGAGE.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother has a first mortgage on her property that has five years to run. She has a chance to pay it off a little each month. 1. Can you pay off each month on a first mortgage? I have been told that, even if you pay off a little each month, at the end of five years you would still have to pay the face amount of the mortgage because it is recorded and that even if you have receipts for payments already made on the principal at the end of five years the mortgage holder could still make you pay the face amount of the mortgage? 2. Can he? J. W. B.

1. The mortgage holder is under no obligation to accept such prepayments unless the wording of the papers is such as to give him such right

2. No, but a purchaser in due course on proper facts might collect the full amount hence it is advisable to see that all part payments are indorsed on the principal note.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 6, 1916.

LONDON.—Herbert H. Asquith, premier of Great Britain for eight stormy years, resigned. His resignation was accepted by the king, and his post was offered to Andrew Bonar Law, the Unionist leader. Law's decision has not yet been made. Recent rumors of the resignation of David Lloyd George as war minister were confirmed by an official announcement that he had resigned, but that his resignation had not yet been accepted. The influence Lord Northcliffe wielded in bringing about the crisis undoubtedly was one of the most important factors in this chapter of history. One of the current reports has been that a plan was on foot to make Lloyd George premier with Lord Northcliffe his war minister. Between the Northcliffe press and the London Liberal papers a burning feud exists.

LONDON.—The last hope of the allied forces of saving Bucharest has perished. The enemy's forces are now only seven miles from the city, while the Russian offensives in the Carpathians, eastern Transylvania, and the Dobrudja to aid the Rumanians appear to have been completely checked. The Teutonic troops smashed forward from the Tergovitza region and cut the railroad from Ploesci to Bucharest. The only avenue of escape for the Rumanians is along the railroad to Cernavoda and that is gradually being narrowed by the advance of the enemy's columns. The losses of the Rumanians and their allies have been terrific. In the last week Field Marshal von Mackensen and Gen. von Falkenhayn have taken some 25,000 prisoners besides extending their conquest of Rumanian lands to nearly 25,000 square miles and seizing vast and valuable stores of grain, oil, and military supplies.

MADRID.—The Italian steamship Palermo, with twenty-five Americans on board, has been torpedoed off the Spanish coast. One sailor, reported to be an American, was wounded by a shell and died in a hospital at Palafrugell, Spain, where the survivors were landed. Three others were seriously wounded by the torpedo.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Reports to the state department tell of the alleged kidnaping from Manzanillo, Mexico, of German Consul Vogel. He is said to be held for ransom and the location of the kidnaping on the west coast is taken by the department to indicate the kidnapers belong to an independent band. The reports indicated that the American naval commander had considered landing marines to effect Vogel's rescue, but decided not to do so because such action might cause the consul's captors to kill him. The ransom demand is reported to be $10,000.

CHICAGO. — Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, idol of Paris, and soldier of France, will sail for New York to face Jess Willard or some other opponent in a ten round no decision boxing bout for the benefit of the French war fund, it was announced here. Willard's manager, Tom Jones, arrived in Chicago from Hot Springs, Ark., and from him came first reports of the proposed bout. Inquiry in New York developed that Carpentier will be brought to America under the auspices of the American fund for the French wounded, of which Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is treasurer and in which Miss Elizabeth Marbury is actively interested.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y.—The funeral of John D. Archbold, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, will be held on Dec. 7. It will be public, but the interment in the family vault in the Sleepy Hollow cemetery will be private. Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse university will conduct the services. Friends have estimated that Mr. Archbold's fortune, made almost entirely from oil and its by-products, was nearly $100,000,000.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

A CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—On Nov. 28 there appeared an article in the Voice of the People entitled "Looking for a Maid." It was signed Mrs. C. Berliner, no address being given.

Thousands of people seeking employment, in addition to those whose views did not agree with the writer's, immediately turned to the telephone book and appointed Mrs. C. Berliner, living at 638 Cornelia avenue, as the writer of the article.

The great army of unemployed, in their haste to secure employment, overlooked the fact that there may be two people living in our small city with the same name. This fact may be verified by a careful examination of the telephone book of such names as Smith, O'Connor, Cohen, etc.

When the first returns started to pour in from the outlying precincts I tried to patiently explain to each individual applicant that it was a case of mistaken identity and that I was not the writer of the article. To the great army of unemployed such a possibility was unheard of and beyond the comprehension of the human mind. I was immediately made the recipient of insults, medium and well done, threats and abuse. The receiver became so hot I could not hold it in my hand any longer and then I decided not to answer any further calls.

About this time the deluge started. Letters, telegrams, and cables began pouring in from such foreign countries as Mexico, Canada, Panama, and Gary, Ind. Traffic in the street in front of my apartment was tied up. Some of my neighbors became suspicious, and, because of the size of the crowd, there were rumors going around that I had organized a public utility holding company and that this was the first day that the public would be allowed to buy common stock in unlimited amounts. I was forced to flee from Chicago like other well known Chicagoans.

I am writing this letter from my refuge in the north woods [address positively will not be furnished upon request] to tell the great army of unemployed that they have my profound sympathy. I can realize their suffering and temperament due to conditions beyond their control. I did not write the article, and today is the first time that I had a chance to read the contents of same. All is forgiven; and in conclusion may I offer a little advice, quoting the words of that ancient scholar, Æsop, "Never dive into a swimming pool without first ascertaining whether there is water in the tank."

I am awaiting apologies from the following prize winning anonymous postal card writers: An American, Paul Revere, The Bomber, Hogan's Dance, Secret Eight, Sweet Sixteen, and the Four Marx Brothers. MRS. C. BERLINER.

THE PRICE OF COPPER.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—I had occasion to use a piece of copper and purchased it from a local house. The piece weighed between 3 and 4 pounds, and the firm charged me $1.50. The paper quoted the price of copper on that day at less than 6 cents a pound. V. L. SHAW.

THE WATER FUND.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Why are the water users of Chicago allowing the politicians to make illegal use of the water fund money? This money is not governmental money, but must be used under the law for water system uses, since that is what the money is paid for. The Supreme court and other authorities have held that the city acts in a private business capacity in furnishing water and not in a governmental capacity. That is why water department employés have to pay an income tax while other city, county, and state employés do not.

But water fund money is being collected to the extent of $100,000 to $125,000 a day and instead of being used to pay employés and other operating expenses it is "invested" [tied up] in city and school tax warrants selling away below par or which can't be sold at all. This is the same thing that Insull is accused of doing in connection with some of his enterprises, although even he and his associates never went so far as to use electric light or gas company cash illegally. That would have been too dangerous for him. However, our city officials are forcing loans from water fund employés and using the money along with other water fund receipts to help out other organizations in no way connected with the water utility. That is robbing the water users with a vengeance, as well as the employés.

CHICAGO WATER RATE PAYER.

NO. 6516.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—I wonder if others than myself have been entertained by the diverting personality of Conductor No. 6516 on Lincoln-Wells street car line. This vivacious and well educated fellow will readily oblige the customers with a tap dance while making change on a frosty morning; he offers to hold your baby while you pocket your transfer, or, if in a proper mood, will favor one and all with a vocal rendition of an aria from "Il Trovatore." He greets one with a booming voice and a merry smile, and before letting one off at his destination this superman tells him the latest joke, comments on the newspaper headlines of the day, or expertly dusts off the passenger's coat.

Conductor No. 6516 is such a contrast to the usual run of stony eyed, indifferent surface line gentry that his conduct deserves much praise. C. NEWBERT.

WHERE TO ECONOMIZE.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—The average taxpayer is not one-tenth as much interested in reducing salaries as he is in firing outright all unnecessary public employés. Everybody knows that you could go in any department in the city, county, state or sanitary board [with the exception of the firemen, policemen and school teachers who actually teach] and dismiss outright a large percentage of the help and those departments could operate efficiently with the remaining employés. In fact, with the deadheads out of the way, I believe that those departments would operate more efficiently than before.

The Nineteen Thirty-three production of the

will be limited to

custom built to order

In the Cadillac V-16, General Motors and the Cadillac Motor Car Company have given to the world the most unusual motor car yet produced. Not only was it the very first of the modern multi-cylinder creations—but it remains to this day the supreme medium of personal transportation. Both in its conception and its execution, it is one of the truly distinctive possessions that anyone can acquire. . . . Naturally, such a car can never be destined for more than a relatively few, because of the very ideal involved in its manufacture. Yet the requirements of these few are extremely definite, and it is Cadillac's conviction that a car should always be built to their purpose.

. . . In keeping with this conviction, Cadillac here and now pledges itself to the continued production of such a car, and invites the public to look to Cadillac, year after year, for the finest available automotive creation. . . . For 1933, Cadillac promises to build for this discriminating clientele the sum of four hundred automobiles. They will be built on an improved 16-cylinder chassis, which will reach even greater heights of performance and mechanical excellence than in the past; and under no circumstances will more than the four hundred cars be made available within the year. All of these cars will be Fleetwood creations. Each will be serially numbered—ranging from "1" to "400" inclusive—and the owner's name and the serial number will be engraved on a suitable plate and fixed to the car as an integral part of its composition. . . . This, we believe, is the correct conception of a car like the Cadillac V-16, for it is decidedly a unique possession—and it is only proper to make certain that each car produced will represent that final degree of exclusiveness its owner has a right to expect. . . . Cadillac is now prepared to accept and execute commissions for this unusual car. Interested persons are invited to talk with any Cadillac representative—who will arrange for complete information on any point in question.

being seen by the two men on the truck. When the truck had finished its route, the witnesses returned to the six addresses while another Beischke truck was being followed by two inspectors of the city sealer's office. They weighed its contents and found it correct.

Miner Declares Coal O. K.

William Durflee of 1153 Belden avenue, a former miner in the central Illinois coal fields, who had received one-half ton of the charity coal, said it was of good quality and better than the coal delivered to him by the same company last winter. That was charity coal also.

Mrs. John Stueve of 2317 North Halsted street said the coal burns well. She received a ton, the second this winter. Mrs. Alice Roark of 810 Garfield avenue received a ton. She said the coal was very good.

Mrs. George Lehmann's young daughter, at their home in the rear of 2052 Dayton street, said the charity coal burns very well, even though it does smoke a bit. The family received a half ton. Mrs. Charles Boyle, living in the rear at 2127 Fremont street, said the ton of coal is the first charity coal she had received, but that it looked very good.

Trace Coal to Indiana Mine.

Mrs. Peter Kilps of 2144 Bissell street was not at home, but an upstairs neighbor said she had not heard her complain of the charity coal. She had been given a ton.

With the coal from Monon cars 32718, 30267 and 32763 definitely traced to the homes of persons on the relief rolls, it only remained to trace the cars from the mine to Chicago. W. B. Patterson, auditor of revenue of the Monon route, refused to allow photographs of the waybills to be made, but did have his chief clerk, C. P. Adamson, ascertain by looking at the waybills that the coal in those cars had arrived in Chicago on Nov. 28 from Midland, Ind., consigned to F. Beischke & Sons, in care of the Material Service corporation.

It was learned that the railroad's records also show that the coal was mined in the Allendale mine of the Central Indiana Coal companies at Midland.

Forking Provision Ignored.

The contract under which the Beischke company is supplying coal to families of the idle, held by the relief commission, states, "The company agrees to furnish domestic coal as follows: Franklin county, Ill., or Williamson county, Ill., 6x3 inch egg coal in half ton quantities. Coal must be forked clean with 1½ inch fork and must be delivered in bags or baskets of 85 pounds each, filled in the yard."

In the process of filling bags observed in the Bieschke yards the coal was not forked at any time.

The contract was executed for the period April 1, 1932, to March 1, 1933, subject to a 90 day extension at the option of the commission. It is cancelable by the commission, if violated, on three days' notice. The commission also reserved the right to sue to recover "all expenses, costs, liabilities, and damages of every sort caused by the failure of the company to perform this contract."

'Robber with Conscience' Sent Back to Des Moines

Elmer McDonald, 28 years old, 2124 South Michigan avenue, who preferred trial for robbery to the ire of an unpaid bootlegger, was turned over to detectives from Des Moines, Ia., yesterday. McDonald appeared at the detective bureau Wednesday and revealed that he was forced by a troubled conscience to confess four robberies in Des Moines in 1929. "And besides," he said, "I owe a bootlegger $8, and he has threatened me."

Resist Further Wage Cuts, A. F. L. Head's Word to Labor

In a speech before 1,500 elevator operators at the Cort theater, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor declared last night that organized labor everywhere must no longer accept further wage cuts.

His talk was regarded by labor observers as the turning point, so far as labor is concerned, in the continued downward revision of the wage scale. His plea was applauded wildly by the operators.

"The time has come," asserted Mr. Green, "when organized labor must resist all wage decreases. We can start here, with the elevator operators. If your employers insist on lowering your wages, fight. Strike, if necessary. Let the people walk up to the twentieth floor."

Operators in Labor Dispute.

Chicago elevator operators, who number about 3,000, are in the midst of a controversy with the Building Owners and Managers' association. Aligned with the operators is the Elevator Constructors' union, comprised chiefly of elevator repairmen, and headed by James Feeney of New York. Mr. Feeney accompanied Mr. Green to Chicago, and spoke last night.

The operators' basic pay scale is $29 a week. They are being asked to accept a 15 per cent cut. They have protested that they took a voluntary 10 per cent slash eight months ago, six months before the expiration of their contract. They have asserted that their work is perilous to health, because of its confined nature.

Depend on Repair Men's Support.

One spokesman for the operators pointed out that the big weapon in their case is the Constructors' union. While men may be hired to replace operators, he said, repairmen cannot be so easily found.

Elevators require daily service, he said, and a strike by the operators would be joined by the constructors or repairmen with the result that thousands of office workers downtown would be discommoded daily during the strike.

RELATIVES SWAP $100,000 UNION THEFT CHARGES

Nab Armed Ex-Convict Hammering Door.

Accusations regarding the alleged embezzlement of $100,000 of the funds of the Hod Carriers' and Building Laborers' union were made in the Cragin police station yesterday. Two union officials were there, Thomas Jakubowski, 4505 Nevada avenue, an ex-convict, and Harold Gustafson, 2721 North Kilpatrick avenue. Jabubowski was a prisoner and will be arraigned today in the Shakespeare Avenue court.

Police had answered a call for help from Gustafson's home. They found Jakubowski there with a pistol. Gustafson charged Jakubowski had appeared there to kill him because of accusations regarding the theft of union funds. Jakubowski had put his pistol on a trunk in the hall and was trying to break down a door in Gustafson's flat when the police dissuaded him, they said.

Shifts Blame to Adversary.

Policemen Frank Galvin and Peter Krejecki took both men to the Cragin station. There Jakubowski shifted blame for the $100,000 matter—theft, misappropriation, embezzlement, abstraction or whatever it was—to Gustafson.

Gustafson, however, signed complaints charging Jakubowski with disorderly conduct and assault. Jakubowski was released later on bond.

"I understood Jakubowski and Gustafson are brothers-in-law and they had some trouble over some matter of $100,000," said Capt. Thomas Duffy. "But neither wanted to make any charge of theft against the other and as it wasn't a personal matter I didn't go into it. If, as I understood, it was union money they were talking about, I presume there will be an investigation by the proper authority if any complaint is lodged by the union against either."

No Complaint to Prosecutor.

At the executive offices of the union there was no response to telephone calls yesterday. No union official had made any complaint to the state's attorney's office, it was said.

Jakubowski was convicted in 1920 of the murder of Bernard J. O'Reilly, a street car motorman. O'Reilly's wife had been advised by a physician to go to a milder climate and O'Reilly sought to obtain the needed funds by working in his off hours as a building laborer. Jakubowski, as business agent, killed him because he didn't have a hod carrier's union card, according to the evidence, and a jury gave Jakubowski 25 years as a penalty, but through a commutation by Gov. Small he was freed three years later and resumed his job with the union.

Fear 5 Year Old Boy Slain by Kidnapers in Mexico

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Police feared today that José Maria Rinade, 5 year old son of a Spanish merchant, had been killed by men who kidnaped him Nov. 26. The kidnapers were refused a ransom of 2,500 pesos [about $830].

OPEN HEARINGS TODAY ON UNION OF TAX BODIES

State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, chairman, will preside this morning when the committee on local government of the Illinois Commission on Taxation and Expenditures holds its first public hearing on the Griffenhagen report proposing consolidation of many local taxing bodies, and the elimination of several elective offices. The hearing will be held in the La Salle hotel.

One section of the report was published last week and the second will be made public on Friday. The commission plans to hold hearings most of this month and to incorporate findings in the form of bills which would be presented to the next assembly in January.

Speaking on the report yesterday before the Junior Association of Commerce, Representative Schnackenberg voiced several criticisms, including an objection to the recommendation that the county's tax officials be made appointive instead of elective. The present assessor, J. L. Jacobs, and the members of the board of appeals, George F. Nixon and Fred Brummel, were appointed under the terms of the Kelly bill, but their successors, according to the law, must be elected in 1934.

MOTORCYCLIST IS KILLED IN CRASH ON OUTER DRIVE

Arthur Jessup, 18 years old, 6044 Kenwood avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when his motorcycle struck a light post on the outer drive near 38th street. Witnesses said Jessup was startled and lost control when an automobile, in passing, narrowly missed striking the motorcycle. The automobile did not stop. Jessup died in Michael Reese hospital.

This death and one other yesterday increased the Cook county automobile toll for the year to 1,039. The other victim:

Leonard Mudra, 10 years old, 1642 59th court, Cicero. Died in West Suburban hospital. He was injured last night at 16th street and Austin boulevard, Cicero.

William Van Dyke, 8 years old, 1120 Conkey street, Hammond, was killed yesterday by an automobile at Columbia avenue and Field street, Hammond.

Louis Korb, 45 years old, 12 South Des Plaines street, was critically injured yesterday by a hit and run motorist at 53d street and Wentworth avenue. He was taken to the Evangelical Deaconess hospital.

JAPANESE DRIVE CHINESE ARMY INTO SIBERIA

Soviets Disarm and Hold General and Staff.

MOSCOW, Dec. 6 [Tuesday].—(AP)—A telegram from Chita, Siberia, said today that Gen. Su Ping-wen and his staff, fleeing before the Japanese army in northwest Manchuria, were disarmed and interned when they attempted to cross into soviet territory from Manchuli.

The message said the general, who was holding about one-quarter of Manchuria, against the Manchukuo government before the Japanese offensive began about two weeks ago, and his army tried to cross the border on a train of 45 cars. The train was halted and searched by frontier guards.

Troops Commandeer Train.

The Chinese rebel commander applied to the station master for transportation of his troops in soviet territory, it was said. Being refused, he threatened to use force. Chinese soldiers, acting under orders of their officers, then dispatched the trains on their own initiative.

Immediately upon arrival on the soviet side all soldiers and officers were reported interned. Civil servants and families from the rebel seat at Manchuli were also reported fleeing across the line.

[A Japanese dispatch from Tsitsihar reported that Gen. Su, leader of a rebel army estimated at more than 5,000 troops, entered soviet territory by train Sunday night. The Japanese offensive had pushed to within 75 miles of the soviet border Monday.]

Japanese Capture Hailar.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Dec. 6.—[Tuesday.]—Hailar, important city on the Chinese Eastern railway, located 85 miles from Manchuli, the Chinese rebel base in northwest Manchuria, was captured by Japanese troops at 3 p. m. yesterday, according to dispatches received here today.

Two detachments occupied the city. The main Japanese force is expected to arrive tomorrow. Fifteen thousand Chinese fled the city. One Japanese officer and several privates were wounded.

Another dispatch said that 120 Japanese captives held at Manchuli near the soviet border by Gen. Su Ping-wen, Chinese rebel leader, were rescued yesterday afternoon.

[Dispatches from Harbin yesterday said that Manchukuo delegates were proceeding to Hailar to discuss peace on the invitation of Gen. Su following the smashing defeat of his forces at Chalantun.]

SUSPENDED NEW YORK JAIL KEEPER SHOOTS HIS WIFE TO DEATH

New York, Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Herbert Nolan, a suspended keeper at the Raymond street jail in Brooklyn, shot and killed his wife today in the kitchen of their home. Two notes found in the bedroom indicated that he intended to take his own life. His gun jammed when he snapped the trigger with the barrel at his own forehead, and he was standing in a trancelike state when the police arrived.

Nolan was suspended from the prison force on Wednesday of last week under orders from acting Mayor McKee. On Saturday night, Nov. 26, he had admitted Mrs. Lucille McCormick to the jail long after visiting hours for a $5 bribe, according to her story, and permitted her to see her prisoner husband, Andrew (Red) McCormick. She slipped a gun into his hands and McCormick attempted to shoot his way out of the jail, killing McConnell and finally killing himself.

Nolan still was in a daze hours after his arrest. Police had to deduce from the notes he had written on a torn piece of envelope what he had intended to do.

The note on one side of the envelope, lying on a dresser, said:

"Dear Mom: Don't put the children in a home. Please forgive me, I am the goat. Bury us together. This is an awful fate. Please, Mommy and Pa, forgive me. Love, Herb."

On the other side of the smudged, crumpled piece of paper was written:

"The insurance policies are in the drawer. I am crazy and I am innocent, Mom. Please forgive me."

COLDS GO THROUGH 3 STAGES!

And They are Far Easier Stopped in the First than in the Second or Third!

A cold ordinarily passes through three stages—the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief is twice as easy in the first stage.

For prompt relief take a couple of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine immediately upon catching cold. This will usually expel the cold overnight and thus prevent the spread of the infection within your system.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is effective because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. Kills the cold germs and fever in the system. Relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is absolutely safe to take. Contains no narcotics and produces no bad after effects. It is regarded the world over as the standard cold tablet. Comes in handy, pocket size box, cellophane-wrapped. For sale in every drug store in America. Make it your first-aid in all cases of colds and grippe.

Take the "SHORT CUT" to SHOPPING HOURS

SHOPPING hours are daytime hours — when stores are open, when housewives telephone their orders or go shopping themselves. 2950 food stores in New York or vicinity say 66% of their business is done every day before 3 P. M.

Morning advertising is the short cut to buying hours. It reaches the housewife just before she does her buying. What's the use of telling her to buy your product just after she's bought something else?

Advertisers who are guided strictly by results (not "traditions") realize that radio, the talkies and the amazing swing to bridge are among the new things that now fill the family evening. They know, too, that prepared foods and electrical appliances have simplified housekeeping — have given women more daytime leisure. Times have changed. That's why "Daytimed" Advertising is more productive than ever.

Move your advertising up close to the buying hours. Give it "Daytimeliness." The advertisement that's freshest in a woman's (or a man's) mind is the one that sells the most goods.

10 FACTS
about the New York Herald Tribune

1—Was the first newspaper in America to organize a food and housekeeping Institute.

2—Is the only New York newspaper that publishes a daily home food marketing service in active conjunction with an Institute.

3—Devotes more space to food and cooking in one month than four major women's magazines combined.

4—Contains fashion news every day in the week.

5—Received the following number of inquiries from women readers in the first ten months of 1932: Institute 77,015; fashions 19,690; beauty 60,040.

6—Enrolled over 6000 families in its Yard and Garden Competition in 1932—the largest enrollment in such a competition ever achieved by a newspaper.

7—Has more circulation in New York suburbs on weekdays than any other standard-size morning newspaper.

8—Ranks 2nd in the United States in amount of national advertising carried.

9—Was awarded the Francis Wayland Ayer Cup for typographical excellence in 1931, and an honorable mention in 1932.

10 — Circulation is 329,743 weekdays, 451,961 Sundays: (Average for six months ended September 30, 1932.)

To the Publishers of the Chicago Tribune,
Chicago, Illinois.
Gentlemen:
As you know, Blue Ribbon Malt has long been, and is America's Biggest Seller, outselling any other brand by millions of cans every year. And the picture is the same in Chicago and the territory served by the Tribune.
Blue Ribbon Malt has been farther established as Chicago's Biggest Seller by a substantial increase in sales during the first nine months of 1932! It is but natural that we count our use, for the first time, of the Rotogravure Section of the Chicago Tribune as a large factor in bringing about this gain.
A successful product advertised in a successful medium is certain to show satisfactory results in increased sales. Again, the Chicago Tribune has proved its effectiveness as an advertising medium.

DURING the first nine months of this year Premier Malt Sales Company spent the biggest share of its Chicago newspaper advertising appropriation on Blue Ribbon Malt in the Chicago Tribune.

To reach by far the largest, most responsive group of buyers in Chicago and suburbs, this company chose Chicago Sunday Tribune rotogravure.

"Blue Ribbon Malt has been farther established as Chicago's biggest seller by a substantial increase in sales during the first nine months of 1932!

"It is but natural that we count our use, for the first time, of the Rotogravure Section of the Chicago Tribune as a large factor in bringing about this gain.

Ninth Edition of 'Vanities' Is Offered City

Trahan, Comedian, the Leading Character.

CARROLL'S "VANITIES."

Ninth in the series of revues staged by Earl Carroll; given at the Apollo theater Dec. 4, 1932; dialogue by Ralph Spence, Eddie Welch, Eugene Conrad; music and lyrics by Harold Adamson, Burton Lane.

THE PLAYERS.

Al Trahan	Frank Mitchell
Jack Durant	Harry Stockwell
Lady Cameron	Sylvia Nelson
Betty Veronica	Lucille Page

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Mr. Carroll, whose taste in entertainment is decidedly Mohammedan, submits the ninth and next to last edition of his "Vanities" revue at the Apollo theater for a two weeks' visit, and inspection of these revels brings me to the conclusion that as an impresario with a Broadway complex he is running true to form. Here are the white bodies and vacant faces that Mr. Carroll believes to be the most beautiful in the world; here are tableaux and parades of female flesh with the minimum of necessary concealment by costume; here are rough-talking, slam-banging comedians, coarse jokes, blunt "black-outs," and all the other Carrollian trademarks. Either you have an insatiable appetite for this sort of thing or else you are getting tired of it.

The leading figure on the program is Al Trahan, a virile wag with a mocking "ha-ha" for his keynote, who is relatively new to Chicago playgoers. He is a lusty and skillful entertainer, addicted to drunken scenes, piano sketches, and monologues, who brought back from an invasion of Europe the reputation of having made the king of England laugh. Of course it may be easier for a king to laugh than a commoner, but Mr. Trahan is a jester who is likely to make any one laugh now and then, even in the depth of the depression. In his quest for laughter he is a hard, eager trier and he spreads his jests over a wide area.

Mr. Trahan is often assisted by Jack Durant and Frank Mitchell, vehement clowns who are gluttons for punishment. They specialize in the kind of fun that, if practiced out of doors, would be called assault and battery, and they appear to derive a kind of mystic ecstasy from their sufferings. Mr. Durant and Mr. Mitchell establish a world's record for comic violence; they fall down harder and kick each other in the jaw more savagely than any other mummers who have adopted this strange way of earning a livelihood. Their chief contribution to the performances looks like a grudge fight.

Another important aid to Mr. Trahan is a tall and handsome blonde who is programmed as Lady Youkona Cameron. She is his foil in a long and energetic burlesque on a song recital. Trahan is the fiendish accompanist, Lady Cameron is the ambitious prima donna, and furious fun results.

Lucille Page, a novelty dancer with a contortional technique, appears in elaborately staged numbers, and is decidedly worth watching. Her great moment, and also Mr. Carroll's tour de force as a stage director, comes at 10:35, when she writhes in the jaws of a fearsome dinosaur. The manufacturer of this monster apparently used the species Pleiosaurus as a pattern, and he produced a contraption that is unique in the natural history of the Broadway revues.

Sylvia Nelson is the pretty girl to whom the sentimental songs are sung, and Harry Stockwell is the lad who sings them to her, with pleasant effect. A bright little soubrette named Betty Veronica is useful in the sketches. An eccentric musician named Ray Sax is also to be counted as a spirited contributor to the party, for he plays the saxophone while dancing and twirling a lariat, and then achieves the impossible by playing a saxophone and a clarinet at the same time while standing on his head.

Mr. Carroll's troupe of girls appear in many ingenious groupings and ballets, with visibility practically complete. Their master work is a carnival of parasols in seven phases which opens the second act.

Stock Announces Program of Concert of the Bohemians

With the Auditorium practically sold out nine days in advance for the benefit concert of the Bohemians, Conductor Frederick Stock of the Symphony announces the program to be heard on that occasion. The orchestra of 200 will play five numbers. The first will be Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" prelude, the second two movements from the Dohnanyi suite. These will be followed by Liszt's "Liebestraum" and Schubert's "Moment Musical," both in the Stock transcription; then Godard's Adagio Pathetique, and finally Tschaikowsky's "1812" overture.

Three soloists have donated their services. Elsa Alsen, soprano, will sing "Dich, theure Halle" from "Tannhaeuser," and the "Liebestod" from "Tristan and Isolde." John Charles Thomas, baritone, will sing "Vision Fugitive" from Massenet's "Herodiade" and the prologue to "Pagliacci." Josef Hofmann, pianist, will play Rubinstein's concerto in D minor. E. M.

Story of Farm Told in Prints at Convention

Special Display Arranged at Hotel Sherman.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Several exhibitions of interest open with this week. An exhibition of unusual caliber is that of prints in color of rural scenes and country life, selected by Allen Eaton of the Russell Sage Foundation and the American Federation of Arts, and shown at the Hotel Sherman yesterday, today and tomorrow as a part of the 1932 American Farm Bureau Federation Exposition of Agricultural Progress.

The selection of prints covers a wide variety of subjects dealing with country life and nature esubjects associated with the country. The majority are American in origin but other countries have not been omitted and the scenes are both of today and of other years. Some of the older episodes are among the most amusing.

THE TRIBUNE is well represented in the exhibition of original cartoons which opened Sunday at the Shawnee Country club, Wilmette. John McCutcheon, Carey Orr and Carl Ed give prestige to the exhibit. Mr. Orr has lent the club his private collection of cartoons which includes drawings by McCutcheon, Harding, Donahey, Herbert Johnson and Ireland. Many of these are war cartoons.

Walter Krawiec, who draws for the Polish Daily News, has contributed several colorful circus paintings.

The Allerton Gallery, 701 North Michigan avenue, is host to a delightful exhibit of Florida landscapes by Arnold E. Turtle, a Palette and Chisel club member. The exhibit is full of beauty and charm, one of the best to be found in town this month.

The studio gallery, Increase Robinson, in the Diana Court building, offers a holiday exhibition of water colors. Frances Foy and Beatrice Levy are represented by several light and whimsical pieces. The exhibit is modernist in tone, but there is relief in this or that picture of careful and original work.

Mrs. Frank G. Logan is giving a second tea tomorrow to herald the exhibition of Chicago artists in her newly opened United Exhibitors' galleries, 9 West Washington street.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

WHAT A COP!

MIDNIGHT: Gus Olson closed the back door of his garage, locked it, braced a pine timber under the knob against the cement floor and with a satisfied look, wondered why he hadn't thought of it before. He then padlocked the front door and wended his way home.

2:00 A. M.: Officer Collins, a rookie policeman, hollered at a man running from the back door of Olson's garage, who turned, dropped a bundle, fled down the alley and escaped in a waiting truck.

2:30 A. M.: "You birds stay out here," commanded Collins to the small crowd of late stragglers gathered outside the garage. I don't want anything disturbed. I wonder, now, how he managed that door," he exclaimed with a questioning look.

"That's easy," offered Ray Little, one of the neighborhood boys. "All he had to do was turn the door knob back and forth until the stick fell and then a good hefty push would do the trick.

While he was speaking Olson arrived and after a hasty look around lamented his bad break. "A new shipment of tires arrived yesterday and they weren't covered by insurance," he told Collins. "Got every one of 'em, and a lot of tools."

. . . . . .

"Prof. Fordney's right. There's no excuse for my not getting that crook," muttered Collins after reporting the above. "Didn't get license number. shots missed him . . . O, hell, what a cop!

WELL, WE ALL SLIP UP SOME TIME! WHERE DID COLLINS?

[See solution on page 33.]

Thousand Will Attend Presbyterian Celebration

A thousand persons will attend a dinner at the Drake hotel Friday evening to observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Presbyterian church extension board. A meeting in the Fourth Presbyterian church will follow. The board was founded in Chicago and was the model for other similar boards in large centers throughout the country. Yesterday fifty ministers commemorated the anniversary at their monthly meeting at the Ravenswood church, Hermitage and Cullom avenues.

Good Morning!

Remember "The Night of June 13th"?

Well, "He Learned About Women" is like it in a singular particular. It's one—good—movie! An unheralded bit of rich entertaintment that makes you wonder why nobody at the studios loved it enough to make a fuss over it.

Great oaks from little acorns grow and from small beginnings "He Learned About Women" develops into a whale of a funny film. WITH, mind you, its moments of satisfying pathos. There's a scene toward the end between Stuart Erwin and Alison Skipworth that makes you fumble for your handkerchief. As a matter of fact, Mr. Erwin keeps you in a constant state of fiercely protective desire.

His rôle is that of a lamb cast to wolves, that, sure enough, would have eaten him, had not a lady wolf unexpectedly developed a mother complex and saved the day.

Peter Potter Kendall III. [Mr. Erwin], a young recluse of a student, suddenly becomes heir to fifty million dollars.

"My, my," he whispers to his attorney, "all that money is a great responsibility! I feel that I would like to do things for people with it."

"A great responsibility indeed," responds the lawyer with twinkling eyes. "But you don't know anybody and have never been anywhere—HAVE you?"

It develops that Lawyer Drake is slightly in error. Peter Potter Kendall III. has been to the library, Grant's tomb, and the aquarium. True, he doesn't know anybody. . . .

"Wilson," he informs Peter, "knows LIFE. He'll take you places and show you things while I'm in Europe."

And so, to the boat.

Wilson, after dressing his charge as a youth living in this year of our Lord should be turned out, dispatches Peter for a stroll, during which he is merely to familiarize himself with sights and sounds which he should know by heart.

Off goes the heir, to have nightmarish encounters with traffic and return with two ladies whom he has rescued from an auction block, where they were being raffled off for jobs. [No, neither did I ever hear of that wrinkle before—but be it true or be it false as a stage Bluebeard's whiskers, the episode provides the picture with a new and intriguing angle.]

For $50 a week apiece, Peter buys a stenographer and a vaudeville actress—who purport to be mother and daughter. . . .

They take charge of the defenseless fellow, who believes them to be all they say they are—and some of the loveliest minutes of the footage are those wherein young Kendall learns from Mme. Vivienne about the little "ingine," attached to a long string of cars, that said to itself: "I think I can! I think I can! I think I can!" all the way up the mountains and chuckled: "I knew I could! I knew I could!" all the way down the other side. The scene during which our hero puts the "ingine's" methods into practice is rib-ticklingly humorous.

Before finis has been written to this piece, Peter has done much—and been done FOR much, but the old lady wolf's desertion of her ravening jawed pack contributes to one of those endings cinema addicts cry for.

Mr. Erwin and Alison Skipworth are almost too good to be true. They have the best of support—note especially Grant Mitchell's and Gordon Westcott's elegant acting and Sidney Toler's mirth provoking mug. Direction was positively inspired and the lines are a joy.

For your own sakes I ask you to see "He Learned About Women."

Finest Gowns of Year Shown for Holidays

Blistered Silk Crepes and Fringes Popular.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Uncommonly festive, these new evening gowns that have just arrived in time for holiday parties, grand clothes for grand occasions, created in the grand manner, trimmed with luxurious furs, or bands of sparkling beads that look like Christmas stardust. They are different, distinctive and quite the most seductive evening things, clothes hungry shoppers have gazed upon for years.

You will see blistered silk crêpes that are certainly blistered looking, huge crinkles and wrinkles, evidently, the bigger the better . . . you'll see some luscious crinkled crêpes that look like the old old fashioned crepons of forty years ago, others that look exactly like crêpe tissue paper. The colors are eye filling, some lipstick reds that will stop traffic, some thick creamy ivories that makes you think of wrinkled whipped cream and some new pinky blues that will be positively divine on blonde and red head.

Most of these new gowns are deceptively simple, even a bit severe looking with a brief matching coat that seldom reaches any farther than a high waistline. Most of them button demurely way high around your throat with a flock of tiny covered buttons. When the jacket or coat is removed, behold the most sophisticated of formal gowns, mere straps over the shoulder, a wide expanse of back and shoulders with the high front throatline carefully sustained.

White and ivory evening gowns are, without a doubt, the most effective backgrounds for dramatizing the color of your hair, eyes, and last but not least, your favorite evening wrap. . . some eye filling scarlet wraps combined with these off-white evening gowns are quite spectacular, and these same snow white creations contrast most beautifully with a stunning dark mink cape or a long picturesque evening wrap topped with a fur cape and flaring collar.

The designers are using miles of fringe this winter . . . one knockout white, comparatively smooth silk crêpe is fashioned most simply and then covers the entire skirt from the hipline to the hemline with long, long, dripping white silk fringe. A cleverly designed shoulder cape that winds intricately around and around the top of the gown is also edged with long fringe.

Another ivory creation is classic in design, not a shred of fringe is allowed to detract from the exquisite graceful silhouette, but the quaint old fashioned three cornered folded shoulder cape is glorified with ten-inch white silk fringe that completes a costume of rare charm and distinction.

Look for the short luxurious capes of flattering chinchilla that top and contrast stunning velvet evening gowns . . . one deep sapphire blue velvet is unusually decorative with such a contrast . . . another vermilion velvet is a perfect foil for the silver sheen of the chinchilla, while a certain violet and another garnet red gown are unbelievably lovely with capes of this fragile feminine fur.

Lots of sparkling, even glittering brocades, made very simply with long clinging outlines, deft draperies and contrasted with jeweled clips are alternatives for any of the other fabrics described . . . they are new and exceedingly interesting this season because they are as soft and as supple as satin or silk and velvet.

All parties will be a grand success with such glamorous evening gowns to wear.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MOST of the mothers of the débutantes feel that something must be done about the disregard the young people show to the hours on invitations for parties, especially dinners. Although all of the mothers have made dire threats about not waiting for those who are an hour late, the first one I've heard of who has gone so far as to put the "deadline" hour on the invitations along with the hour for which the young people are invited is Mrs. Louis K. Boysen.

The invitations which she and Mr. Boysen have sent out for the début dinner dance of their daughter, Bobette, invite the guests for 8:30 o'clock and in one corner are the words, "Dinner at Nine." And dinner is to be served at that hour, so Mrs. Boysen says! Otherwise there is no chance of the young hostess and her guests reaching the Dewey dance anywhere near the hour designated by Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey as the time for the dance they are giving at the Casino for their débutante daughter, Louise. The Boysen dinner dance is to be at the "900" on the night after Christmas. It will mark Miss Boysen's formal introduction to society. She is a freshman at Vassar this year and will return to Chicago on the 16th to spend the holidays with her family.

Junior Assembly on New Year's Eve.

The members of the subdébutante set will be receiving soon invitations that will delight them, for the "bids" to the Junior Assembly on New Year's Eve at the Casino will be out in a day or two. It is the biggest party of the holiday season for the youngsters, and there always are several large dinner parties before it.

The mothers of the subdébutante crowd aren't bothered with tardy dinner guests, for the school girls and boys don't have cocktail parties, and it is those jolly parties, of course, that delay the débutantes and their beaux just as they do the elders of society.

Not that all the buds drink anything stronger than tomato juice cocktails, for some of them don't, but practically all the beaux do, and cocktail parties for the débutante set are as much a part of its gay social whirl as they are of the mothers' and fathers' good times.

This year before the Junior Assembly there are to be two dinners, one at the Casino, given by Mr. and Mrs. Kent Clow of Lake Forest for their daughter, Elise, and Clarice Hamill, daughter of the Alfred E. Hamills of Lake Forest, and the other in Winnetka, given by the Carl Kellys for their daughter, Marjorie. Elise, or Peggy, as she is called by her family and friends, is at Foxcroft and will be at home on the 18th, the same day that Clarice will arrive from Miss Walker's at Simsbury, Conn.

Marjorie Kelly is a senior at the North Shore Country Day school, and although her plans for next winter aren't settled yet, she probably will go to college or finishing school. The dinner that her mother and father will give for her will be at their residence, 35 Indian Hill road, and most of the young Winnetkans who will be coming in to the Junior Assembly will be there.

Party Saturday For Mary Senior.

Pretty Miss Mary Senior is to be given a party by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Cowham, this coming Saturday night at the regular weekly dinner dance at the Saddle and Cycle. Miss Senior is the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Senior of 229 Lake Shore drive. John

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Are your ceilings growing dark and smudgy, with shadow marks showing on lath and beam? Ceilings count, though they are over our heads, and sometimes show up their defects with disturbing clarity when we least desire it. Winter is an advantageous season to freshen them with calcimine or paint. When spring comes the outdoors calls, but in winter, with labor anxious to work and material prices low, new room tops, wherever they are necessary, are a profitable form of interior rejuvenation.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Henry White sails his four-master ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer, Roberta Millbank and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employe. Henry Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches, and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. One owner of an unused car sends his French chauffeur, Raoul, along. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. Benny, a cook, hires up for his keep. Four seafaring men Henry hired to load the cargo didn't appear to collect their wages before the boat sailed. They turn out to be bandits, who hide on the ship until it is well out to sea, then take charge. Roberta recognizes one of the men as a mad robber wanted by the U. S. government. The ship's radio brings in a warning of four escaped bank robbers.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

GREATER VIGILANCE.

"Hell! . . . I thought for a second you had another guy hid away in here."

It was a lame pretext. Ladybird's quick wit seized at it eagerly before any one could speak.

"Enough to stampede anybody to hear one of those ballyhoos starting suddenly bawling tosh. There's a new holdup staged every second in the U. S. A."

"Sure," said Smith. He shoved back his automatic and said to Raoul, who was raising himself, "Turn her on again, feller. Let's have a little music."

Ladybird said coolly, "I want to check the time if you don't mind, chief."

"Sure, sister," he repeated. "I didn't think. 'Scuse me for gettin' rough."

He went out again and as if indifferent to what might next be forthcoming he walked to the taffrail.

Ladybird raised her eyebrows and looked at Capt. Hiram. He frowned, then said heavily, "So that's his rum racket. Bank robbery and murder."

Capt. Smith could not have helped but realize how his startled violence had betrayed his mob of four; also that this betrayal had been unnecessary. If he had disregarded the announcement and listened to it with his usual cold indifference there might have been nothing to identify him positively with a criminal act infinitely worse than a clash with a coast guard.

As it was, the incident could not be ignored. Whether because it irked him to feel that he had lost his self control and given himself away, or because he was savagely impatient to hear what Capt. Hiram might have to say about it, he returned to the topic later in the evening when the two were alone on the quarter deck.

"I suppose you think you're on to me," he said.

"No great surprise. One racket leads to another."

"If we're in a bad spot, then where you folks stand ain't any too good," Smith said harshly.

"No need reminding me of that. It hasn't been any time."

"Well, it's worse than what it was. And the first shady move any of you make, there's no telling what may happen. Only that it won't be so good."

Capt. Hiram said evenly, "I've told you already that none of us intend to start anything so long as you keep on the way you're going."

"All right. Then let it ride like that. Just remember, though, that whatever you may think about how tough we are, it's possible we might show up still tougher."

That was all. But a different and a worse tension now prevailed. Where the captain and crew of the Abigail may have felt a certain tolerance for rum runners, they could feel none for what this mob of four was now known to be—bank robbers and killers. Also they knew them for desperadoes who would not hesitate to massacre at the least suspicion of any plan to thwart their escape. It was like being shipmates with some dangerous and irritable explosive.

The guard upon them all was now closer and more vigilant. The stowaways could imagine the fatal forebodings they inspired. They knew they had not to deal with captives who were stupid or cowardly. Where previously these captives might have believed themselves comparatively safe from a sudden murderous attack, there was no longer any sense of such security.

Two men of the Abigail's crew were now kept locked in the forepeak, and of the four to carry on the ship's routine each one had a close guard detailed, except when grouped in pairs that the watchers might get some sleep.

Still worse. The bandits no longer respected the privacy of the cabin. They used it with no offer of offense, but a hard, indifferent disregard of the three girls. They were like morose and dangerous prison guards. In this strained tension several days more were passed. Capt. Hiram wondered how he could go on in that way until such time as the four might see fit to leave them. The big sea skiff, with its powerful engine and full supply of fuel, also its auxiliary sail, could quickly leave the sluggish schooner wallowing on her way. They could concoct some story on landing and, with the aid of what money they might carry, lose themselves before any report about them could be received.

To add to the danger, the weather became tempestuous, not blowing a full gale but necessitating watchfulness of gear. In the darkness and confusion of running the ship almost anything might happen—one of the Abigail's crew disappear, then another, and another; a lopping off of the sources of danger to the criminals.

A hard hostility began to manifest itself. It was as if even such ruthless characters as these felt that the accomplishment of foul play must be made easier, more justifiable, in the absence of all tolerant emotions.

Capt. Hiram became more and more convinced that something of the sort was planned. He felt certain that such men did not intend to risk the speaking of a passing ship and radio warnings from her after they had left the schooner. No chance was given for any conference between the Abigails. The girls bore the ordeal bravely, but their terror grew. Even Ladybird, with her hard, high courage, felt she was breaking under the strain.

Roberta said to her, "I wonder how this thing is going to come out."

"That's what we're all wondering."

Arlette moaned. "Each day they grow more terrifying."

"The deuce of it is," said Ladybird, "there's not a mortal thing our men can do. They're unarmed and kept apart."

"And kept from making any sort of attempt because of us," Roberta said. "I can't even get a word alone with Benny."

"What good would that do? It was the wretched radio that did it."

"If we could poison them," Arlette suggested.

"Well, we can't without the poison. Nor even get them drunk without the spirits."

They gave it up. For his part Capt. Hiram turned over in his mind plan after plan, only to reject each as suicidal. Aside from the odds, no attack could hope to succeed unless concerted, and no chance for such a move was given. Any attempt to get the upper hand would, even if it succeeded, mean the instant destruction of the others by their guards.

Perhaps he had one of those intuitions that reveals itself in such a crisis, or perhaps it was no more than logic that told him more and more that they were doomed. He did not believe that one of them was destined to escape, possibly including the women.

Experts Find New Uses for Baking Powder

BY MARY MEADE.

Baking powder, the old standby for making cakes and breadstuffs rise and sing, seems to be finding new worlds to conquer. So when next you see in some recipe a teaspoon of baking powder apparently out of its element don't scornfully toss the recipe aside—but first find out what it's all about. For the elements in the baking powder can which do things to batters and doughs can do much the same things, fluffily speaking, to egg mixtures, creamy frostings, mashed potato dishes, stuffings, and a really amazing number of other creations, science is discovering.

This is particularly true of baking powders which guarantee a double action—part of the leavening gas being given off when the powder is combined with moist ingredients and the remainder being released when the food is cooked. This gas, cooks are discovering, gives an added lightness and puffiness to dishes which too often have the tendency to slump into heaviness.

But baking powders have picked up still another feather for their caps or star for their crowns. It has been experimentally discovered that they can do something to stubborn meat fibers and stringy vegetables—something which discourages the strings and fibers, improves texture, and—or so assert many epicures—does gladsome things to the flavor. This is made possible by the salts especially present in phosphate baking powders which act to break down tough vegetable and meat fibers.

Green or white vegetables especially are adapted to baking powder cookery since the alkaline reaction of the powder intensifies the green color.

Peas cooked in water to which one-fourth teaspoon of baking powder has been added to every cup of water used become tender and seem to keep their color and flavor remarkably well. Cabbage responds in kind. Cauliflower, broccoli, and Brussels sprouts cooked with the same amount of baking powder seem to lose much of their strong flavor and yet stay tasty and attractive to the eye.

Of course, it is possible to get too much of a good thing. If too much powder were added the tendering process would edge into the mushy stage, though this would require several times the amount experimenting cooks advise.

Toughish cuts of meat are also relenting at the invasion of baking powder. Sprinkled onto lamb neck patties or pounded with the flour into swiss steak, baking powder aids considerably in speeding up the process of tendering. Calf's liver—about one and one-half pounds of it—will thank you for three-fourths level teaspoon of baking powder mixed with one-half cup of flour. Dip the liver slices in it and pan-fry until tender.

And finally there even seems to be a speeding up in the cookery of the festive bird—be it turkey, duck, or chicken—when a teaspoon of baking powder is sprinkled in before stuffing, and a very decided added fluffiness is lent to the dressing when the same amount of powder is blended with the dressing mixture.

To give increased volume to a puffy omelet, use one-half level teaspoon of any good phosphate baking powder, adding it to the whites of eggs and whipping till stiff. Scrambled eggs call for one level teaspoon for every six eggs.

FLUFFY CREAM FILLING.

White of one egg
2-3 cup sugar
1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ level teaspoon baking powder

Whip the egg white till stiff, then sift in the sugar and beat one minute. Add the remaining ingredients and heat in the top of a double boiler only until warm. Place the pan in cold water and beat until cold again. Now pile lightly between and on top of the layers of cake.

Hectic Living Causes Many Beauty Ills

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Why all the current complaints about dry skin?

Time was, in my experience in handling skin problems, that the oily skin complaints far exceeded the dry ones.

I think the answer lies in two things. First, the oily skinned one of past days has eliminated much of her trouble by improved eating habits. It may be she learned to eat more wisely because of her figure's needs. Nevertheless, her skin reaped the benefit, too. Also, the oily skin is more often treated with astringent lotion today.

But these dries! They have me worried! So many of them. It isn't the makeup applications. It isn't powdering. It isn't face lotion use, as perhaps some of our critics would volunteer. I'm sure it's the tensity of life, as experienced by so many women today, that causes dry skin trouble.

Dry skin invariably accompanies nervousness. It is experienced always where there is undernourishment. And continued fatigue contributes to it, too. With age, of course, there is a certain drying out process of the oils that lubricate. But young women should not be reporting it, in so many numbers, this skin condition.

Better make a few inquiries into those nerves of yours. They usually don't have to be inquired into. They speak loudly for themselves. But if you're getting jumpy, impatient—have any of the signs of a high strung creature, you want to get yourself toned down. You don't want to get wrinkled at your age.

Perhaps you are not eating enough oily foodstuffs such as cream and butter and olive oil. You need a little fat padding as cushion for your nerves. You may be cheating your complexion with too hectic a silhouette pursuit. No use getting a girlish figure if you have to go about with a parched, old skin, is there?

You must build up that skin surface from inside. You have to supply it with the needed oil producing foods. You see for yourselves now that you can't depend wholly upon creams and skin foods, although they have their place. You must whip up your health.

Get those nerves toned down by getting to bed earlier at night, getting in a good long walk a day, eating foods that have real nutrition.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. McKim, who passed the autumn at Westbury, have closed their country home preparatory to passing the winter at Aiken, where they have leased a place. Mrs. McKim's brothers, George H. [Pete] Bostwick and Albert C. Bostwick are arranging to sail next week for England to join Mr. and Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, their uncle and aunt, who sailed last week for Staveley lodge, at Melton Mowbray, for the winter.

Elect Walter Mee Vice President of U. S. Church Councils

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Walter R. Mee, executive secretary of the Chicago Church federation, today was elected vice president of the National Association of City and State Councils of Churches at the annual meeting of that association here.

Irvin E. Deer of Kansas City was elected president. The meeting is being held just prior to the opening tomorrow of the quadrennial sessions of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. That council's sessions will continue until Saturday.

Council leaders arriving during the day hailed the congressional defeat of the Garner 18th amendment repeal resolution as an evidence of the turning of that topic into cooler and safer channels than a political campaign.

Sunbeam League to Give Yule Party for Children

The Sunbeam League of Chicago will give a Christmas party for the children of the seven kindergartens which the league supports on Wednesday, Dec. 21, from 2:30 until 5 o'clock in the Children's Fairyland of the Stevens hotel. Fifteen junior members of the league will act as hostesses, helping the youngsters with their games and entertainment. There will be a magician to thrill the children and Santa Claus will have a present on the Christmas tree for every one.

Two Families Under One Roof Means Trouble

BY DORIS BLAKE.

When a young couple moves in on the parents of one or the other for financial reasons, that's one thing! But when a young woman continues living at home after she is married, not because there's any financial pressure, but because the girl's mother might be lonesome for her—we call that asking for trouble! Which "Elise" is getting!

Mother is changed, she claims, since "Elise" brought her husband into the family circle. Mother has a husband of her own. The two husbands manage to get along agreeably enough. Each has money enough to take care of his wife.

Says "Elise": "I have been married four years and am as unhappy and misunderstood as any one could be. The reason is that my husband and I are never left alone to discuss things. If I say anything to him my mother butts right in—and this starts an argument. The next day she is sorry and buys presents for me. But I don't want presents. I want to be left alone with my husband," and so on.

Perhaps mother would like to be left alone with her husband, too, "Elise." Did that ever occur to you? She may be thinking she's misunderstood and unhappy.

The trouble with girls like you, "Elise," is that you want to have your cake and eat it, too. You're not willing to get out from under the roof where things always have been pretty soft for you. Not courageous enough to set up your own menage. Probably always have leaned on mother. Now you want to keep on leaning, but mother should ask no quarter of you.

Whether or not mamma wanted you, urged you to stay on with her when you married, you should have stepped off into your own home.

In any event, it's your duty now to step out and play the real role of wife and helpmate. Mother's lonesomeness can be remedied by letting her come to pay you visits now and then.

One Invitation Announces Dinner Deadline.

Mrs. Frank Scouller Porter is opening her apartment at 60 Scott street today from 10 to 6 o'clock for a Christmas sale under the auspices of the directors of the Woman's auxiliary of Grant hospital. Everything to be on sale has been made by the women of the auxiliary and includes utilitarian and fancy articles and home made cakes and jellies.

Mrs. Porter's sister, Miss Katherine Lefens, will serve luncheon for the shoppers and saleswomen in her apartment which is across the hall from Mrs. Porter's.

Louise Dewey to Give Movie Party.

Miss Louise Dewey is entertaining members of "le Groupe des Jeunes de l'Alliance Francaise" at a movie tea party at International house at the University of Chicago this afternoon. At 4 o'clock she and her guests will see a French movie, "Marius," shown under the auspices of the Renaissance society, after which they will have tea in the Tiffin room.

"Marius" is a story of the picturesque, sea-going population of Old Port-Marseilles.

Members of the Winnetka, Evanston and Chicago auxiliaries of the Cradle are to be the guests of Mrs. Charles G. Dawes at a musical and tea this afternoon at her residence in Evanston. This is the first large affair Mrs. Dawes has given since the family returned to Evanston.

Several of the Cradle members are giving luncheons before the party at the Cradle in Evanston, which has an attractive little tearoom where a buffet luncheon is served each day, the proceeds going to the Cradle.

Some of those who will entertain there today are Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy, Mrs. Howard W. Fenton and Mrs. John C. Slade.

Announce Title of Triangle Play.

"It's the Valet" is the name of the 44th annual production by the Princeton Triangle club of Princeton university, which will be given in Chicago on Dec. 22 at the Auditorium. Arthur McD. Wood of Highland Park and William A. Cremin of Chicago are included in the chorus. Members of the club have been invited to Miss Jean Dorothy McVoy's debut ball at the Blackstone hotel after the performance.

Mrs. Charles Howard Besly of Hinsdale has received word that her son-in-law and daughter, Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Frank B. Tours, and their 2 year old son, Gregory, landed in New York Sunday from England, and that they will be here a week from today to spend the holidays. They are stopping to visit in New York for a few days, spending some time with another daughter of Mrs. Besly's, Mrs. L. G. Phillips of Scarsdale, and going on to be with Commander Tours' uncle, Commander Frank E. Tours, on Long Island. From Hinsdale the Tours will go to Hongkong, where Commander Tours is being sent by the royal British navy.

The Arthur Meekers are happy to have a cable from their son, Arthur Jr., bringing them assurance that he will be at home for Christmas. He has postponed his sailing date so often that they were beginning to worry for fear he might not be here to eat Christmas goose or turkey with the family. But this last cable from Antibes says definitely that he will sail this Friday on a fast boat, which means that he will be here probably by the end of next week.

Mrs. Jacob Baur will return the end of this week from a round of visits in the east, where she went before Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Howard Linn, who also is paying a round of visits to friends in the east, now is in Middleburg, Va., with Mrs. Amory Perkins, and she will not be back in Chicago until about Dec. 17.

Fentons Will Leave Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton are leaving today for a short vacation at the Virginia Hot Springs. Their daughter, Miss Honore White, is so busy with all the debutante festivities that she isn't going with them.

Mrs. Austin H. Niblack of Lake Forest is in New York visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Noble Stearns. She will be back in a week or so.

Mrs. Keyes Stillwell is staying at the Orrington hotel in Evanston to be near her sister, Mrs. John C. Slade of Forest avenue, Evanston. She leaves the 15th to be with her daughter, Mrs. S. P. Rust of Washington, for the holidays before returning to El Pinar, the villa in Palma on the island of Mallorca, which she and Mrs. Susan Rowe Lord will occupy again this winter. Mrs. Lord is in Chicago now, too, visiting her sister, Mrs. Alvin C. McCord of 191 East Walton place.

Although not officially at home until Jan. 1, John P. Porter and his bride arrived in town yesterday and are at the Henry H. Porter residence at 1520 State parkway. No definite word has been received from the other two Porter "boys" and their brides, the junior Henry H. Porters and the Sartell Prentice Porters, but they are expected to reach Chicago before Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bennett and Mrs. Bennett's daughter, Miss Betty Mead, are expected back in Chicago tomorrow. They are returning from the south of France after spending the last three weeks of their trip at Cap d'Antibes with Mrs. Bennett's uncle, Gen. Sir Arthur Long. Mr. Bennett's trip was for both business and pleasure and he accomplished a considerable amount of work in connection with A Century of Progress while abroad.

Helen Knight Visits Potters.

Miss Helen Knight of Philadelphia is the guest of the T. Albert Potter family in Lake Forest for the holiday season. The Potters' son, Albert Jr., will be at home the end of next week from the Kent school.

Ira Nelson Morris has returned to Chicago and is staying at his Lake Shore hotel apartment. Mrs. Morris is still in Germany engaged in historical research at Heidelberg, where she expects to be for some time.

Mrs. Louis Yager and the members of the music committee of the Chicago Woman's club will act as hostesses at a special luncheon to follow the annual musical morning at the club this morning at 11 o'clock.

Lewis Bernays, the British consul general, will speak at a meeting of the Junior Friends of Art this afternoon in the ballroom of the Drake hotel. Miss Vera Bradford, Parnell Egan, Sara Egan Couturier and Miss Helen Protheroe will give a musical program and Quin O'Brien will talk on "The Dramatic, Music and Art Development of the British Isles." During tea folk dances of the British isles in costume will be given by Helen Rotova and company.

Fay and Barbara Stanwyck Adopt Red Haired Baby

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 5.—(AP)—A red haired boy, 9 months old, was adopted by Frank Fay, stage and screen star, and his wife, Barbara Stanwyck, film actress. The child was named Dick Fay.

Short Fur Jacket Stays in Fashion Among French

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The wise one who predicted that the brief fur jacket would die a lonely death have found that prediction an indivestible mouthful. Short fur jackets are very much in evidence right now in chic Paris circles. And the smartest of them are being worn with matching muffs, probably to give a little extra warmth as compensation for the brevity of the jacket. Flat furs and long haired ones, as well, such as caracul, astrakhan, pony, and seal, are the favorite mediums used.

One of the smartest of the furs being used this season is golden seal. Redfern makes a jacket of this fur, which is shown in the sketch today. This jacket, which ends just below the waistline in two points at the center front, has a wide draped and revered collar, and two buttons to fasten it at the waistline. The new short sleeves are made of two huge puffs of the fur, one ending just above the elbows and the other below.

At the right of the sketch is shown the frock that Redfern suggests for wear under this jacket. In a rough surfaced woolen, in the same shade of brown as the seal, this frock has revers somewhat similar to its jacket, raglan sleeves, and buttons down the left side front to the waistline. Just below the wide, self-material belt there is a diamond shaped yoke at the front of the skirt, from which a gradually widening godet starts, descending to the hem, with two plaits at the sides from above the knees.

Issue Second Book of Arnold Bennett Notes

Journal Reflects Success as an Author.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Journal of Arnold Bennett, 1911-'20." [Viking.]

LAST May there appeared the first volume of the million word journals which Arnold Bennett kept from the time he was 29 years old until shortly before his death last year at the age of 64. At that time two other volumes were promised, since it was impossible, even with editing, to compress the journals into less than three somewhat tomelike volumes. The tomeliness of the first volume was a benefit received rather than a deterrent, for as it progressed it became the most fascinating record of the work of a creative artist any one could ask for. It set down with vigor and with truth the struggles of the creative artist to create—not sentimentally, but factually.

There was no emotion in that first volume. Arnold Bennett was a north country man, not given to expression of emotion, and it never occurred to him to record emotional reactions which he never expressed. He was enough of an artist, however, to deplore the fact that, for the purposes of his art, he had neglected to make permanent records of high emotional moments. "I want them for my novel" he mourned more than once.

There is even less emotion in this second volume—the record of his doings from 1911 to 1921. That was the period of the author's life when he was most spectacularly successful financially and socially and when he had few doubts about his creative ability and its nurture. And since that ability is the only thing in his life about which he ever allowed himself to be expansive in his journals, the second volume is definitely deficient in revelatory paragraphs.

"In the second volume the effect of success upon him is revealed and a more and more objective observation of the world and its people shown," says D. C. B. in her introduction to the first volume.

To this person at least the journals become so objective as to lose their gripping power over the reader. They become so objective as to be little more than records of people and places and events, fascinating only in events, not their interpretations. The fact that they include the years of the war and that even during those times of emotional stress they record no subjective emotion evidences the new tenor of them. Success demanded so much of Arnold Bennett that his journal ceased to be a place where the author could battle with his ideas, for there was little leisure for contemplative and forensic writing.

The very style of the journal changes. It is written hastily. This is especially true in the part which chronicles his journey to America in 1911. He might have been writing telegrams instead of setting down impressions. Thus succinctly does he characterize Chicago on his visit here:

"Chicago, city of superlatives.

"Biggest store, book shop, press club, post.

"Reynolds club [students]."

"Commons [replica of Oxford]."

"Fine twilight effects on magnificent boulevards."

There is not much about Chicago, nor, for that matter, about the American visit. Obviously he was so busy being a distinguished visitor, with all of the penalties of lack of privacy as well as its charming advantages of popularity, that he just didn't get time or have an inclination to elaborate his impressions in his journals.

All of the journals are not written in such staccato fashion, however. Occasionally—but so rarely as to be memorable, whereas in the first volume it was the common thing—the author has set down ideas to be worked over in his creative writing. There is one entry in the journal which is so characteristic of the way the minds of all writers of fiction naturally operate, even in the stress of emotion, that I must quote it. It describes the funeral of his mother, to whom he was devoted; but even then he saw the literary possibilities of the scene:

"Funeral. Too soon. Orange light through blinds in front of room. Coffin in center on two chairs. Covered with flowers. Bad reading, and stumbling of parson. Cliches and halting prayers. Small, thin book out of which parson read. In dim light cheap new carving on oak of coffin seemed like fine oak carving. Shams brass handles on coffin. Horrible lettering. Had to wait after service for hearse to arrive. Men hung their hats on spikes of hearse before coming in. No trouble in carrying coffin. . . . (Long walk from cemetery gates to region of chapel. By the way, the lodge at gates is rented as an ordinary house to a schoolmaster. . . . This could be exaggerated into a fine story. . . ."

Infant Welfare Benefit

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Kenath Sponsel and Mrs. Albert Cummins are among the members of the Kenwood Social Service club who are working for the success of the benefit to be given by the club for the Infant Welfare society on Wednesday evening, Dec. 14. The club has bought out the Grand Opera house for that night. The club contributed $10,000 a year to the Infant Welfare society.

Supporters of New Opera Project Organize Today

Supporters of a new group to sponsor opera and concerts in Chicago will organize at the Auditorium hotel today. All participants have been pledged to secrecy pending the formal announcement today. The tentative plans contemplate opera and concerts, with well known artists, at admission prices of 25, 50 and 75 cents and without a deficit.

Glenwood School Group to Give Minstrel Show

Twenty-one boys of Glenwood Manual Training school will give a minstrel show and provide musical entertainment at the December meeting of the Glenwood Alumni association to be held this evening at the conference rooms of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies, 203 North Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Girls Stampede for Lead Part in Borneo Film

Include Many Wild Men in Company.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 5.—It may be that it is merely curiosity about the wild men of Borneo, but since a Hollywood paper carried an advertisement for an adventurous young actress who would be willing to go to Borneo for six months and play a lead, the applicants have been trouping in by dozens. Frank Borzage is in charge of the interviews. The girl chosen will be expected to play with a cast recruited almost entirely of natives.

Gar Wood, the Detroit motor boat speed champion has been visiting Katharine Hepburn and Bill Boyd at Radio studio. Miss Hepburn plays an aviatrix who tries speedboating for a thrill in "The Great Desire."

They've made two endings for Paramount's "Farewell to Arms" and both will be sold generally. In one ending, Helen Hayes dies; in the other, her baby is born safely, she escapes from the warfare and finally lives happily ever after with Gary Cooper.

They're still talking about Mary Pickford riding a bicycle to the party given by Frederic March and Florence Eldridge. She rode it right in the front door.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover was honor guest today at a luncheon given at the Washington club by the wives of the members of the "Little cabinet," which is composed of the assistants in the federal government. Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr. of Chicago, wife of the assistant secretary of the treasury, was among the guests.

Vice President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, were hosts to a small company at luncheon following the convening of congress today.

Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams entertained at dinner this evening in compliment to Viscount and Viscountess Astor of England, who have been visiting in the latter's former home in Virginia. Viscountess Astor was Miss Nancy Langhorn. They will spend the week with Senator and Mrs. David A. Reed.

Attractive Utility Frock for Winter Is Intricately Cut but Simply Made

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A smart frock, cut in an intricate fashion but easy to make, is sketched today. The closing is in the back, and the neckline is bateau shape. The pointed skirt seaming helps in giving the much desired slender appearance, and the entire frock spells smartness. Black rough silk crêpe with white crêpe for the collar is good. Two surfaces of crinkly satin crêpe or soft woolens are appropriate materials to use.

The pattern, No. 3212, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting and 4¼ yards of binding.

The Winter Fashion Magazine, a 32 page Clotilde pattern book in color, is available for 15 cents a copy; but if a Clotilde pattern is ordered at the same time, the price of the magazine is only 10 cents. Address Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, New York City; or call at the Tribune Public Service Office at 1 South Dearborn, Chicago.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Daily Times Old Fashioned Christmas Tree Fund

Sponsored by MAYOR CERMAK

Here is your opportunity to see as well as hear the famous Texaco Fire-Chief Radio Program exactly as it has been broadcast from New York for the last seven months. And here is an opportunity to enjoy a pleasant evening and at the same time contribute to a worthy cause.

This Tuesday the regular radio program will be broadcast from the stage of the Grand Opera House. Ed Wynn, Graham McNamee, Don Voorhees and his Fire-Chief band will all be there in person.

Admission will be 50¢ and $1.00. The entire proceeds will be equally divided between the following Chicago newspapers' funds: Herald & Examiner's Milk Fund, Daily News Neediest Families Fund, Daily Times Old Fashioned Christmas Tree Parties Fund, Tribune's Hungry School Children's Fund. In order to make this broadcast possible Mr. Wynn is gladly omitting the regular Tuesday evening performance of his current stage success, "The Laugh Parade," now playing at the Grand Opera House.

It is requested that you arrive well before time, as the broadcast will start exactly at 8.30 P.M.

A. A. U. BARS BABE DIDRIKSON AS AMATEUR

NORTHWESTERN BEATS BRADLEY FIVE, 44 TO 19

Culver and Johnson Lead Wildcats.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern's basketball team last night started its season by drubbing Bradley Tech of Peoria, 44 to 19. Northwestern had a marked superiority, ranging from physical advantages of speed and height to skill. At no time was Bradley in the running and the half ended with the Wildcats leading, 17 to 8.

Evidently Bradley's defeat was expected, for only 2,000 saw the game and the majority of these were university students who enjoyed a mass verbal attack on their cheer leaders more than the opportunity to cheer their players.

Provides Rule Test.

Regardless of the score and result, last night's game offered first public demonstration of the efficiency of the new rules as applied in the conference.

The rule which requires that the offense advance the ball beyond the center of the floor in ten seconds was invoked only once by Referee Nick Kearns. Bradley lost possession by its delay, but the violation seemed a mere technicality. Certainly there was no occasion for delaying the game last night and absolutely no excuse for Bradley to do so, since it was far behind at the time.

The ten second rule will be of importance only in a closely fought game when possession in the closing seconds is vital.

Call 3 Second Rule Once.

The three second rule for possession within the free throw lane was called by Referee Kearns once. Captain Joe Reiff, who had utilized this offense all evening, as had Elmer Johnson, timed the play correctly except for this instance. Since the new rule does not apply except in the free throw lane, it seemed last night that it would not interfere with the pivot and block play except to speed up the attack.

Northwestern overwhelmed Bradley by superior passing. The size of Bradley's score, particularly at the end of twenty minutes of play, testified to the guarding ability of the Wildcats.

Reiff and Johnson, around whom the team will be built, played until the final minute. Don Brewer paired with Reiff and Johnson on the attack, while Nelson Culver and Marvin Moonshower brought the ball down court. Brewer scored twice in the first half and twice more when he came back in the final five minutes. In between Chester Perry played Brewer's position. He scored three field goals, and apparently there was little to choose between them in passing or on defense.

Culver Gets 8 Points.

Culver had an excellent eye for the goal, getting three baskets from the field and two free throws. Moonshower, replacing Bus Smith of last year's quintet, scored four points. He was steady on defense. Al Kawal, a sophomore, was the best prospect of the guard substitutions.

Northwestern dropped in ten of twelve shots from the penalty line, Reiff getting five out of six. Joe only landed one basket from the field in his many attempts, but failure last night, of course, is immaterial.

Bradley managed to stay within ten points of Northwestern until the last five minutes, mainly through the efforts of William Getz and Frank Mace, who scored all seven Bradley field goals. But with the score 29 to 19, the Wildcats swept on to 44 while Bradley was held scoreless.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

COLLEGE LETTER BOX.

DEAR WAKE: It is to be hoped the conference faculty committee will amend its rules to allow undisputed football champions to play a late game either in California or the south. Most of us are just as well satisfied that such action, if taken, will not affect 1932 elevens.

It was difficult to see just why the rule should be waived at this particular time, when it would affect Michigan. Michigan, we are told, opposed such a trip by Purdue in 1929, when the Boilermakers were undisputed champions. It was supposed to be opposed to such a trip by Northwestern last year if the Purple went through clean, which it did not.

If Northwestern had beaten Purdue last year it would have had a clearer claim than Michigan this year, because Purdue also has not been beaten in 1932, but was counted out because of a tie.

Now, this impression that Michigan was opposed to other elevens making coast trips may be erroneous. If so, I think Michigan should make official statement to that effect. I happen to know there is considerable feeling among Purdue alumni about the 1929 affair because of Michigan's reported opposition. Therefore it was with considerable surprise we noted Michigan's attitude of receptivity this year. Some of us feel that Wolverine chickens came home to roost. I, for one, would be very glad to be corrected if that resentment is unfounded.

Purdue '18.

I would like to write a few words about a star generally overlooked by football writers and critics. That is Joe Laws of Iowa, picked by his teammates as the most valuable player to his team, and therefore a candidate for THE TRIBUNE Silver Football.

Laws is the fastest and most elusive back in the Big Ten. He is every bit as good as Gil Berry, Fred Hecker, and Lewis Hinchman, but has not had their blocking support. I have seen them all play. Time after time he broke away in the Northwestern game in which Iowa was outclassed. All season he has averaged nearly five yards from scrimmage. He is also a fine defensive man, good passer, and adept at snagging passes. I hope to see him play next year with the better Hawkeye squad which is promised, and then he'll receive more general recognition. Charles Franklin.

A Boilermaker Viewpoint.

Helper M. W. B., Purdue '15, calls our attention to comment appearing in "The Billboard" column of W. H. R. in the Lafayette, Ind., Journal and Courier:

"Undoubtedly the Big Ten most valuable player trophy will go to Newman of Michigan. Without him there wouldn't have been any Michigan team worth mentioning.

"Wisconsin and Purdue are the only schools that have never been accorded this honor. There have been numerous Boilermakers worthy of this recognition, but the teams of recent years have been so strong and the material as a whole so meritorious that these men do not stand out head and shoulders above their mates, as did Glasgow of Iowa, Bennett of Indiana, and this year Newman of Michigan. That's a penalty one pays for wearing a Boilermaker uniform."

ARMY OFFICIALS DENY FRICTION WITH NOTRE DAME

1933 Game Is Scheduled Already—Maj. Fleming

New York, Dec. 5.—[Special.]—From West Point today came the emphatic denial of Maj. Philip B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics for the army, of reports in circulation that Army and Notre Dame had had post-game friction after their recent contest at the Yankee stadium in which Notre Dame was the winner, 21 to 0.

The stories, which went the rounds over the week-end in football circles, were that Army considered Notre Dame unduly rough as the Irish were riding rough-shod over the Cadets to their three touchdown triumph.

Game for 1933 Set.

"The relationship between Army and Notre Dame is as sound as it has been before," declared Fleming, "and there is no idea of a break.

"We have already scheduled a game with Notre Dame for the first Saturday of December next year, which will be one week after Army plays Navy. The schedule has not yet been announced because there is yet one date unfilled, but the Notre Dame game is set. Negotiations have already been opened for the 1934 game. There is absolutely no basis for a report that the series is in danger."

How much of the Army's stand is due to diplomacy is a matter of opinion because reports current in Philadelphia at the Army-Navy game that the West Pointers were slightly perturbed over the matter after their game with Notre Dame had some basis in fact.

Today, however, it was pointed out by Army, as well as by Notre Dame men, that every cadet regular who played against the Irish at the Yankee stadium was able to face Navy in West Point's 20 to 0 victory, including Felix [Pick] Vidal, the flashy back who was reported to have been badly shaken up in defense against the Irish running attack.

"Just Hard Football."

This, it was pointed out by both sides, indicated that there was little, if anything, more in the game than the hard football the old rivals have always played since their contests began in 1913. The fact that Notre Dame, with two complete sets of hard running backs and probably the finest line in Notre Dame history, was able to put on almost continuous physical pressure is considered to have been the chief factor in making the game a severe physical test for Army.

GRIMM STOPS HERE; HAPPY ON HERMAN DEAL

Manager Charley Grimm of the Chicago Cubs, en route to the minor league meeting at Columbus, O., stopped in Chicago yesterday. The Cub pilot, who has been spending the winter hunting near his home, St. Louis, Mo., appeared in fine condition.

"Herman is going to supply us with the punch we need," he said when asked about the recent deal which sent Babe Herman, slugging Cincinnati outfielder, to the Cubs. "I hated to see Rolly Hemsley, Johnny Moore, Lance Richbourg, and Bob Smith go, but Herman is certainly going to help us."

EMMERSON STILL UNDECIDED ON RACE BILL ACTION

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 5.—Gov. Emmerson still has on his desk the Michel race track bill which increases license fees of tracks in the state $1,000 a day and at the same time increasing the take from the pari-mutuel betting pools from 6½ per cent to 8½ per cent. It developed today that the governor has until Wednesday either to give the bill his O. K. or veto it. The governor gave no indication today of the action he might take.

FROM WEST TO EAST

Glenn S. Warner, veteran football coach, who tendered his resignation to Stanford yesterday. He has accepted a five year contract to coach Temple university at Philadelphia.

Pop Warner Quits Stanford; Signs to Coach at Temple U.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palo Alto, Cal., Dec. 5.—Glenn S. [Pop] Warner, football coach at Stanford university since 1924, announced today that he had signed a five year contract with Temple university, Philadelphia, and will begin his new duties in a few weeks.

Warner would not say what his salary at Temple would be, but intimated it would be more than he received at Stanford. It is believed his salary has been $12,000 a year. Earl R. Yeomans, graduate manager of athletics at Temple, also declined to name Warner's salary.

Report Alumni Dissatisfied.

Henry J. [Heine] Miller, present Temple coach, whose contract expires Jan. 1, will be permitted to remain as Warner's assistant, Yeomans said.

Warner's resignation, submitted to Stanford officials today, followed reports that alumni were dissatisfied with the showing of this year's team, which lost 4 of 11 games, including those with two important coast conference rivals, Southern California and Washington. Warner said Temple had made him a similar offer last year, which he declined.

As Pop had gone along for year after year on a one year verbal contract with the university officials, his retirement will take place at once.

Warner's change in head coaching positions came about as a result of a conference he held with representatives of Temple during Stanford's recent invasion of Pennsylvania in which it lost to Pitt, 7 to 0.

At that time Pop asked and obtained advice on Temple's standing and athletic prospects from several of his old football pupils, including Jock Sutherland, the Pitt coach, and Andy Kerr, now at Colgate.

Warner Issues Statement.

It is generally accepted here that Ernie Nevers, former Stanford full back and star player for the Chicago Cardinals in pro football, will succeed Warner as the head coach here. Nevers has been characterized by Pop as the greatest player he ever coached, even greater than Jim Thorpe of Carlisle. Nevers joined the Stanford coaching staff this season, and although the closest bonds continued to exist between Warner and Nevers, yet Pop expressed irritation on more than one occasion because, he said, the Stanford alumni were "riding" him, and because he believed "they would sooner have somebody else, probably Nevers."

In a signed statement Warner said: "I am leaving Stanford because I have accepted a position which I feel is a step forward for me.

"It is with regret that I am leaving Stanford, where I have had the support of the administrative authorities, the students and the alumni.

"Stanford has passed through a period of depression athletically, and the prospects for the future are much brighter than at any time since I have been here.

"I will always feel very kindly toward Stanford, and I wish my successor the very best of success."

Least Successful Season.

Warner's Stanford team had its least successful season this year in Pop's nine years of control, losing to Southern California for the fifth successive season and winning only one Pacific coast conference game. His 1932 eleven lost to University of California at Los Angeles, which is the "baby" member of the league, and which never before had beaten one of the coast conference major teams.

Stanford also lost to Jimmy Phelan's Washington team and succeeded in tying California in a scoreless game for the only bright spot of the season.

During Pop's years at Stanford his teams have run up a formidable record, however, winning 72 games, losing only 13, and tying 11.

Second Surprise to Conference.

The furor here occasioned by Warner's sudden, although not entirely unexpected, action is the second shakeup in far west coaching in the last three days. Warner's resignation comes on the heels of the statement given out by Head Coach Jimmy Phelan of the University of Washington last Saturday. At that time Phelan said his contract would not

RECORD GATE AND CROWD ASSURED FOR TROJAN GAME

80,000 Seats Already Sold at $4.40.

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 5.—Notre Dame and Southern California, which stand for the best there is in 1932 football, will play before a crowd of 105,000 at Olympic stadium Saturday afternoon.

Arnold Eddy, graduate manager at Southern California, announced today that more than 80,000 seats have been disposed of, and with nearly a week to go, it is considered a certainty that there will be no unsold tickets when the teams take the field. The price of each seat is $4.40, so the game will break the season's record for receipts as well as attendance.

This will be the third capacity crowd that the Los Angeles coliseum has accommodated. It was filled at the opening and closing events of the Olympic games.

Not Worrying About Pitt.

The only other opponent remaining on Southern California's schedule is Pittsburgh, the team which beat Notre Dame. This game will be played at the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena Jan. 2. Strangely, the Trojans are far more concerned about their conflict with the Irish than they are with the latter's conquerors. They feel that they can take care of Pittsburgh if they can whip Notre Dame.

Coach Howard Jones has been letting the Trojans off easy since their 9 to 6 victory over Washington, which clinched the Pacific coast championship. They went to work in earnest today, however, in the first of a series of rehearsals calculated to fit the team for the hardest battle of the season.

Hal Clemens, the back field boy whose field goal defeated Washington, came in for a lot of attention. Jones had him practicing his specialty from all angles. There are indications that the Trojans are not optimistic over their chances of penetrating the Notre Dame defense for a touchdown from scrimmage, and if they get within the 20 yard zone you may look for plenty of kicking.

Brush Up Pass Defense.

Defense against forward passes was also stressed at today's workout. The Trojans looked none too strong in this department against Washington, and Aubrey Devine, who has been scouting Notre Dame for three weeks, reports that the Irish have a more dangerous overhead attack than the Huskies. Orville Mohler, quarter back who was lost in midseason by injury, said Notre Dame's passing game last year was the most bewildering his team encountered.

Southern California's hope of slowing up the South Bend aerial plays rests with its two great tackles, Smith and Brown. It is believed they may be able to hurry the passer so consistently that his throws will not reach their mark.

The Trojan line from end to end is heavy, experienced and aggressive, but there is no man who outshines a guard named Rosenberg. He pulls out of the line to run interference for the ball carrier. He travels low and hard with his weight on the point of his shoulder. Jones teaches his players to block with their shoulders, so naturally they must have their power concentrated at this point if they are to succeed. Rosenberg has all his power in his shoulders when he takes a man out of the play.

Sparling Still Catching 'Em.

Grimth, the quarter back who replaced Mohler, is throwing passes for the Trojans this season. He was tossing them all over the field today, 30 to 40 yards at a crack. Palmer and Sparling usually were on the receiving end. Sparling is the young man whose reception of passes figured prominently in the sensational fourth quarter rally of Southern California at South Bend a year ago. They say that Palmer is even more adept.

The Trojans worked until it was so dark they had to use a ghost ball to follow the Notre Dame plays as executed by the freshmen.

Chicago Gets Five Women's Golf Tourneys

The executive board of the Women's Western Golf association joined other leading organizations of the game in adding to the World's Fair year schedule by listing Chicago as the scene of all five of its 1933 tournaments at a special meeting yesterday.

The W. W. G. A.'s first tournament of the busy 1933 season here will be the second annual international series between American and Canadian women golfers on June 19, 20 and 21. The site of these matches was withheld with a view to an attempt to play them on three different courses in the district.

The association's open championship will be held on the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields, June 26 to 30. The junior meet, also was awarded to Chicago, and although no dates or club were announced, it is understood the youngsters will gather at a north side course in July.

The match play championship will be held at Oak Park, Aug. 7 to 12, and the 72 hole medal play Derby will be run at Sunset Ridge, Aug. 16, 17 and 18.

WRESTLING FANS STORM RING AND K. O. PROMOTER

Steele was disqualified for repeated rough tactics after 32 minutes 55 seconds of wrestling. Referee Eddie Forbes' decision was the signal for a near riot.

A group of Steele's followers, including a number of wrestlers, leaped into the ring to protest. One of them knocked out Curley with one punch. A group of the Garden's special officers hurried to the rescue, ejected Curley's assailant, and soon had the situation under control. Fights which broke out in various parts of the arena were quickly suppressed.

Curley soon was revived and left the Garden under his own power.

Lewis held the upper hand most of the way in the feature match, labeled by the New York state athletic commission as for the "heavyweight championship."

DENY REPORT MORGAN PARK TO PLAY TEXAS TEAM

Reports that Morgan Park, Chicago Public High School league football champion, has accepted an offer to play San Antonio, Tex., Christmas day were denied last night by Richard Tweedie, Morgan Park athletic director, and A. H. Pritzlaff, secretary of the league.

"We have not received an offer from San Antonio," said Tweedie. "Besides, our football suits were turned in immediately after negotiations with Mount Carmel for a city championship game were dropped."

Eddie Flynn Scores K. O. in 1st Professional Bout

New Orleans, La., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Eddie Flynn, Loyola university welterweight and former national amateur titleholder, tonight stepped into the professional ranks by knocking out Harry [Kid] Wallace of New York in the fourth round of a scheduled ten round bout.

OLYMPIC STAR'S NAME USED IN AUTOMOBILE AD

Denies Violation of Rules.

New York, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Mildred [Babe] Didrikson of Dallas, Tex., generally regarded as the grentest all around star in the history of women's athletics, ran afoul of the by-laws of the National Amateur Athletic union today and suffered automatic disqualification.

Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., said the Texas girl had forfeited her amateur standing by permitting her name to be used in advertising a commercial product.

Specifically, the complaint was lodged on the basis of an automobile advertisement appearing in newspapers last Sunday. Miss Didrikson was quoted as praising the performance of the concern's latest model. Accompanying the advertisement was a picture of the Texas girl, showing her clearing a hurdle.

All this, Ferris said, was in direct violation of the rules and automatically disbarred Miss Didrikson from further amateur competition.

Won Team Title.

The Texas girl was one of the outstanding American figures in the Olympics this summer. She won the javelin throw and the 80 meter hurdles, setting new world's records in both, and placed second to Jean Shiley of Philadelphia in the high jump. One of her jumps in this latter competition was disallowed because officials asserted she had dived over the bar.

Just prior to the Olympics she won the National Women's Track and Field team title for her home club singlehanded. She won the broad jump, javelin, shotput, 80 meter hurdles and the baseball throw outright, tied Miss Shiley for the high jump title, and placed fourth in the discus throw to score 30 points.

She first rose to athletic prominence as a basketball player and had shown an aptitude for golf as well.

BABE SHOCKED; PROTESTS

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Shocked by the news that she has been declared ineligible for further amateur participation by officials of the Amateur Athletic union, Mildred [Babe] Didrikson declared she had given no firm or individual permission to use her picture or name for advertising purposes.

"I allowed those people to make a picture of me but told them I did not want them to use it," Miss Didrikson said when shown the advertisement which brought her disbarment. "I did not make the statement credited to me and never have seen the model car to which the advertisement refers.

Praised Her Own Car.

"Last fall I bought a car from this firm—not the model described in the ad—and at the time praised it when asked what I thought of it, just as any other buyer might. If I hadn't liked the car I wouldn't have bought it. But in so doing I didn't do any more than any one else might and I positively did not give any one authority to use my name or picture in advertising.

"I don't want to turn professional until next summer, if then. I am all set on winning the 1933 National A. A. U. women's basketball championship. Our Golden Cyclones have a great team and I want to continue to play with them, especially since being elected captain."

Col. M. J. Jacobs, director of athletics for the Employers' Casualty company, by which Miss Didrikson is employed, said he would launch an effort to have Babe reinstated and, acting as agent for her, if she so desires, will institute suit to recover damages from the firm whose advertisement brought an order of disbarment by the A. A. U.

DEMPSEY SEEKS SCHMELING-BAER BOUT FOR FAIR

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Ancil Hoffman, business manager of Max Baer, heavyweight boxer, announced tonight he had received a telegram from Jack Dempsey in which the former world champion proposed to promote a bout between Baer and Max Schmeling of Germany to be staged at the Chicago World's Fair next June.

Dempsey said Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling, had agreed to the fight and he only needed the approval of Hoffman to go through with plans, the letter said.

Hoffman said he wired Dempsey "to count on Baer's services." Dempsey plans a conference with Jacobs Friday in New York.

Macks Receive Waivers on John Heving, Catcher

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, announced today he has received waivers on Catcher John Heving. Heving, not a 10 year man, will be released to a Minor league club. Heving, 31 years old, came to the A's in 1931 from the Boston Red Sox for the waiver price.

EVER BET $2 ON DESERVE? SHE'S 1932 IRON HORSE

Little Black Filly Starts 54 Times, Wins 6.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Whoa there, Deserve!

Nobody ever expected the little black filly which answers to the name of Deserve to turn out to be the "Iron horse" of American racing.

That's what happened, and with 54 starts to her credit the midget daughter of Dodge-Desire, the latter a daughter of Marathon, has lined up at the post more times this year than any other horse on this side of the Atlantic and perhaps the Pacific. She probably has taken part in more races than any other horse in the world, for it isn't the custom of foreign owners to race their steeds as often as do the American turfmen.

She Is In Money 19 Times.

Harry Nerger, the most energetic turf statistician in the country, came up with the figures yesterday to prove that Deserve is the real iron horse of this year's racing. He traced her campaign from one track to another, tracks that are widely separated.

He showed where she walked up to the barrier and looked the starter in the eye as frequently as once a week since the first day of last January. And she wasn't so inconsistent at that, having been in the money 19 times with six victories to her credit. She runs to be claimed for $1,000, so she isn't worth any more than that amount.

Breeders Turn Thumbs Down.

Deserve, only 3 years old, had a chance to be a member of the Everglades stable which is maintained by Fred Burton of Chicago and John Ward of Kentucky. She is a daughter of their stallion Dodge, a great race horse in his day, and was bred on the A. L. Dodge farm near Lexington, where all the horses which later race in the Evergreen stable silks first see the light of day.

She was hardly a year old when the Messrs. Ward and Burton looked her over at the Dodge farm and decided that she was too small ever to amount to much. They didn't want her in their stable and whatever disposition was made of her would be all right with them.

She eventually found her way into the barn of Mrs. L. A. Daly of Kentucky and raced for Mrs. Daly while she was seeing so much action this year.

Busy as 2 Year Old, Too.

It was her second busy season, for she started in thirty-five races as a two year old last year, being in the money on nine occasions and winning four races. Only a few horses have ever taken part in 89 races before they became 4 years old. A small percentage start that many times throughout their racing career.

Our most famous iron horses of the last twenty years were Exterminator and Display. The former started in 100 races and campaigned for a half dozen seasons. Display started 103 times and was 7 years old before he retired. Sun Beau, the highest money winning horse of all time, started in but 74 races, and was 6 years old when he was retired.

Estin Ranks Second.

Estin, another selling plater of the cheapest variety, has been the second busiest horse of the season. He has taken part in fifty-two races. Jeu de Bar, another cheap rascal which once belonged to B. S. Michel, the trainer of the champion Reigh Count, paraded to the post fifty-one times this year.

The busiest Chicago owned horse of the season was Flying, which raced in the jacket of Albert Sabath. She raced throughout last winter, spring, and fall, and filled thirty-eight engagements.

7,000 Lured by Free Racing at New Orleans

TODAY'S SELECTIONS

JEFFERSON PARK.

2—Vonnie, Wichita, Grand Baby.
3—Madge De, Marie Jean, Nuhat.
4—Smear, Newgro, Indicative.
5—GRAND PRINCE, Protractor, Skirl.
6—Colossal, Blue Law, Charum Scarum.
7—Make Believe, Lillybet, Riff Raff.
8—Starch, The Bard, Super Toy.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Free admission today brought out 7,000, the largest crowd of the Jefferson Park meeting. The occasion was the sixteenth anniversary of the track.

Mrs. A. T. Langmuir's Winifred Ann, with L. Cantrell up, won the feature race by three lengths from Mixup. Mince Pie was third, Winifred Ann improved her position all the way, taking the lead turning for the stretch. She paid $5.80. The time for the mile and seventy yards was 1:45 1-5.

Clifton's Queen Wins.

The Clifton farm stable's Clifton Queen came from behind to win the third race for 2 year olds by a length from Thistle Tom, which beat Bright Chestnut a head for place. When Jockey Lewis got his mount free from the early tangle he soon took command. The winner paid $5.20 and the time was 1:14 3-5 for 6 furlongs.

The renewal of the rivalry between Hank Mills and Johnny Gilbert for leading jockey honors was an added attraction. Gilbert rode Panchio, the winner in the first race, and tied Mills' record of 182 winning mounts for 1932.

Mills' Horse Fourth.

Panchio won by a length and a half and paid $8. Morheart was second and Dollar Princess third. Mills' mount, Abe Furst, an outsider, was fourth. Panchio, owned by Mrs. E. Denemark, was carried to the extreme outside entering the stretch. The time was 1:13 1-5 on a fast track.

PIMLICO CUTS $15,000 OFF RICH FUTURITY PRIZE

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 5.—(AP)—The Pimlico futurity, one of the centers of interest in the Maryland racing season, will be run in 1935 for $25,000 added instead of the usual $40,000 added.

This decision was reached today by the board of directors and officers of the Maryland Jockey club at its annual meeting here. The reduction was agreed upon as a part of a program designed to curtail operating expenses at the Pimlico track in future years. The futurities for 1933 and 1934 already are closed, each having $40,000 added.

Matt L. Daiger, secretary and general manager, said that the 1932 season was run at a loss.

MAJOR LEAGUERS TO TAKE BIG CUT IN SALARY—FUCHS

Boston, Mass., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Salaries in the major leagues will be reduced materially for the 1933 season, President Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves predicted today. Fuchs is chairman of a committee which is preparing recommendations for the curtailing of overhead, which will be presented to owners at the annual meeting in New York next week.

"I cannot announce any of our recommendations," Fuchs said, "as it is a matter of unsettled business just now. Salaries, certainly, are to be cut.

"Business men are none too happy about the outlook for big league baseball this coming season. The 1933 season may be a tough year for the game. We expect that 1934 will see normal conditions restored. What we want to do is to trim the ship so that we can sail through the 1933 campaign without disaster."

DISCHARGE UBL, GOPHER STAR, FROM HOSPITAL

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Myron Ubl, University of Minnesota football player who spent the season as a patient instead of a contestant, was discharged from University hospital today. He had been there since Sept. 23.

Ubl was taken to the home here of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Ubl. He will not be able to resume his classes at the university until the spring term.

Chicago District Golf Association to Meet Tonight

The annual meeting of the Chicago District Golf association will be held tonight at the Chicago Athletic association at 6:30 o'clock. The regular ticket presented by the nominating committee consisting of the late Robert M. Cutting, Norman C. Naylor, and George L. Turnbull, is as follows:

The executive committee nominees follow:

District West—W. W. Hodgson, Oak Park; Douglas Casey, Riverside; W. G. Leininger, Westward-Ho, and Dr. Roscoe Upp, Glen Oak.

The nominating committee for 1934 selected by the executive committee, is composed of John McKinlay Jr., chairman, George W. Blossom Jr., and Norman C. Naylor.

Minors Fail to Take Action on Salary Cut

Columbus, O., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—The fireworks which were to be touched off in the opening of the annual meeting of minor league magnates today failed to materialize. The salaries of players in the International league, which were expected to receive a severe cut remained a question as officials adjourned without taking any definite action.

The proposed salary limit of $6,500, already adopted by the American association, will lower the class of baseball in the league, several owners argued. Several weeks ago it was announced that the league favored a limit of $44,500 a year with 18 players on each roster. The figure is $2,000 higher than the executive committee's recommendation.

Discuss Salary Problem.

Owners in the International, immediately after their meeting, convened with American association magnates to discuss the salary matter. The Pacific Coast league, the other Class AA circuit, refused to attend the meeting, announcing that it was not interested in fixing a salary or player limit.

A new low was reached when Joe Dunn, manager of the Hazleton club of the New York-Penn league, signed two Ohio semi-pro players, James Orndorf, Piqua, a left handed pitcher, and Harlan Bull, Springfield, a catcher. They will report next spring.

The International league magnates also adjourned without taking action on the financial condition of the Jersey City club. However, it was announced that the matter will be taken up at a meeting later this week.

Officials of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues hope that the International and American Association come to an agreement on the salary limit. The proposal of the limit will come up to a vote of the association later in the week.

Knapp Heads International.

Whether the two Class AA leagues would compromise or stand pat on their original proposals could not be determined as the International and American Association magnates gathered for their meeting late today.

Charles H. Knapp, Baltimore, Md., again will head the International league next season. He was reelected for another year at the meeting. Warren Giles, Rochester, was named vice president and William J. Manley was reelected secretary-treasurer for a three year term.

SIX POINTS TEAMS PLAY.

The Six Points club basketball team will play two games tomorrow night at the West Side clubhouse, 4711 Madison street, the men's team meeting the Englewood Reds while the girls play the Wheaton girls.

Goose Hunting in Blind Calls for Fast Work

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miller City, Ill., Dec. 5.—Down here in the green wheatfields where the wild geese keep sportsmen busy with 12 gauge guns you literally have to "blow off the lid" of your blind before you do any shooting. Sportsmen who either are new to the whole game of goose hunting or are acquainted only with sand bar pits or blinds, are bound to get a kick out of this lid tossing stunt. This is what happens.

You hunt from a box like underground blind the back of which is roofed over so that it is rainproof. In the front the blind is open so you can stand up and use a gun. It is just deep enough so that you can get your elbows above the side of the blind. Instead of leaving the open space of the blind uncovered, the boys down here use a screen. Fastened across this screen in a window frame are strips of green artificial grass in imitation of the rows of wheat in the shooting field.

It Takes Off the Pressure.

You toss this lid high, wide and handsome at just the right minute when a flock of geese comes in. While one hand does the throwing or pushing the other hand comes up with the shotgun. Fast work is required. We found that this lid throwing trick gives us a chance to work off some of the excitement which always is present when we watch one or more big honkers circling the field. There is nothing more thrilling than those few tense seconds when you are whispering with your hunting partner to decide just when the two of you will throw the lid and fire.

Yesterday about 10 o'clock when a single came in after a quiet hour of waiting a microphone would have picked up this excited dialogue in the blind which we occupied with Dr. Edward Miller of Cairo:

"Get down, get down, there's a single coming up the field. See him? He's low. He's working right into this field." Slap goes the screen over our heads. We take off the red handkerchief that has been wrapped around the breech of our gun to keep out the dust.

The Doctor Is Delighted.

"He's coming, he's coming! I tell you he is going to come right into that pen of live decoys without even circling! Ho, ho, ho . . . look, look! It's going to be our shot." Doc delivers a lusty poke in our ribs to register delight.

"You say when and we'll knock this screen way over to one side. Let's get ready. O, look at him, look at him! See him turn his head to look at the birds in the pen.

"I am going to take him now, Doc. NOW! Give her the works!" And off goes the screen as two hunters pop up out of the blind. This single was an easy 45 yard shot on the right. The honker, after making a feint at dropping into the decoys, kept going. As soon as the gun roared heads appeared in three other pits near us—all occupied by tense hunters who had been watching the show through the screens which cover the wheatfield blinds.

DE PAUL TEAM TO MEET ELMHURST IN CAGE OPENER

De Paul university's basketball team will open its season with a practice game Thursday night, meeting Elmhurst college at the De Paul gym.

The Blue Demons will begin their regular schedule Dec. 12 when they open a two-game series with the University of Ontario, champions of Canada, at the De Paul gym.

With a squad so well balanced that he has been unable to settle on a first string lineup, Coach Jim Kelly scheduled the Elmhurst battle to put the Blue Demons to a test.

Pete Barskis and El Weston are alternating at the center jobs. The forwards appear to be a tossup between four candidates—Jim Goraky, Phil Krause, Bob Sand, and Martie Linsky.

At the guards Capt. Tony Lauritis heads a prospective list of five. The other four are Jim Doody, Bill Shay, Harry Redfield, and Whitey Patzold.

Jablonsky, New Army Captain, Is Academic Star

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Captain elect Harvey Jablonsky, right guard on Army's football team and running mate to the 1932 captain, Milton Summerfeldt, is one of the two men of the cadets' regular starting lineup of this season who earned varsity letters before entering West Point. He played for three seasons and won three letters at Washington university, St. Louis.

In a military way, he joins recent Army football stars who have stood high in the academy. Of 146 cadet corporals, he is number 6 on the list. He also stands close to the head of his class academically. His mates call him "Jabbo," he is 23 years old, stands 5 feet 11 inches, and his official weight is listed at 178 pounds. His home is in Clayton, Mo., a St. Louis suburb, and he is a member of the Army track squad, in the javelin, shot put, and discus events. He is a first class gunner in field artillery and a rifle sharp shooter.

Ohio State to Meet Toledo Five Tonight

Columbia, O., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Ohio State university's basketball team opens its 1932-'33 season with the University of Toledo at Toledo tomorrow, marking the first time in a score of years that the Buckeyes have started the basket schedule away from home.

The Buckeyes have another game during the week when they meet Ohio Wesleyan for the first home game Saturday night.

Ohio's starting lineup for the game still is in doubt, with at least two men available for each position. Capt. Lew Hinchman of the football team probably will start at one forward while the basketball captain, Howard Mattison, will occupy the back guard position. The other forward position is being sought by Wilson, a tall product of Cleveland; Bobby Colbirn and Brown, both members of last year's team.

Conrad, a football tackle, likely will start at center, while Fischer and Rosequist, both football men, will see action at the other guard berth.

Intraclub League to Start Basket Play on Thursday

Formation of a new basket ball league on the west side was announced yesterday by Bob Niesen, president of the Intraclub league, which will begin play Thursday night at the Community Recreation center.

CARNERA GOES ON PILING UP WORK IN MANY RINGS

Indicates He Isn't Worried by Levinsky Friday.

Primo Carnera apparently is not worried about the outcome of his 10 round bout with King Levinsky at the Chicago Stadium Friday night, for he has been booked to appear in 15 cities within the next three months.

His manager, Walter [Good Time Charley] Friedman, has arranged the matches as follows: Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 13; La Salle, Ill., Dec. 14; Omaha, Dec. 16; Wichita, Kas., Dec. 19; Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 20; Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 22; Mexico City, Mexico, Dec. 27; Los Angeles, Jan. 3; San Diego, Sacramento, Oakland, and San Francisco, Cal.; Portland and Seattle, Wash.; Vancouver, B. C., and Chicago.

Promises a Knockout.

A disputed decision was awarded Carnera when he met Levinsky at the Stadium a year ago, but Primo assures his public that there will be a knockout Friday. Levinsky, who has faced the world's hardest punchers, has been dropped to the canvas only once since he became a topnotcher.

Fans marvel at Levinsky's stamina and ability to absorb punishment. He never has been knocked out and he never has been cut up. The only time King looked the part of a loser was when Tommy Loughran beat him at the Stadium two years ago. Loughran's left hand was in Levinsky's face continually and as a result his nose swelled to twice its natural size. King evened the score by defeating Loughran at New York later, flooring him several times.

Vote on Last Meeting.

	Carnera.	Levinsky.
Referee Ed Purdy	54	46
Judge B. H. Gowdy	54	46
Judge W. Batiye	56	44

Jackie Parker, Terre Haute middleweight, will meet Johnny Roth of St. Paul in the five round main event of the boxing show tonight at Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue. Danny Neenan will box Paddy Waltier in the four round semi-windup. The other four round bouts will bring together Jack Delaney and Victor Anderson, Servana Fabia and Bud Dempsey, Johnny Fitzpatrick and Tony Biseto, and Art Waters and Jack O'Brien. George Kogut will face John Holda in a 15 minute wrestling match.

Bob Groshek, Gary, Ind., middleweight, and Joe Mendoza of the south side will meet in the six round windup of the charity card at the Community Recreation center, 4711 Madison street tonight. A wrestling exhibition between Tony Hadjeck and Charles Kaller is carded. Five other fights at four rounds each are as follows: Sammy Morales vs. Jim Richards, Freddy Miller vs. Leo Ranieri, Carl Scalese vs. Al De Rose, Jack Ripp vs. Mickey O'Shea, and Jerry Kucera vs. Jimmy Hagner.

A novice amateur boxing tournament will be offered at the Belle Plaine Athletic club, 3943 Lincoln avenue, Thursday. It is a one night tourney and 15 matches are scheduled. The Central A. A. U. has sanctioned the tournament.

Illness will prevent Leo Rodak from appearing in the benefit show sponsored by the Dorothy Kahn club at the Rainbo Fronton tomorrow night. Referees will be Tommy Thomas, Phil Collins, Tommy Gilmore, and Johnny Behr, and the judges will be Ed Klein, Rube Metz, Livingston Osborne, R. H. Battye, and Charlie White. Joe Lipp will be the timekeeper and Al Smith will do the announcing. Marty Cutler and Jack Dribbs will appear in boxing and wrestling burlesque.

The first professional show, headed by Willie Oster and Freddy Langford, at 116 West Madison street, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until next Tuesday. . . . The National Boxing association has started a poll to determine whether to vacate Jackie Fields' welterweight championship and Georgie Nichols' light heavyweight title. The eight month time limit allowed champions has expired in the case of both Fields and Nichols. . . . The N. B. A. has started a vote on whether to sanction a match between Gorilla Jones, former middleweight champion, and Sammy [Kid] Slaughter at Indianapolis in January as for the championship of the United States.

The National Boxing association released the ratings yesterday of boxers in Illinois. The first three in each division, except the flyweight, are:

Murray Elected Captain of Navy Eleven for 1933

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Members of the naval academy football squad have elected Hugh Q. Murray of Newman, Ga., captain of the team for 1933. He is a member of the class which graduates in June, 1934, and has been a varsity player for two seasons.

In addition to football, Murray plays basketball and lacrosse, and has won minor insignia in each.

KERR PICKS THREE MORE MEMBERS OF EAST ELEVEN

Hamilton, N. Y., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Andy Kerr, head football coach of Colgate, today announced that he has invited Jose Martinez-Zorrilla, end of Cornell; Joe Gilbane, center, and Frank Meadows, end, both of Brown, to become members of the East team that competes in the annual East-West classic Dec. 26 on the Pacific coast.

Previously, Kerr announced the selection of Bob Smith, Colgate captain; Bart Viviano, Cornell captain and Zapustas, Fordham end. He will pick five more within the next two days, making 11 in all. Dick Hanley, coach at Northwestern, with whom Kerr is associated in rounding up a squad of 22, will pick the other eleven.

Marcel Thil Outpoints Ignacio Ara in 10 Rounds

HOWLEY DELAYS ACTION ON OFFER FROM TORONTO

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Dan Howley, former manager of the Cincinnati National league baseball club, who has been offered the managership of the Toronto club of the International league, is undecided about taking the position.

Howley, who left today for the minor league meeting in Columbus, O., said he would wait until Toronto's financial difficulties have been cleared before making an announcement. It was reported that salary terms have kept Howley from signing.

HAWKS TO MEET VETERAN OTTAWA SEXTET TONIGHT

Surprising Senators to Invade Stadium.

None the worse after winning the most strenuous hockey game Chicago fans have witnessed in a long time, the Blackhawks indulged in a light preliminary practice yesterday at the Stadium preparatory to their clash tonight with the Ottawa Senators, who are back in the league after an absence of one year.

The Senators, who were not given much of a chance by critics to get anywhere this season, have shown surprising strength. Hockey experts figured the newly formed team would proceed along the line which made Ottawa hockey teams famous in the past—a defensive game. Cy Dennenay, new manager, for ten years an Ottawa favorite and the game's greatest scorer for that period, upset tradition by making his team play an open game.

Come from Behind to Win.

Twice, recently, the Senators came from behind to win games. One of the encounters was with the Blackhawks, which they defeated 3 to 1 after Right Wing Couture had scored the first goal of the game.

The makeup of the team shows many experienced veterans, most of them seasoned in major league company. Manager Dennenay recalled the famous goalie Ice Man Connell from the Detroit Red Wings, where he had been loaned for a season. Connell guards the nets as well as the best of them. It was during the season of 1927-'28 that Connell, by his nonchalant manner of tending goal, acquired his chilly nickname. In that season of 44 games Connell shut out his opponents in 15 games, seven of the shutouts coming consecutively. In 13 games during the same season the opposition scored only one point a game. In front of Connell the Ottawa team has four players who have seen years of defense duty. They are Allan Shields, Alex Smith, Harold Starr, and Leo Bourgeault.

Wieland Holds League Record.

The Senators' forward line, consisting of Hec Kilrea, left wing; Cooney Wieland, center, and Frank Finnigan, right wing, is one of the speediest in the game. Cooney Wieland, a former member of the Boston Dynamite Trio, the record holding scoring line of all time, is himself the holder of the major league point record. In the season of 1929-'30 Wieland scored 43 goals and made 30 assists for a point total of 73, eclipsing the former record held by Howie Morenz by nearly 20 points. Wieland came to Ottawa in an even trade for Joe Lamb. His line mate, Kilrea, is scond only to the league's leading scorer, Harvey Jackson, Toronto star, as a left winger. Kilrea played with Detroit last season along with Connell, Alex Smith, and Danny Cox. The right wing player of this trio is Frank Finnigan, who was a big help to the Toronto Maple Leafs in their Stanley cup drive last season.

Third Line Is Strong.

For his third line of forwards Dennenay has two recruits who made reputations in minor league company last season. Syd Howe, at center, comes from the Syracuse team of the International league. The right wing is Gus Forslund, who last season performed against the Chicago Shamrocks as a member of the Duluth Hornets. These two youngsters have th steadying influence of the hard shooting left wi ger Bert McInenly, another Ottawa favorite.

Art Coulter, out of the Hawks lineup Sunday because of a severe cold, appeared at practice yesterday and will participate in tonight's game. Johnny Gottselig, who is laid up at the Garfield Park hospital with an injured left knee, will be the only absentee. Tonight's lineup:

BLACKHAWKS.		OTTAWA SENATORS.
Gardiner	G	Connell
Abel	D	Smith
Graham	D	Shields
Cook	C	Wieland
Jenkins	R. W.	Finnigan
McFadyen	L. W.	Kilrea

WRESTLERS FROM SIX NATIONS ON NEXT KRONE CARD

Six nations will be represented on Promoter Doc Krone's wrestling card next Monday night at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

In the main event Jim Clinkstock, Indian from Oklahoma, will meet Joe Savoldi, Italian and former Notre Dame football player.

Sun Jennings, another Indian wrestler, meets Dorna Ostapavitch, 235 pound Lithuanian from Kansas City. Paul Jones, whose real name is Lutzo, will be the German representative, clashing with Jack Smith, one of two Americans on the card. The other is Jack Shearin, who faces Stan Lurik, the Chicago Pole.

OPEN PRACTICE FOR NORTH-SOUTH FOOTBALL GAME

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 5.—(AP)—The first practice drill for the North squad in preparation for the North-South football game to be played here next Saturday was called for today by Jock Sutherland, coach, who arrived in Baltimore late yesterday.

With Sutherland was Bill Kern, his assistant. Four of the players also reached Baltimore yesterday. They were Wilbur, tackle, and Crowley, half back, both of Yale, who are to perform with the Northerners, and Edmunson center, and Blondin, guard, both of West Virginia Wesleyan, picked by Dick Harlow for his South team.

On the platform are Pfefferle, Pierce, Wunsch, Vejar, Melinkovich, Banas, Jaskwhich, Flynn, Koken, Davis, Letting, Vairo, Roach, and Leonard. Twenty-six men made the trip. The first stop will be Tucson, Ariz., where workouts will be held tomorrow and Thursday. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Stagg Tells Ad Men He's Not Through Yet

Alonzo A. Stagg, coach of the University of Chicago football team, told members of the Advertising Men's Post of the American Legion yesterday that he had too much vitality to retire from coaching and that he would go somewhere else.

"I thought I might be allowed to coach one more year," Stagg said. "The prospects are better than at any time during my coaching. However, the request has been denied. It's alright; we have got to be courageous. I'll go somewhere else. I have too much vitality, too much energy, and I'll look at it as a new adve ture, as I did when President Harper asked me to come to Chicago many years ago," Stagg said.

"I haven't had the best material for the last several years, although I hope to live to the time when I'll get the right factors to produce," Stagg said.

Others who spoke reminiscently and paid tribute to Stagg were Judge Walter Steffen of the Superior court, who played football under Stagg and coached at Carnegie Tech; John Schommer, athletic director of Armour Institute of Technology; and Col. Horatio B. Hackett, official of the Western conference.

GREENLEAF WINS FIRST MATCH IN CUE TOURNAMENT

New York, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, opening the defense of the title he has won ten times since 1919, tonight defeated James Mills of San Jose, Cal., 125 to 32, in twelve innings in the first game of the national pocket billiard championship tournament at the Capitol Billiard academy.

Mills, playing in his first national championship, was no match for the veteran cue artist once Greenleaf hit his stride in the fourth inning with a high run of 30. After scoring his high run of sixteen in the second inning with a brilliant array of shots, and then, counting six in the next frame, Mills faltered. For six consecutive innings the west coast player was forced to play safe or went scoreless because of Greenleaf's marvelous defensive playing.

Play will continue in the tournament for seventeen days with Frank Taberski of Schenectady, N. Y., former champion, meeting Pasquale Natalie of Chicago in the opening game tomorrow. An all-Kansas City match will bring together Walter Franklin and the veteran, Bennie Allen, in the second match of the afternoon, while George Kelly of Philadelphia, runner-up last year, will play 23 year old James Caras of Wilmington, Del., in the night contest.

A. A. U., 40 AND 8 PLAN NATIONAL BOXING TOURNEY

Plans for a national amateur boxing tournament next year were discussed at a joint meeting of the National A. A. U. and the 40 and 8 society of the American Legion in the offices of Avery Brundage, A. A. U. president, yesterday. The tournament will be climaxed with championship bouts in Chicago Oct. 2 to 5.

Paul Prehn, former president of the National Boxing association and former member of the Illinois state athletic commission, was elected national chairman of the 40 and 8. Those present at the meeting included J. Lyman Bingham, assistant to Brundage; Capt. Roy Davis, chairman of the registration committee of the A. A. U., and George Sugarman, Chicago, grand chef de gare.

Crowd, Gate to Set Record in Trojan Game

Southern California's Pacific Coast conference champions Saturday.

The two Pullmans carrying the Notre Dame players took on the appearance of a hospital. Five men were ordered to their berths by Dr. Bernard Kamm, South Bend physician, who is traveling with the team immediately after boarding the train in Chicago today.

Five on Sick List.

Those on the sick list are Kurth, Devore, Banas, Melinkovich and Robinson. All are the victims of the influenza epidemic which swept the football squad after the Army game. In all probability Melinkovich and Robinson will be unable to play Saturday, according to Dr. Kamm. The other three men will not be able to work out at Tucson, Ariz., where the team will practice on Wednesday and Thursday, it is believed.

Coach Hunk Anderson has been spending a large portion of his time on the trip schooling Red Tobin, the converted right half back, to start at full back against Southern California.

The injury jinx also has taken hold of the team. Kurth and Devore also are suffering from injuries received in the Army game.

The team will arrive in Tucson early Wednesday morning.

BIG SIX STARTS WORK OF CUTTING SPORTS BUDGETS

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Big Six conference athletic directors, at their annual meeting today, began working on reduction of minor sports schedules and other measures designed to balance budgets, although some reported encouraging figures on attendance and gate receipts in the football season just closed.

The revisions which are expected to be similar to those of last year in the winter and spring schedules will be submitted tomorrow to the conference faculty council which will meet separately and later jointly with the directors. One economy measure decrees that only one official shall work at basketball games.

The directors were faced with the acute problem of making the football receipts carry the financial burden as they did in the big boom days of the last decade. The University of Missouri reported a 20 per cent increase in football attendance. Oklahoma had a little increase in attendance, with lower prices. Nebraska's champions played before a slightly larger aggregate crowd, but the receipts fell off a little. Kansas played to an average of 9,693 persons a game compared with an average of 9,300 last season.

Iowa State, Athletic Director T. N. Metcalf said, took in at five home games this year approximately one-third as much as it did for four games last year—a loss of 66 2-3 per cent. He attributed the decline to frigid weather at two games, the fact that the cyclone fans were taking advantage of a three day open season on pheasants when one football game was played at Ames, and radio broadcasts. Director M. F. Ahearn of Kansas State, said receipts for the season declined 26 per cent under last year.

EDGEWATER GOLF CLUB SHOWS A $1,278 PROFIT

Edgewater Golf club operated at a profit of $1,278 for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, according to an auditor's report made public yesterday. This showing compares with a deficiency of $6,240 in the prior fiscal period.

Robert P. Boylan has been installed as president and director for the third time, this being the only time in the history of the club, with a single exception, any president has been elected for three successive terms. Edgewater's original president, William J. MacDonald, now a resident of Pasadena, Cal., held office during the 1911-1913 period.

With Mr. Boylan will be George P. Rinn, vice president and director for one year, and Otto T. Dover, reappointed secretary and treasurer for a third term. Walter F. Klein and John McLaughlin have been reelected directors for two years; Robert P. Minton and L. E. Sauter are new directors elected for a similar period.

A complete watering system for the course will be installed early in the spring and will be ready well in advance of the official opening of the golfing season next May.

Warner Quits Stanford to Coach Temple

expire at Seattle until next June, but said that he was "a coach who would welcome an offer from somewhere else."

Warner's decision to go to Temple brings the 61 year old coach back to the east where he won his greatest fame. It was at Carlisle Indian school in Pennsylvania that Warner first became known as one of the greatest strategists the game has produced.

He took over the athletic direction of the Indian boys five years after he graduated in 1894 from Cornell with a degree in law. At Cornell he had played guard and captained the football team in his senior year.

The old mass style of play failed to appeal to Warner. His eagerness to experiment was encouraged by the fact that his material among the Indians was green, light, and speedy. Pop then developed the basis of the Warner system.

Develops Thorpe, Bender.

Cornell called him back to serve three years as head coach from 1904 to 1906 before he had fully developed hi tricky offensive system. He returned to Carlisle in 1907 to bring the little government school to the height of its football fame, remaining there until he went to Pittsburgh as head coach in 1915.

In 37 years of coaching, Warner has built up a distinctive style of play, featured by single and double wing back formations, behind an unbalanced line.

12,500 Students at Temple.

Temple university, a young institution compared with the great seats of learning in the United States, has made rapid strides in the football world. The institution was founded by the late Russell H. Conwell in 1884 and chartered as a university in 1907. today it has 12,500 students in its day and evening classes, and 800 persons on its teaching staff.

Only interclass football was played until 1925, in which year the school ventured into intercollegiate competition. Heinie Miller was engaged as coach and later he gathered about him a staff of assistants including Bert Bell, former Pennsylvania backfield coach, and John Da Grossa, formerly of Georgetown university, as line coach.

Wins 50, Loses 15.

In the eight seasons of Miller's régime, Temple has won 50 games, lost 15 and tied eight times. The team has traveled as far west as Denver university and among its victims have been Brown and Drake.

This year Temple defeated Thiel, West Virginia, Bucknell, Denver, and Penn State. It tied with Carnegie Tech and Haskell Indians and lost only one game—to Villa Nova, 7 to 0.

The schedule for next year has not been announced officially. Three teams to be played are Carnegie Tech, West Virginia and Bucknell. It is expected that the schedule will not be completed until the athletic authorities confer with Warner.

Hanley Denies Receiving Offer from Stanford

When informed of rumors connecting his name with the football coaching position at Stanford, Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern last night said he had received no overtures whatever from the Stanford athletic authorities.

Coach Hanley stated that he was well satisfied at Northwestern, where he has just completed six years of coaching, and that he would not consider a coaching offer from any school until he was convinced that it would be an advancement for him.

"The only information I have on the Stanford job is what I have read in the papers," Coach Hanley said. "I have had no direct word from anybody on the coast in regards to the position."

SUTHERLAND SILENT.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Questioned tonight regarding a report mentioning him as the possible successor to Pop Warner, who today resigned as coach at Stanford university, Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh coach, declined to give a positive answer. Sutherland, who is in Baltimore coaching the north team for the north-south game here Saturday, asserted he had not been in communication with Stanford.

He said Warner had visited him a little more than week ago and at that time did not indicate the change.

PLAYERS GUESS THORNHILL.

Palo Alto, Cal., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Members of this year's Stanford football team said today they believed Claude E. [Tiny] Thornhill, line coach, probably would be named to succeed Pop Warner next year.

Team members pointed out that Thornhill had been with Warner several years, was thoroughly versed in his system of play, and no alumni faction thus far had favored or opposed him. This makes him a good compromise candidate.

NO OFFER, SAYS KERR.

Hamilton, N. Y., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Stanford university has made no effort to interest Andy Kerr, Colgate coach, in a coaching position as a result of the resignation of Glenn S. [Pop] Warner, Kerr said today.

LINDBLOM WINS FROM CRANE'S LIGHTS, 23 TO 17

Bowen Takes 2 Games at Tilden.

A last half attack enabled Lindblom's lightweight basketball team to defeat Crane Tech, 23 to 17, at Crane gymnasium yesterday in a Chicago Public High school league practice game. Crane was ahead at the half, 14 to 10.

Bowen's quintets won their opening games of the season at Tilden. The heavies, with Dolac scoring five goals and one free throw, won, 23 to 12, while the light triumphed, 17 to 7. Lundgren, Kautz, and Szymanski scored Tilden lights' only points.

Duros and Polly were the stars as Lane Tech's heavyweights triumphed over Tuley, 25 to 14, on the Tuley court. Duros sank three baskets and three free throws, while Polly scored 12 points. Lineups:

Packers Hold 12-9 Edge in Bears Series

The Green Bay Packers form the next hurdle in the path of the Bears toward the National league football championship. The Packers, bitter foes of the Bears since 1921, will invade Wrigley field Sunday afternoon. If the Bears win they will gain a tie with Portsmouth for first place. The Packers will be fighting to stay in second place.

Here are the possibilities Sunday. If the Bears win they tie Portsmouth for the championship and the playoff will be held at Wrigley field Dec. 18. If the Packers win, thte Bears not only go out of the picture but down into third place, the Packers finishing in second place and the Spartans automatically annexing the championship.

Packers Hold Edge.

Sunday's game will be the 25th meeting in the series. The Packers have won 12, the Bears 9, and 4 were ties.

In the last five games the scores indicate the tenseness of the rivalry. The Packers collected 22 points to 8 for the Bears. In two games this year Green Bay scored just two points on a safety after a blocked punt. Their first meeting ended in a scoreless tie.

Expect Record Crowd.

The largest crowd of the season is expected to view the game. There have been requests for reservations from all parts of Wisconsin and several from Portsmouth.

BATTALINO SAYS RETIREMENT IS ALL A MISTAKE

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Christopher [Bat] Battalino, former featherweight champion, who announced his retirement from the ring a few days ago, said today he has changed his mind about hanging up his gloves for good.

Battalino, told Hy Malley, his manager, that the announcement was all a mistake.

BRITAIN PROBES MYSTERY DEATH OF U. S. STUDENT

Found with Broken Skull During Party.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Police today were investigating the mysterious circumstances surrounding the death of J. O. Kent Sanders of West Roxbury, Mass., a student in the London School of Economics. Sanders died yesterday in University College hospital of skull and nasal injuries suffered last Thursday evening.

It was learned the American had attended a dinner of the Students' association Thursday which was also attended by Sir Josiah Stamp and Sir William Beveridge.

After the dinner Sanders went to a private party in Bloomsbury, where he remained until just before midnight. At about that hour his friends missed him and started a search. They found him lying in the street just outside the house. The base of his skull was injured, his nose was broken and an ankle fractured.

Believe He Fell from Balcony.

The police learned that Sanders' companions believed he had fallen from the second floor balcony. They said Sanders was in cheerful spirits. One of them added, "I can only assume that during the party he went outside for a breath of fresh air and fell over."

Sanders was a graduate of Harvard university. He came to London some months ago to study for a doctorate of philosophy. His wife and child were expected from the United States in a day or two, according to the Daily Mail, to spend the Christmas holidays.

Sir William Beveridge, who is director of the London School of Economics, said: "At the inquest I think it will be found from the facts that this was nothing but a sad and deplorable accident.

A Harvard Honor Student.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 5.—(AP)—J. O. Kent Sanders, reported to have died in London yesterday from injuries received under mysterious circumstances, was the son of Mrs. Laura E. Sanders of Boston.

References in a London newspaper to the expected arrival of Sanders' wife and child for the Christmas holidays could not be explained by relatives, who said that, so far as they knew, he was unmarried.

Sanders was born at Reading, Pa., in 1907. He won notable scholastic honors at Harvard. He sailed for England in September, intending to attain a degree at the London School of Economics.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: A One Man Army

MRS. JANE FOREMAN, ACTRESS, SEEKS SHARE OF 3 MILLION ESTATE

New York, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Trial of the suit of Mrs. Florence Jane Foreman, former actress, to break the will of her husband, Winfield A. Foreman, wealthy clothing manufacturer of Chicago and Los Angeles, was begun today before Surrogate John P. O'Brien.

Foreman died last February in his 57th year, leaving an estate estimated between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000. Mrs. Foreman charged that he was mentally unsound and the "victim of fraud and undue influence" when he bequeathed her only a life income from a $50,000 trust fund.

Counsel for Mrs. Foreman said the will was executed less than a week before Sept. 1, 1930, when a law requiring a man to leave his wife at least one-third of his property became effective. In addressing the jury, the attorney said that Foreman had executed two prior wills leaving his wife a much larger share of his estate.

ANOTHER FIGHT TO BE FREE LOST BY STEPHENSON

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—D. C. Stephenson, who as grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana was a virtual political czar, lost another fight to obtain freedom from Indiana state prison when Judge Thomas W. Slick in District United States court here sustained a motion dismissing his plea for a writ of habeas corpus.

Stephenson is serving a life sentence on a charge of murder following the death in 1925 of Miss Madge Oberholtzer, Indianapolis. In his appeal for a writ of habeas corpus he alleged he was being held prisoner in violation of constitutional rights.

He has carried his case to the Indiana Supreme court, which has denied his motion for various writs designed to effect his release or to obtain a new trial, and has rejected his direct appeal for a new trial. It still has under consideration his appeal for a writ of error.

Stephenson may seek to have today's action reviewed by the United States Supreme court. He also has before the state Supreme court a petition for rehearing of its affirmation June 17 of the trial court's conviction.

Mrs. Emma Rice, 63 years old, of the Del Prado hotel, died yesterday in the Michael Reese hospital of an overdose of a sleeping potion. She was found unconscious Saturday in her room.

J. C. VAN DYKE, ART AUTHORITY PROFESSOR, DIES

New York, Dec. 5.—(AP)—John Charles Van Dyke, 76, professor of the history of art at Rutgers university since 1889, and author of a number of books on the subject he taught, died today after an operation. He had lectured on art at Columbia, Harvard, and Princeton.

Dr. Van Dyke precipitated a worldwide controversy in 1923 by his book, "Rembrandt and His School," in which he declared that less than 50 of the 800 paintings generally attributed to Rembrandt were the work of the Dutch master. Prof. Van Dyke attributed the other paintings to Rembrandt's 70-odd pupils and to lesser paintings.

"The Rembrandt tradition," he wrote, "which is an accumulation of misstatements and misapprehensions, has been universally accepted because no one seems to have had the temerity of soul to attack it."

He asserted that of 23 paintings in the Louvre attributed to Rembrandt only four were genuine, that the National gallery in London had only four true Rembrandts out of 21, and that there was not a single genuine Rembrandt in the Metropolitan Museum of Art here.

COMMISSION IS REVERSED ON 2 RADIO STATIONS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Reversing the federal radio commission which more than a year ago ordered the deletion of stations WIBO and WPCC of Chicago and assignment of their facilities of station WJKS of Gary, Ind., the court of appeals of the District of Columbia today ordered full reinstatement of the Chicago stations with their present facilities.

The court, by majority opinion held the commission had been "arbitrary and capricious" in its decision, since both of the Chicago stations had been rendering meritorious service. The case, while it involved only the three stations, was the first real test of the commission's power to shift assignments of stations practically at will under the provisions of the radio law calling for equitable distribution of station facilities among the states according to their population.

WIDOW ON WAY TO PLAN FUNERAL FOR COL. HERBERT

Arrangements for the funeral of Col. John F. J. Herbert, former prohibition administrator in Chicago, who died on Sunday in Honolulu, awaited the arrival at Honolulu of Mrs. Herbert, according to dispatches yesterday. She is expected to reach there on the steamer Maui today.

Col. Herbert's death was the result of a stroke of apoplexy suffered Nov. 21. It was believed the body would be returned to Worcester, Mass., Col. Herbert's home, for funeral services and burial.

Col. Herbert, a former newspaper man and a veteran of the Mexican border campaign and world war, served as administrator here for twenty months, prior to his assignment at Honolulu last February.

RAILROADS NET FOR OCTOBER IS BEST SINCE 1929

East, South Roads' Earnings Up.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 5.—Eastern and southern railroads increased their net operating incomes in October compared with October, 1931, with the result that, for the first time since 1929, net operating income for all railroads for the month showed practically no annual decline. The increase in net for eastern lines was 7.5 per cent and for the southern roads 32 per cent. A decrease of 15.7 per cent suffered by the western roads caused a decrease for the entire country of six-tenths of one per cent.

The figures, issued today by the bureau of railway economics, reflect a gradual improvement in railroad returns which started in August. The decline in net operating income for all roads reached a maximum of 79.6 per cent in July. This ratio was reduced to 49.7 per cent in August and to 10.4 per cent in September. Net operating income for October was the highest for any month this year.

167 Roads Report.

The compilation is based on returns by 167 class 1 railroads operating 242,178 miles of line.

The improvement in October net operating income, resulted partly from a cut of 23.4 per cent in expenses and from a 10.3 per cent reduction in taxes.

Sixty-one class 1 railroads suffered net operating losses in the first ten months, of which seventeen were in the east, sixteen in the south and twenty-eight in the west.

Railroads in the south earned net operating incomes of $17,144,000 in the first ten months of the year against $37,672,000 in the same period last year, a decline of 27.3 per cent. Their gross decreased 28.4 per cent to $317,993,000 and their expenses were reduced 27.1 per cent to $265,378,000. In October, their net operating income was $5,570,000 against $3,787,000 in October, 1931, an increase of 32 per cent.

Gross Revenue Declines.

In the east, net operating income of the roads was $179,125,000 in the first ten months of the year against $246,378,000 in the same period last year, a decrease of 27.3 per cent. Their gross revenues decreased 25.4 per cent to $1,360,171,000 and their expenses were cut 27.5 per cent to $1,010,629,000. For October, their net operating income was $33,354,000 against $30,853,000 in October, 1931, an increase of 7.5 per cent.

The western roads had net operating incomes of $70,025,000 in the first ten months against $189,488,000 in the same period last year, a decrease of 63 per cent. Their gross decreased 28.4 per cent to $984,126,000 and their expenses fell 24.6 per cent to $775,505,000. Their October net operating income was $24,913,000 against $29,560,000 in October, 1931, a decrease of 15.7 per cent.

RAIL COMMITTEE TO WEIGH FARE SLASHES TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 5.—The committee of eastern railroad officials which is framing a reply to the proposal of the Interstate Commerce commission that the railroads investigate the possibility of reducing passenger rates will hold its first meeting tomorrow. The western and southeastern lines have formed similar committees to study the subject.

Although the committee is some distance from framing a report, there was said yesterday to be a likelihood the report may raise the question as to whether it is possible for the railroads to compete with a transportation industry which has no basic rate of fare and which is not subject to the regulation under which the railroads must operate.

Canada Pays Big Price for Rail Lesson

BY SCRUTATOR.

Canada has had its lesson in government ownership of railroads. A decade ago the Canadians were keen for a government system that would compete with the privately owned Canadian Pacific railroad. So the government took over several roads and formed the Canadian National Railways.

E. W. BEATTY.

Operation of its government railroad has cost the people of Canada about 900 million dollars in the last nine years. Now the dominion government is seeking some way out of the muddle, although it apparently is not yet willing to admit failure of public ownership and operation.

One proposal of the government has been to set up an arbitral tribunal which would exercise authority over both the roads as to administrative and financial policies. Such a tribunal was recommended by the Dominion commission on railways and transportation but is strongly opposed by E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific, who instead has proposed that his company should operate the Canadian National under lease.

Parliament Gets Problem.

These conflicting proposals now are being threshed out in the Canadian parliament. As a result of the commission's findings, Premier Bennett announced last month that the government would submit legislation designed to establish the physical integrity of the Canadian National but with freedom from political interference and community pressure. It was proposed to terminate the era of financial responsibility on the part of the management and end wasteful competition between the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific by coöperative agreements.

The plan for an arbitral tribunal called for one member to be named by each railroad and a third member to be the head of the Dominion board of railway commissioners. The commission's report also expressed the view that the identity of the two railroad systems should be maintained.

In the hearings before parliament, President Beatty asserted that the proposal to have administration and financial policies fixed for the Canadian Pacific by an arbitral board was "startling," as such a plan would divest the road of control of its property in favor of an outside authority that would not be responsible to the railroad's stockholders.

Beatty Blames Politics.

In the earlier hearings before the commission that originated the plan for an arbitral tribunal, Mr. Beatty blamed many of the troubles of both railroads to political considerations. He asserted that the benefits of competition between the two railroads had been greatly exaggerated and the expense resulting has been out of proportion to its value to the public.

"Impartial consideration of railway problems has been defeated in Canada on occasions by political considerations," he charged. "The railway duplication which has largely brought about the present situation was strongly protested by the Canadian Pacific, but its protests were unheeded because they ran counter to the then public policy. The Canadian National forced the pace and had the financial backing of the government. We had to compete or drop behind."

Mr. Beatty pointed out that the two railroads represent about 38,000 miles but that Canada has not enough population to create the traffic necessary to support two separate competing systems. Moreover, the two roads present more than three billion dollars of capital. He outlined some means of voluntary coöperation between the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National to avoid duplicate services but he asserted that complete unification of the two systems is required to permit the greatest economies in operation.

CENT. ILLINOIS PUBLIC SERVICE VOTES DIVIDEND

The Central Illinois Public Service company today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the preferred stock. No action was taken on the common stock.

The Central Illinois Public Service company is controlled by the Middle West Utility company, Insull holding company now in receivership. The company supplies utility service to 470 communities in central and southern Illinois. The dividend is payable Dec. 31.

Phone Dispute Perils Spanish, U. S. Relations

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—[Special.]—Diplomatic relations between the United States and Spain have become so strained by threatened passage of legislation confiscating American telephone investments amounting to $65,000,000 that tonight it was learned the United States is considering withdrawal of diplomatic recognition.

The issue reaches a crisis tomorrow when action to repeal the charter of the National Telephone of Spain, a concern largely owned by the International Telephone and Telegraph company, is to come before the cortes. Labor trouble is the basis for the dispute.

Threat to Void Contract.

The introduction of a bill voiding the National Telephone company's contract under which it enjoys a monopoly of the telephone service in Spain was followed a few days ago by the dispatch of a note of protest by the state department. In this communication the department pointed out that passage of the bill would violate the contract entered into by the I. T. & T. with the former royalist government in Spain back in 1924.

In its reply the Spanish government declined to enter into diplomatic discussion of the telephone matter, stating it was a purely domestic proceeding. The state department has not answered this note and will not reply until after the cortes acts on the confiscation bill, probably tomorrow.

In its diplomatic handling of the telephone matter the state department has called the attention of Spanish officials to the fact that it had given assurances that contracts entered into by the royalist regime would not be disavowed.

Practical Confiscation.

The Spanish government was informed that the legislation would result in practical confiscation of the American company's investment and would work a real injustice. Surprise over the approval of the telephone bill by the Spanish government was expressed. In conclusion the state department indicated its intention to take firm independent steps to defend the interests of this company.

Francisco Largo Caballero, minister of labor, had issued an ultimatum about two weeks ago that the company must join workers and republic officials in selecting new officers of a mixed labor commission on penalty of being fined 3,000 pesetas [about $240] weekly until further action could be taken. Radical deputies have demanded the monopoly be abrogated.

TOBACCO PRICES BETTER THAN '31; SALES DOUBLED

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 5.—(AP)—With some of the medium to fair grades bringing prices from 50 to 100 per cent more than last year, and good grades bringing considerably less than last season's figures, the Lexington Burley tobacco market opened today with sales totaling 1,214,255 pounds, which brought $153,587.30, an average of $12.65.

The general average was nearly $1 per hundred higher than the $11.74 average made on the opening day last season. The number of pounds sold was double that of last year's first day.

There were a number of rejections but none of the disorder that marked the opening day last year, although the crowd was one of the largest that ever attended an opening sale here.

RISE IN EDISON STOCK HINTS OF DIVIDEND BOOST

An advance yesterday in Commonwealth Edison company shares on the Chicago exchange led to a revival of reports that the directors of the company may decide to increase the dividend rate on the stock early next year. Only 350 shares appeared on the tape yesterday but the closing price of 71¾ was a net gain of 2¾ points from its last week's final quotation.

Belief that directors may increase the present dividend is based on favorable earnings record which the company has made this year. In the twelve months ended Sept. 30 the company earned net profit equivalent to $8.95 a share as compared with the current annual dividend of $5 a share.

Cuts Made to Aid Reserve.

The express purpose of the dividend reduction which was voted last June was to build up the cash reserves. Reductions were voted the same time by Peoples Gas Light and Coke company and the Public Service company of Northern Illinois. Edison and Gas shares were placed on a $5 annual basis and Public Service adopted a $3 rate. Prior to that time each of the companies had paid $8 yearly.

Stockholders were told at that time that restoration of the old rates must await an improvement in the cash positions of the companies. At that time each of the companies was faced with the necessity of refunding large bond isues. The bond market was unfavorable and the companies were handicapped by the fact that the Insull holding and investment companies had just collapsed. The companies successfully floated 58 millions of bonds.

Earnings Hold up Well.

Since that time the earnings of the company have held up well and the cash position of Commonwealth Edison as well as Peoples Gas and Public Service has improved. Operating economies have contributed to this improvement.

Now La Salle street believes that part of the old rates may be restored. A possible increase to $7 annually for Edison and Peoples Gas has been mentioned.

CENTRAL PUBLIC SERVICE DENIES CHARGES OF PLOT

The Central Public Service company in an answer filed in the United States District court yesterday denied the allegations obtained in the recent bankruptcy suit filed against it. In its bill the company declared that the reorganization plan put into effect last August was made for the benefit of the creditors and debenture holders alike.

In a hearing last week before Judge John P. Barnes, Attorney Michael Gesas, counsel for the petitioner, charged that the company had consented to appointment of a receiver in Baltimore in order to thwart the action here. In its answer yesterday the company also denied this charge. Assets, books and records of the company were removed to Baltimore prior to the filing of the petition and the company has a new set of officers also residing in Baltimore, the answer asserts. The general allegation of conspiracy to defraud is also denied.

Judge Barnes will conduct a hearing this morning on the petition to appoint a receiver in this district.

Franc Drops to Near Gold Export Point

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 5.—Prospective shipments of gold from France came nearer to an actuality when the rate on Paris slumped ¼ of a point further today, being offered at 3.90½, a new low record for the year. The potential gold shipping point for French exchange is figured to be slightly under 3.90⅝ and at the new low point only about 3-16 of a point remains before gold would begin to move outward from France on an exchange transaction. Banking opinion here has held for some weeks past that before the end of the present year a large movement of gold from Paris to the United States would be under way.

Sterling moved erratically. In the early dealings the English currency mainly followed the London market and moved off 1 7-16 cents to 3.17 9-16. Later the pound retraced all the ground lost and then moved up to 3.20 1-16 for a net gain of 1 1-16 cents. Scandinavians followed sterling trend, closing higher for the day. Italian lire were up 1 point. Japanese yen lost ¼ of a cent, while Chinese was unaltered.

Canadian dollars were in moderately better demand, gaining ⅛ cent to 85.

STOCKS SEESAW WITH FORTUNES OF GARNER BILL

Close Finds Prices Slightly Higher.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 5.—To the exclusion of other news sources, Wall street had its eyes cocked on the house of representatives today and the fate of the Garner prohibition repeal resolution. With the ebb and flow of news from the capital the stock market blew warm and then cool.

Starting dull, but firm, the share list stiffened through the late morning as assurance came that the repeal measure would be brought up for a vote. Gain in that period ranged from 1 to 3 points, and as indications of wet strength mounted there were signs that the recovery would go still further.

But the poll on the resolution failed to bear out early hopes and the market forthwith turned off sharply. Leaders which had been strong in the morning receded 1 to 4 points from their best levels.

Selling Grows Heavier.

Without further ado traders sold stocks in all directions. The late selling wave contributed the bulk of the day's volume—around 800,000 shares—and caused the new high speed ticker to fall minutes behind.

However, the tone made a persistent turn for the better in the last few minutes of trading which brought leaders at the close to levels in general slightly above Saturday's close. It seemed that the narrow margin of repeal defeat, by six votes, softened the blow, and there was a tendency after calmer study of the vote to interpret it as strengthening the possibilities for modification.

Further accounting for the windup rally was the fact that traders could turn for solace to a stronger tone in wheat and other commodities and an improvement in sterling. Observers were especially impressed by the resistance the share list continued to show around the low levels of the October-November trading range.

Repeal Shares Do Little.

Curiously enough, the so-called repeal shares played little part in the early upward movement. An exception was Owens Glass, which registered a high of 36¼ just before the roll call on the repeal resolution. But traders in that stock paid for their optimism when it broke 5 points from

HEADS ENGINEERS

DEAN A. A. POTTER.
[Acme Photo.]

New York, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Election of Dean Andrey A. Potter of the school of engineering of Purdue university as president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was announced today at the opening of the society's 53d annual meeting. About 2,000 engineers, economists, scientists, and educators are attending the meeting.

Dean Potter, former consulting expert to the United States department of the interior, has been associated with Purdue since 1920. He succeeds Conrad H. Lauer of Philadelphia.

The society also announced award of the George W. Melville medal for a thesis of exceptional merit to Dr. Alexey J. Stepanoff, design engineer of Berkeley, Cal.

CANADIAN FIRM SELLS 15 MILLION FEET OF LUMBER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 5.—Signing of a contract by which 15,000,000 feet of sawn lumber will be delivered to English markets during the summer of 1933 was announced by John H. Price, vice president of Price Bros. & Co., today. The buyer is Price & Pierce of London, England.

The work will provide employment for 500 men immediately.

U. S. WILL DELAY FUNDING OF HUGE FLOATING DEBT

Six Billions in Notes; Most Held by Banks.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Conversion of the federal government's huge floating debt, consisting of approximately 6 billion dollars of short term securities held largely by the nation's banks, will not be attempted before the end of the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, 1933. The government will continue for the balance of the year to finance its current needs, including its depression relief schemes, by short term borrowing, it is learned in responsible financial quarters.

Thus, when the government opens its next fiscal year it will be faced with the problem of transferring this big load of short term debt from the banks and other holders into long term bonds to be sold to the public. The ability of the market to absorb securities which are now held by the banks will depend on developments in the next few months.

U. S. Credit Condition Key.

Bankers believe that credit conditions through the country during the next several months will hinge in general on the government's operations. Other short term credit which banks have extended to commercial enterprises cannot be funded until the government has taken care of its conversion problem, it is declared.

The government is now marking time until treasury authorities feel that conditions will enable it to fund its debt at moderate interest rates. How cheaply the government is able to do this remains to be seen.

The abnormally low rates at which the government has been able to obtain short term credit from the banks does not give an accurate gauge of what it will have to pay on long term borrowings.

The banks in their desire to maintain extreme liquidity have advanced the government money at extremely low rates. This method of financing, however, cannot be continued indefinitely.

Some Banks Worried.

Some financiers privately express concern over increasing amount of government securities held by the banks. They point out that such securities should properly be placed in the hands of the public. With banks holding the bulk of such issues they

NEW ESTATE TAXES AND YOUR ESTATE

THE NEW Federal Estate Taxes became effective June 6, 1932.

If your will was made prior to that date its provisions should be reviewed by your attorney in the light of the new tax rates.

We have prepared a leaflet showing 1932 Illinois Inheritance and Federal Estate Taxes. A copy will be sent free, upon request.

New York, Dec. 5.—Listlessness ruled the bond market today. Trading was in small volume and prices changed little. There appeared no strong backing for speculative issues, and liquidation was light, leaving the market's level virtually unchanged.

A waiting attitude, produced by the many business and political uncertainties, was the dominant mood among traders. With the market's trend now subject to a variety of unpredictable factors, there is a tendency among speculators to liquidate their accounts pending the arrival of conditions more favorable to an upward trend.

Market Wants Definite Trend.

This process of liquidating accounts until the market outlook may be appraised more clearly is generally held responsible for the acute weakness which developed in speculative bonds at the close of last week.

Somewhat greater market stability today indicated that most speculative positions have been adjusted to the uncertainties which lie ahead.

Besides the political situation, the present trend of car loadings and the outlook for rail earnings are serving as deterrents to extensive speculative holdings. Traders have little in the way of optimistic news to look forward to, since carloadings are on a down trend and earnings statements for 1932 will make poor reading.

Other Sections Dull.

Trading in other parts of the bond market also was restricted by the hesitancy to enter upon new commitments at present. United States government bonds were traded in in small volume. High grade corporation bonds were steady but dull. Trading in foreign bonds was at a minimum.

Extreme dullness in United States governments was not surprising, since this part of the market is more directly affected than any other by the matters to be considered by congress at the present session.

High grade bonds displayed the same insensitiveness to news developments which has characterized them in recent months. Having little to gain or lose by the decisions of congress, prime utility bonds continued to sell in relation to the present abnormally low cost of money.

1930 Tax Strikers?

TO THE EDITOR: Last spring through the advice of a friend, I joined the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, it costing me $12 to join. I am a widow and found it hard to pay my 1930 taxes of $237, all previous taxes paid. Since, I have saved up enough but am advised not to pay until the case is settled in the Supreme court where they say it is still pending. After the ruling in Judge Jarecki's court, I thought it was all settled that we would all have to pay, but the association informs me they are still expecting a reduction.

Now, I do not want any trouble on my home or have it put up for sale. In the meantime, isn't the bill getting larger by one per cent each month? Should I pay now, or part, or wait as the association advises. I understand all property taxes not paid have already been entered for judgment. When I pay, will this be stricken off or will there be a cloud on the title. Would appreciate an early answer.—H. M.

ANSWER: Our present tax situation is far from being straightened out and the property owners must take some action regarding payments. We recommend a portion of the taxes be paid even though you do not consider them correct. This shows good faith on your part and gives you standing when applying for an adjustment or paying your bill.

We suggest you call at the county clerk's office in the county building, Chicago, and arrange to pay a portion of 1930 taxes. We understand the penalty rate will be cut in half.

You also can file a complaint with the county board of appeals regarding the 1931 bill. Your 1930 case was presented to the court by the Tax association and, therefore, it is too late to file with the board of appeals. George F. Nixon is chairman of the board of appeals.

Interest Payment Waived.

TO THE EDITOR: I have to pay $210 on the 14th of this month. I haven't worked for a long time and will not be able to pay the note when due. I have an equity of about $8,000 in the property and want to hold on to it as long as I can. Is there any chance of getting an extension on the note for six months? Thanking you for your advice, I am,—P. P.

ANSWER: If you will furnish us the name of the holder of the mortgage, we shall be glad to write them regarding the advisability of waiving the prepayment temporarily. We know a number of cases where a substantial equity is represented where this has been done.

RESULT: The mortgage holder has consented to waive the payment of interest for six months and the consideration given this case is appreciated.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Progress of the vote on prohibition repeal in the house of representatives was the deciding factor in turning the grain markets upward in the last few minutes of trading Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Reports that the wets had a margin to spare over the two thirds majority necessary to resubmit the act to the states led to wave of commission house and local buying which swept wheat up 1⅛@1⅝c over the early low point.

A minute before the close announcement that the final vote showed the proposition to have been defeated by a narrow margin brought in selling which carried the price off around ⅜c from the top, but the market closed ⅝@1¼c higher, with December leading.

Wheat Dull in Early Trading.

Up to the time the buying on rumors that the prohibition repeal bill had passed were circulated the wheat market had fluctuated within narrow limits, with the chief buying coming from local shorts who had oversold early, and who were evening up for the vote. The December grain was affected to some extent by reports of a fairly active domestic demand for cash wheat and went to 37¾c under May at the last, closing at 44½@44⅝c, compared with 4⅝c discount on Saturday.

July wheat finished at 48⅛@48⅝c, with the trade paying little attention to the continued drought in the west and southwest and extremely pessimistic views expressed regarding the crop outlook in reports from that section.

According to trade gossip there were liberal sales of cash wheat by local handlers, but the details were not given out. Scattered buying of the May was again in evidence, and with congress in session it is expected that the domestic allotment scheme of farm relief will gradually increase in importance as a market influence, as far as mills are concerned.

Visible Supply Decreases.

The trade was entirely unprepared for a decrease of 4,637,000 bu wheat in the domestic visible supply, although there had been considerable comment of late because of the limited movement from farms. Not a car of country run wheat has been sold in the local sample market since Nov. 23, and millers, chicken feed mixers, and other interests are being forced to draw grain from store to take care of their daily requirements. The visible supply is now down to 171,376,000 bu, compared with 217,654,000 bu last year.

While there were reports of 750,000 bu Manitoba wheat being sold for export, there was no interest taken in American hard winter, as Chicago prices remain relatively the highest in the world and Winnipeg the lowest, figuring wheat from Canada on a gold basis. Canadian wheat is the lowest on record, and it is necessary to go back to 1588 to find comparable figures for Liverpool. The latter closed unchanged to ⅛c per bu lower and Winnipeg ⅝@⅞c higher, both figured in gold. Buenos Aires was off ⅝c for the day.

Corn Slightly Higher.

Trade in corn was slow, with prices dipping fractionally early, only to rally toward the last on rumors that the prohibition repeal vote had been favorable. Closing trades were ⅛@¼c higher, with December at 23@23⅛c; May, 27⅞@28c, and July, 29½c. Shipping demand was slow, with sales of 27,000 bu, while the country sold 20,000 bu to arrive. A decrease of 241,000 bu in the visible supply brought the total down to 26,081,000 bu, against 9,624,000 bu last year.

Scattered buying developed in oats, and with light offerings the close was ¾@⅞c higher. December was 14¾c and May 17⅜ at the close. Rye was ½@1¼c higher with wheat. December finishing at 29⅜c and May at 33⅛c. Barley was more affected by the prohibition rumors than other grains and closed 1⅝c higher, with May at 34½c.

EGG FUTURES RALLY

Butter and egg futures showed but slight net changes at the close on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, eggs gaining ¼c, while butter was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher. The egg market was decidedly under the influence of weather conditions. Uncertainty as to production as a result of present mild weather made for nervousness which was accentuated by relatively bearish storage news, received early in the session. Selling was active and the market declined rapidly but toward mid-session there was a slight improvement in the statistical reports and new buying and short covering caused a rally. Two of the four major storage centers reported net inward movements of eggs, the total in the four markets showing a net outward movement of 10,800 cases less than last year. The same four cities moved 174,000 lbs more butter out than last year, which helped the market at the close. Sales: butter, 80 cars; eggs, 120 cars. Deliveries: butter 20 cars; eggs, 15 cars. STOCKS SEESAW WITH FORTUNES OF GARNER BILL

Other shares in this newly popular group edged off in lesser degree than Owens Glass. Crown Cork and Seal was down almost 2 points on the day and Industrial Alcohol off a fraction. The volume of dealings in them, however, was comparatively high.

Elsewhere the best group performance was made by the rails. Santa Fé, Lackawanna, Norfolk and Western, New York Central, and Union Pacific, among others, rose 1 to 3 points to set the pace for other sections of the market during the morning spurt. While carriers joined the others in the late backward slide, small gains were predominant among them at the close.

Pivotals Perform Well.

Pivotal industrials looked as good as any of the others when the trend was on the upside and after the slump they came back in impressive fashion. While United States Steel was unchanged on the day, after ruling one point higher in the morning, fractional net gains were scored among American Can, Du Pont, General Electric, General Motors, and Westinghouse.

American Telephone was neglected and its fractional net setback drew little attention. Other utilities, though, held their own, with small net rises in Consolidated Gas and North American.

Gains were, in the majority elsewhere, largely the result of the rally just before the close. Active shares in various sections to close a little above Saturday's final quotations included Allied Chemical, American Tobacco B, Borden, Chrysler, International Harvester, International Nickel, Montgomery Ward, Union Carbide, and United Aircraft.

Throughout the day the preferred section was weak. Price losses ranged from 2 points to 14½ points, the greatest recession occurring in Associated Dry Goods second preferred. Commercial Investment Trust 6½ per cent moved nearly 4 points against the trend.

WOMEN REALTY BROKERS BALK AT SEX LINE

Banquet Rumpus Brings Threats.

BY AL CHASE.

Announcement that women possibly would be barred from the January banquet as well as from all privileges of the merged Chicago Real Estate board and the Cook County Real Estate board brought threats of resignation yesterday from some of the eight women members of the latter organization. Wives of members also complained more mildly but just as emphatically at the possibility of having the banquet doors closed against them. They pointed out that this had been a privilege they had enjoyed during the twenty-four years of the life of the Cook County Real Estate board and they wanted it continued.

"If we pay our dues I don't see why we aren't entitled to the same benefits as the men members," said Mrs. Estelle Pearce of 139 North Clark street, a member of the Cook County Real Estate board. "If we can't enjoy the privileges of the Chicago Real Estate board we won't pay any dues—that is, we'll resign.

"This threat not to let women members of the Cook County Real Estate board go to the banquet next January of the merged boards isn't fair. I think the attendance of women at an affair of this kind is an asset and not a detriment."

Calls 'em Old Fogies.

"There's a lot of old fogies on the Chicago Real Estate board," complained Miss Bernice E. Peters of 77 West Washington street, also a member of the Cook County board. "And the older they are the worse they get. They must think we'll use our wiles on them. We really won't harm the poor old dears. So long as we pay our dues, however, we're entitled to use the board rooms and dining room and attend the banquet, I think."

Miss Marion F. Leighton of the realty firm of Leighton & Streich, 160 North La Salle street, another one of the eight women members of the Cook County Real Estate board, joined in the chorus of protest against their contemplated expatriation from the merged realty body.

"It goes without saying that if we're members in good standing and pay our dues we're entitled to everything in the way of board privileges that the men have," said Miss Leighton. "We at least should have the right to say whether or not we're going to remain on the board when the merger takes place."

Rumor Starts Row.

The annual banquets of the Cook County Real Estate board always have been attended by the wives of members. The yearly festivities of the Chicago Real Estate board have always been stag affairs. Following the announcement last week that the merger of the two boards at last was assured, came a rumor that the realtors would bar women from the banquet of the two boards as well as from the board's dining room and headquarters at 34 West Randolph street. This at once started a rumpus which is still raging.

It was pointed out by one realty man that if women were permitted to attend, not only would the 200 or more wives of Cook County members attend, but probably in the neighborhood of 500 wives of realtors. In that event the January banquet probably would be a record breaker in attendance.

COTTON TRADE LIGHT; PRICES SAG LOWER

A light trade and a lower range with the finish around the inside of the day, recording net losses on futures in Chicago of 3@7 points, and other markets of 5@8 points. The range was only 10@13 points for the day. Spots were 5 points lower, 5.70c in New York, 5.55c in New Orleans; Galveston 5.60c and Houston 5.45c. Liverpool was 2@3 points net lower.

The Miller-Bennett report estimated the crop at 12,223,000 bales, with ginnings to Dec. 1 of 11,419,000 bales, compared with 15,018,000 bales last year. Average of estimates of 86 members of the New York Cotton exchange on the Government report due on Dec. 8 is a crop of 12,146,000 bales against the government estimate on Nov. 1 of 11,947,000 bales.

World's supply of all cotton at the end of October, including the unpicked portion of the crop was 34,055,000 bales against 34,707,000 bales last year. World's production is 23,400,000 bales against 27,500,000 bales last season, and a five year average of 24,100,000 bales. Prices follow:

U. S. WILL DELAY FUNDING OF HUGE FLOATING DEBT

Six Billions in Notes Held Mainly by Banks.

constitute a threat to the market. The conditions which would cause one bank to sell to governments would be influencing other banks in the same direction. When one bank is selling other banks are usually selling, too.

Banks last week again added to their holdings of governments. This is shown in the weekly report on the position of member banks in the principal cities, which was issued last night. An increase of $14,000,000 in investments in the governments was shown for the week ended Nov. 30.

Commercial Credit Expands.

The increase in government holdings, however, was accompanied by another expansion in commercial credit. Total loans and discounts expanded 38 millions to a current total of 10 billion 413 million. This is greater than the increase recorded in the previous week when loans gained 32 millions.

The recent contraction in commercial deposits was reversed. Demand deposits increased sharply by 186 millions. Seasonal withdrawals for holding spending was reflected in a decrease of 14 millions in time deposits.

Government deposits show another decline of 18 millions. This indicates that the banks are continuing to give up unprofitable business. With no profitable outlet for their funds they are unwilling to pay interest of 2¼ per cent on government funds.

FILE BANKRUPT PETITION AGAINST HOTEL PEARSON

As a step in clearing up the title for the benefit of the bondholders, a petition of involuntary bankruptcy was filed yesterday against the Pearson Hotel corporation, owner of the Pearson hotel, at Pearson and Seneca streets, before Judge Carpenter of the Federal District court. Liabilities of $1,000,000 are claimed, with no assets.

The Pearson hotel was financed through a Greenebaum Sons Investment company bond issue of approximately $1,000,000, since paid down to $980,000. According to Attorneys Ringer, Wilhartz & Hirsch yesterday's court action will not affect the reorganization other than to facilitate its operation.

LANDLORDS FIND LIGGETT CO. MAY AVOID RECEIVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 5.—A preliminary study of the business of the Louis K. Liggett company indicates that the concern, occupying 550 locations in principal cities, may be able to continue in business provided the landlords will show a "spirit of cooperation."

This was announced today by the newly formed landlords' national protective commitee, headed by Roland S. Morris. The committe was formed in an effort to avert bankruptcy or receivership after a local landlord had instituted proceedings before Federal Judge George A. Welsh and restrain the company from going into bankruptcy.

Bankers' Acceptance Rates Are Cut ⅛ of 1 Per Cent

New York, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The American Acceptance council today announced a reduction of ⅛ of 1 per cent in the rates on bankers' acceptances. The new rates are: 30 to 90 days, ½ per cent bid, ⅜ per cent asked; four months, ⅜ per cent bid, ½ per cent asked; five-six months, ⅝ per cent bid, ¾ per cent asked. The reduction in yield rates is equivalent to an advance in the prices of the bills. Banking quarters attributed the change to the continued relatively small supply of bills.

SMALL RECEIPTS HELP HOG PRICES; CATTLE DECLINE

Expect Swine Shipments to Continue Light.

Influenced by a marked decrease in receipts which had been expected, hogs rose 5@15c in a mildly active trade yesterday. There were no signs of a runaway market, but buying orders kept enough ahead of available offerings to carry the higher level of quotations through to the close.

Selected light and underweights topped the market a $3.50, a short load reaching $3.55, while the general average for the day moved up 10c to $3.35. Only picked over hogs remained in the pens at the close.

There was a feeling in the trade at the end of last week that the recent break in prices would curb country loading for this week. Points farthest west of Chicago reported the biggest decreases. The combined receipts of 113,000 at the 11 leading eastern and western markets were 31,000 head, or 22 per cent smaller than last Monday and 78,000 head, or 41 per cent smaller than a year ago. It was one of the smallest runs on record for Monday after show week.

Expect Light Receipts.

J. M. Waters of Armour, judge of the hogs in the live stock show, interprets this decrease in receipts as being indicative of the more optimistic attitude in the country. "Hogs are unquestionably in stronger hands, and if the urrent level of prices the movement will probably not be heavy for several weeks yet," he said. "It is significant that with every break comes a curtailment of supplies. Each time hogs go below 3c per pound net in the country, farmers decide to hold back. This price has been a supply leverage for several weeks. At a little above the 3c line hogs pour into all points.

"Narrow price movements are likely to continue into part of 1933. The country has plenty of hogs, but the farmer is in a position to keep the market supply in a par with the demand so long as his corn holds out, and he has a bumper crop. Farmers this fall turned more hogs into the cornfield than ever before, particularly since the retrograde price movements began in grain and swine. 'Hogging down' corn will undoubtedly take additional millions of bu of grain off the market, but it will further influence the farmer to hold hogs longer. Corn 'down' in the fields must be cleaned up before the hogs are shipped to eliminate waste of grain."

Cattle Prices Slip.

Cattle ran into a bog yesterday and found the going rather difficult with prices easing into lower ground most of the day. Previous low records for the year were broken when the top load of steers cashed in at $7.60, a new low Monday top which shows a loss of $1.05 compared with a month ago.

Eight steers averaging 1,125 lbs sold at $8.00, but very few full loads and only a small proportion of the total supply sold above $7.00. Bulk of beef steers brought $4.50@7.00. Plain cattle with fair beef yield ranged down to $3.75. Inferior and ill bred stock carrying little kill sold in small lots at $2.50@3.00.

It was evident at a late hour that a good carryover would be brought into the market for today. Beef steers comprised a generous part of the run and lost fully 25c with some off more. Other cattle ruled weak to 25c lower.

Best Lambs Steady.

Best grades of lambs held firm again, selected natives being handpicked by city butchers up to $6.25, while shippers bought fed westerns at $6.10 and packers bought at $6.00 and under. Plainer kinds, however, ruled weak to slightly lower, some lacking good flesh going at 10@15c decline.

Reports from the country indicate that many lambs in areas tributary to the Chicago market are fat and ready to come in, but with grain cheap the owners are determined to put on every pound possible before turning them into the market. Margins between costs of feeders and the slaughter lamb price are favorable, as well as the cost of gains. Many of these lambs have been on grain for more than two months and are running into weight. As about 50 per cent of those in southern Minnesota, northeastern Iowa, and eastern South Dakota are being fed on contract, the feeder is anxious for weight. Heavy lambs for this winter are almost guaranteed.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 8,000 cattle, 31,000 hogs, and 10,000 sheep, against 7,857 cattle, 37,115 hogs, and 11,957 sheep the previous Tuesday and 8,949 cattle, 33,902 hogs, and 25,817 sheep a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today and no sales were reported. The undertone was steady, with buyers believed willing to pay last prices or 2.85c for spots, with holders asking from 2.88c to 2.90c. Futures were irregular with trading moderate. Sales were 10,650 tons. According to some reports in the trade, Java will cut its sowing for the 1934 crop to approximately one million tons, against sowings for the 1933 crop of 1,300,000 tons. It was also reported likely that Cuba would outturn less than the 2,000,000 tons next year as was decreed. Prices follow:
